Karlsruhe Again Hit By R.A.F.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The Royal Air Force today resumed daylight battering of the German-held coast of northern France, following up night raids into Germnay in which Karlsruhe and other Rhineland points were bombed.

The whine of fighter planes and the roar of bombing planes resounded over the southeast English coast and the following dull explosions across the water told observers that French targets were being bombed again.

Shortly after the first sweep went over, the fighters came streaking back. A long burst of cannon fire from these escort ships indicated a dogfight near the shore.

BOMB U-BOAT BASE

The night attacks, which included bombing of St. Nazaire, were announced by the air ministry.

The Air Ministry announced that 11 German planes were destroyed in today's daylight operations over France, at a cost of 10 R.A.F. planes. Two of the pilots of downed British planes were reported safe. One British plane was lost last night.

St. Nazaire is used by the Nazis as a submarine base from which to prey on shipping in the Atlantic and in the channel.

In addition to the Karlsruhe raid, a small number of bombers carried out "harassing raids" on southwest Germany.

The air ministry said loads of bombs burst on the target area at Karlsruhe and fires were started.

Arms Urgently Needed To Hold Russian Front

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—An authoritative source declared today Britain and the United States must quickly pour a Niagara of war supplies into Russia to make up Soviet losses and prevent a turn disastrous to the Allies in "the greatest battle in history."

That battle, he said, now is swaying either way.

He added Hitler probably would launch a separate peace offensive and warned that if the Russians do not get equipment and weapons they might be forced to lay down their arms.

"The whole history of the world," he went on, "turns on the outcome of this battle."

MAKE TASK HARDER

Even if Russia were beaten, he added, Britain would fight on, "but our task then would become much harder."

Saying that casualties in the East were rising to "astronomical heights"

Government Gets Shah's Property

TEHERAN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Iran's new 21-year-old Shah has decided to cede all the possessions of his fabulously rich father as a gift to the nation, the government announced today.

The new ruler also has prepared a general amnesty decree for all political prisoners of the regime of his abdicated father, it was announced.

The former Shah, a one-time Cossack cavalryman, reputedly was the richest man in Asia when he gave up his throne this week.

Seizure of this property was actually decided upon at a secret parliamentary session prior to taking of the oath yesterday by the new Shah who promised to rule as a constitutional monarch

IRON OUT DIFFICULTIES

Difficulties attending the Russian British occupation of Teheran, including Soviet detention of Italian Minister Luigi Petrucci for several hours, were reported to have been ironed out at a joint staff conference.

"The whole history of the world," he went on, "turns on the outcome of this battle."

Red troops arrested Petrucci last night and held him until the British legation intervened.

Soviet detachments were ordered to withdraw from a machine-gun factory so that a British brigade in the joint occupation, ordered to hasten Iranian compliance with peace terms, might bivouack there.

The British forces had to camp in a desert gully seven miles from town last night because the Russians controlled all roads and refused to let their allies pass without Maj.-Gen. Novikev's direct command.

Members of the British legation and British nationals were unable to reach their homes in suburban Shemrun until the Soviet general gave instructions to the highway guards.

British Capture 10 German Tanks

Crawford Is Named For Post

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Sept. 18—Rentals control will be established in Edmonton as requested by the Edmonton city council, almost immediately, it was learned here. The Edmonton situation has recently been studied by Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, federal rental administrator.

The Edmonton application for rental control, although not unanimously approved by city council vote, has been accepted in principle here it is learned.

The local administration of rent control is now assigned to country and district courts and if the usual practice is followed the Edmonton rent controller will be the local district judge, His Honor Judge J. L. Crawford.

The rental level established under all recent rent owners has been that prevailing on Jan. 1 1941. Any changes from the leases in effect on that date if rent control is established would have to be approved by the local controller to be binding.

Hearings would be opened following regular proceedings in chambers with tenants and landlords admitted as witnesses on all disputes. Where rent control now exists regular and almost continuous hearings have been held.

To secure a reduction of rent a tenant can make application to the local controller. This starts the machinery operating and the application is handled virtually as a court case.

F.D.R. Requests Big Amount For Lease-Lend Aid

By CARL PETERSEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(BUP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to appropriate $5,985,000,000 to continue lend-lease aid to nations battling the Axis through June 30, 1943.

The president's request for funds to be used over the next two years indicated preparations for a long war.

He asked that he be left free to provide lend-lease aid to any coun-

1,546 Bags Mail Sent Overseas Lost En Route

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The post office department announced today receipt of word that 1,546 bags of Canadian mail destined for the United Kingdom and leaving the Dominion during the last week in August had been lost through enemy action.

The mail was made up as follows: 14 bags of registered mail, 153 bags of letters, 433 bags of newspapers, 946 bags of parcels. Included in the shipment were 1,293 bags from the base post office at Ottawa containing military mail for soldiers overseas.

Postal authorities said it was difficult to say exactly what the date of mailing would be on the mail lost but probably most of it had been mailed during the first 2½ weeks of August.

Bulgaria Mobilizes Forces As Soviet Relations Tense

ANKARA, Sept. 17—(Delayed)—(AP)—Balkan diplomatic sources said today they had information that Bulgaria, whose diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia are tense, is mobilizing her armed forces rapidly and already has summoned 350,000 men to arms.

In addition to these Bulgarian forces, informed sources said, three German divisions or more are in Bulgaria.

British sources said today the British embassy had been informed by the Turks that Bulgaria had made no proposal to permit warships purchased from Italy to pass through the Dardanelles straits into the Black Sea, as reported here in high quarters. Turkey controls the Dardanelles.

The Balkan informants said the engineering organization of Dr. Fritz Todt, which built Germany's Westwall and great motor highway system, was working at top pressure to construct roads in southern and eastern Bulgaria which would be useful in any military action toward the Suez canal.

Six hundred German engineers and 6,000 Serbian laborers also were reported by those sources as repairing the railroad between Belgrade and Nis, one of the main routes from

MACKENZIE KING WARNS:

Free Peoples Must Act As One To Defeat Nazis

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Free forces of the world must act "increasingly as one," Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in a speech Wednesday, "if humanity is to be spared a prolonged and bitter agony."

In his first public address since his return from Britain, delivered at a Canadian club dinner and broadcast over a national network, Mr. King said that "nothing less than one vast brotherhood of freedom will suffice today to preserve the world's freedom."

The prime minister quoted from President Roosevelt's speech announcing American action against Axis raiders in the North Atlantic to illustrate his warning of the danger to the Americas if Europe is completely conquered.

"It must surely be apparent that if freedom is to be preserved anywhere in this world we have now come to a time and place where forces of vaster scope and proportions than those of any single nation or empire, however powerful, must unite in opposing those forces which today seek world conquest and world domination," the prime minister said.

"Union merely in purpose and aim will not be sufficient," he declared

Nothing in recent months had been more significant than the recognition of the deepening interdependence of the British Commonwealth and the United States.

That deepening interdependence had not developed because the nations of the British Commonwealth were weaker than hitherto—"They are, I believe—in fact I know—far

Today's War Moves

A GERMAN drive for the oil fields of the Caucasus much earlier than had been expected, by means of a short-cut through the German peninsula is suggested by today's war developments in the Ukraine.

If the German push maintains its present rate of progress and is not stopped by a determined Russian rally, the fall of the Crimea appears not unlikely.

The historic peninsula, scene of the ill-starred British-French war against Russia in 1856, is only four miles from the shore of the Caucasus region. It is bordered on the east by the Sea of Azov, which is connected with the Black Sea by the Strait of Yenikale.

The Germans, having broken through to the Black Sea and surrounded Odessa to the northwest, are within striking distance of the Crimea. They already are reported to have reached the Perekop isthmus which connects Crimea with the Russian mainland.

The isthmus is only three to four miles wide, which would en-

All Males 16-50 Will Be Trained

MOSCOW, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Soviet sources declared today a new defence decree broadening compulsory military training was aimed at creating the largest reserve army in history—one capable of bleeding the Nazi army until final Soviet victory.

Under the new program ordered by Stalin's Soviet defence committee in search of fresh reserves to strengthen Russia's resistance, all male civilians between the ages of 16 and 50 will be required to prepare for service in a vast civilian army.

They will stay at their jobs but, starting next Wednesday, will train after work for a total of 110 hours with political commissars and older non-commissioned officers as instructors.

MUST EXPECT LONG WAR

"Every citizen who is capable of bearing arms must have military training so that he may be ready to defend his country with weapons in his hands," the defence committee said.

"Realization of this measure is of enormous significance in the entire course of the people's war against German Fascism," declared Red Star, the organ of the Red army.

"Our nation never was the slave of the Germans or other enemies and shall not become a slave now. "Autumn fogs have attended the

NEW BUDGET PAYMENT PLAN STARTS

Fewer Dodgers Are Seen Despite Heaviest Taxes Ever Levied In Dominion

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—The Canadian taxpayer, having uttered a sigh of relief on sending in the final instalment of his 1940 tax, now grimly reaches for another slip of paper and starts to figure out his 1941 tax.

If he wants to pay by instalment he must send in his first cheque by the end of this month, basing it on what he estimates his income will be. If he estimates too low he must readjust it by

EXCLUSIVE

March 31, 1942, paying up the under-instalments of September to December as soon as he finds after the end of December what his actual income was in 1941.

If he over-estimates he may make the revision downward. The main thing is that by the end of March he must have his instalments on the correct basis. Prior to that there will be no penalties for under-estimation.

FEW DODGERS

Strange as it may appear, Canadian taxpayers, dizzying down for the greatest taxes they ever paid, have been less inclined to dodge. In normal years the investigation branch of the income tax department has a busy time chasing tax-dodgers. One file has three sets of books: one showing meagre profits—that was for the income tax collector; another showing better profits—that was for the other partners; and a third set showing the real profit that was for the managing partner.

Tax interpretations are stricter than before. Even the dollar a year men who have sacrificed much to aid in the war effort, have to pay taxes on their living allowance. A $20,000 a year man comes to Ottawa and gives his services. The government allows him say $20 a day to cover his living expenses in Ottawa. That dollar-a-year man may take anything from $5 to $10 (depending on how high the victim stands in the upper income tax brackets). All he is allowed to deduct is payment for telegrams, telephones and such. All it costs him to eat and sleep in Ottawa, is taxable.

Germany to the southeast, and the rail line from Sofia to Salonika, also essential for any Aegean or eastern Mediterranean action.

Previously a highly-placed foreign observer who has just returned from Rumania and Bulgaria declared the latter had bought six Italian destroyers in a "smoke screen" sale and asked Turkey to permit their entry into the Black sea.

The assurance that Bulgaria had made no proposal to permit passage of warships through the Dardanelles was given in reply to an inquiry based on repeated rumors that the Axis was using as a "blind" the sale of six Italian destroyers and submarines to non-belligerent Bulgaria in order to strengthen the Axis navy in the Black sea, where the Russian fleet is predominant.

FLEET STUMBLING BLOCK

The Soviet fleet is considered a substantial stumbling block to German use of the seaplanes to supply and reinforce the advance Nazi positions in the Ukraine.

A source usually well-informed said that the Turks were planning a flat refusal to pass the warships through the straits to all but "real" neutrals, which presumably would exclude virtually all European nations.

At present all belligerent war vessels have been prohibited.

A highly-placed foreign observer, on visiting Germany was assured to become stronger in the Black Sea.

Since Italy is a belligerent, her warships would be refused entrance to the Black Sea by the Turks. However, the sale of the destroyers to Bulgaria would present a problem, since Bulgaria is non-belligerent technically.

An observer said Rumanian informants told him that the Germans were seven weeks behind their schedule in the Russian campaign and that they had thus far concealed the real extent of their losses.

He added he was informed that Hitler lost a high percentage of his air squadron leaders in the first days of the campaign.

The Axis has heavy concentrations of troops in Bulgaria, he declared, summarizing them as three German motorized divisions plus units of two others as well as supplementary units of Hungarian, Hungarian anti-aircraft batteries also are augmenting the defences of Varna, Bulgarian Black Sea port, he said.

This traveller said 100 to 200 small craft were concentrated at Burgas and Varna, in Bulgaria, and that foreign observers in Bulgaria had predicted the Danube border between Bulgaria and Rumania would be closed soon, permitting secret assembly of a large number of boats there for a prospective attack against Russia via the Black Sea.

Clung Rumanian dissatisfaction with the war, this informant said foreign observers in Bucharest told him they estimated Rumania already had lost one-fifth of her army.

He said he also was informed the Hungarians had lost half of their 60,000 effectives on the Russian front.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—(CP)—An authoritative source said today reports had been received of an Italian attempt to pass warships through the Turkish-controlled Dardanelles under the Bulgarian flag and that British ambassador in Ankara probably had made representations against this proposal to the Turkish government."

The British envoy was believed to have asked that Bulgaria not be considered a non-belligerent because two British allies, Yugoslavia and Greece, have declared war on her.

Passage of Bulgarian warships therefore would be viewed by the British government as a violation of the Montreux treaty which regulates transit through the Dardanelles.

The London source expressed belief that Turkey sees eye-to-eye with Britain in this matter and added:

"The Turkish government has shown a very keen sense of its responsibility to the British government under the Montreux convention."

emy will have to extend his strength."

"No feeling is more discredited than the feeling that time necessarily is on our side," the Times said.

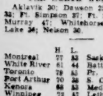

The News Chronicle said: "Somehow, long, long before Hitler's game and let him dispose of his enemies one by one'. . . Will invasion of the continent be any easier in six months, 12 months or two years if Russia is broken through lack of timely diversion? The answer is no. It will probably be impossible and a large proportion of our great army will rot in idleness on our coasts."

Controller Of Construction Is Appointed

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—C. Blake Jackson, Canadian construction expert, has been named controller of construction in the munitions and supply department, Munitions Minister Howe announced today.

Mr. Howe also announced appointment of G. K. Fisken as deputy controller.

As deputy priorities officer and assistant director general of priorities, Mr. Jackson has administered the control of civilian construction in Canada since May of this year. He now becomes a member of the war time industries control board, of which R. C. Berkinshaw is chairman.

LICENSE POWERS

Mr. Howe said, there has been "some misunderstanding" regarding the extent of the powers conveyed by the licenses issued by the department's construction control division for new construction, repair to buildings, and the installation of machinery.

"These licenses do not give any priority to the delivery of materials or supplies," the minister said. "They are issued to control the use of the country's resources of labor, material, and foreign exchange. By prohibiting or postponing non-essential construction until a more favorable time, we can facilitate the supply of those requirements vital to the war effort. The issuance of these licenses has been removed from the priorities branch and is now under the jurisdiction of the controller of construction. In future, they will be issued from his Ottawa office."

Mr. Howe stated the requirements and operation of construction control will continue unchanged. Licenses must be obtained by anyone contemplating new construction of buildings, repairs to buildings, or installation of machinery subject to the following general exemptions:

NO LICENSE NEEDED

No license is required for extensions or repairs not exceeding in cost $2,500, nor for the installation of equipment not exceeding $5,000, nor for new buildings not exceeding in cost $10,000, provided such a building is not an extension to a present plant or building, the minister said.

Buildings and machinery for use in primary industries — farming, logging, mining and fishing—are exempt. Farm houses, single dwelling and buildings used solely for human habitation and costing not more than three self-contained dwelling places, do not require a license, regardless of cost.

Apartment houses containing more than three suites must have a license.

Two Years of War Bring Encirclement of Axis Powers

The start of the third year of World War II finds the powers of the Tri-partite Axis—Germany and Italy in the west and Japan in the east—completely encircled by the forces of democracy. And this has taken place despite the amazing unbroken series of military victories by the great German war machine! This Central Press Canadian map shows how the iron rings of anti-Axis nations have isolated the Axis powers from the rest of the world, forcing them to depend on the resources of their own and conquered lands.

fected and to all others who had co-operated splendidly with the board.

The order prohibiting assemblies of children under 16 went into effect August 15 and opening of schools originally set for September 2, was put back until September 15 and later to September 22.

At a precautionary measure, Dr. Bow convened the committee Thursday morning, reviewed the situation and, coming to the conclusion that the situation had not developed adversely, ratified the previous decision to lift the ban.

NO NEW CASES

No new cases were reported Thursday, the total for the province standing at 142. Three cases were reported Wednesday, a two-year-old girl from the district south of High River; a boy of 18 near Willingdon, whose case had been under surveillance for some time, and a 14-year-old girl from the Willingdon district.

Manitoba Reports 8 New Polio Cases, 3 Epidemic Deaths

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Eight new cases of infantile paralysis and three new deaths from the disease were recorded today by Manitoba health officials. A single new case of sleeping sickness in the province also was reported. Since the outbreaks occurred three months ago there have been 840 cases of infantile paralysis and 11 deaths and 447 cases of sleeping sickness and 44 deaths.

LONDON, Sept. 18—(CP)—Five shivering French boys, all just under 20, landed at Eastbourne this morning, soaking and exhausted from an all-night trip across the English Channel in a 12-foot canoe to join the free French forces.

They had battled an unfavorable tide after shoving off from the French coast.

Workers Are Told War Wages Stick

OTTAWA, Sept. 18 — (CP) — Striking workers' representatives at the McKinnon Industries Ltd. plant at St. Catharines, Ont., have again been informed that the company cannot grant wages beyond limits stipulated in the wartime wages policy, Labor Minister McLarty announced late today.

The minister, in a statement, said this message had been transmitted to Robert S. Stacey, international representative of the Automobile Workers of America, at St. Catharines.

Ministers Tour U.S. Arms Plants

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston and Munitions Minister Howe are engaged on a flying tour of a number of aircraft factories in the United States. The two ministers left yesterday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe arrived here today from Ottawa on his way through to the west coast on departmental business. He will leave here tonight.

British Press Quotes Premier

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The Evening News gave prominence today to Prime Minister Mackenzie King's broadcast, heading its account "Canada's Premier appeals to U.S.A."

In an editorial it quoted the Canadian Prime Minister's address saying the free forces of the world must act as one, and added:

"It is indeed true that the hour has come for all free men to stand together. We fight for all the things that the best of mankind have shaped in centuries. It is everyman's battle."

try whose defence he considers vital to United States freedom. That was the law governing the present $7,000,000,000 lend-lease appropriation, most of which has been allocated, and it would permit the U.S. to provide lend-lease aid to Russia if it desired. The present system, however, is to provide advance credits to finance Russian war purchases here.

The President sent to Speaker Sam Rayburn a breakdown of the proposed expenditures compiled by Budget Director Harold D. Smith.

BREAKDOWN OF REQUEST

Smith outlined the new lend-lease request as follows:

Ordnance and ordnance stores, supplies, spare parts and materials including armor and ammunition—$1,190,000,000.

Aircraft and aeronautical material including engines, spare parts and accessories—$685,000,000

Tanks, armored cars, automobiles, trucks, etc—$383,000,000.

Vessels, ships, boats and other water craft including the hire or other temporary use, equipage, supplies, materials and spare parts —$550,000,000.

Miscellaneous military and naval equipment, supplies and materials—$155,000,000.

Facilities and equipment for production of defence articles, including acquisition of land and maintenance facilities—$375,000,000

Agricultural, industrial and other commodities and articles—$1,875,000,000.

Repairing, re-conditioning, etc., defence articles for foreign countries—$175,000,000.

Necessary services and expenses essential to effectuating the original lend-lease act—$285,000,000.

Administrative expenses — $10,000,000.

NO INTERRUPTION

Mr. Roosevelt informed Congress that of the original $7,000,000,000 lend-lease appropriation, provided six months ago, $6,280,000,000 is "now moving through the successive stages of allocation, obligation, production and delivery."

"Additional funds are now needed in order that there be no interruption in flow of aid to those countries whose defence is vital to our own," the President said.

"I am therefore, transmitting a supplemental estimate of appropriation in the amount of $5,985,000,000, the details of which are set forth in the accompanying letter from the director of the bureau of the budget. I recommend its speedy enactment."

Survivors Axis Torpedoing Land

OTTAWA, Sept. 18—(CP)—Seventeen seamen from British Guiana, part of the crew of an 11,000-ton British steamship torpedoed by an Axis submarine in the South Atlantic, have reached Canada.

They issued about the Atlantic for five days in a lifeboat after the U-boat sank their craft 4:18 a.m. The sea was calm and some of the survivors said they saw their attacker.

Their ordeal was ended when a British destroyer crossed their path. Three members of the crew of 49 were killed when the torpedo struck the ship.

Arms Urgently Needed To Hold Russian Front

he said available data showed that to the end of August there had been 2,000,000 German casualties and 2,000,000 Russian casualties.

Discussing the available means for quick material support to the Russians, he said British had found in Iran (Persia) an effective railway with British gauge and a road which also could be turned into a supply line for the Soviet.

Losses in tanks, he indicated, were among the severest blows the Russians had suffered. Those captured by the Germans, he added, were being repaired and put to use in the Nazi offensive.

The only really effective aid Britain and the United States could give, he said, would be supplies.

2,000 Arrests Of Communists Made In France

By RALPH HEINZEN

VICHY, Sept. 18—(UP)—Pierre Pucheu, minister of interior, said today that more than 2,000 Communists had been arrested since the start of the present wave of terrorism, sabotage and assassinations.

"I believe we have made progress against terrorism," he said. "We cannot prevent isolated cases, but by severe repression we can make terrorism unpopular among those who resort to it."

He said there were about 2,000 "hard" militant Communists, "who will go out and shoot as ordered," and about 30,000 other Communists in active service, "but their effort does not go beyond printing or circulating tracts."

All the terrorism, sabotage and assassinations in both occupied and unoccupied France, Pucheu asserted, are part of a Communist plot directed by Maurice Thorez, Jacques Duclos, Arthur Ramette and Jean Catelas, all former Communist deputies who are in hiding.

Pucheu said the government had succeeded in persuading the German several times to eschew mass executions.

Edmonton Officer Meets Majesties

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Sept. 18.—(CP Cable)—The King and Queen inspected the Canadian 3rd Division today in one of the most impressive ceremonials ever staged by the Canadian army overseas. Honored by a Royal visit only six weeks after their arrival in England, the troops commanded by Maj.-Gen. C. B. Price gave Their Majesties a hearty Canadian welcome in every camp and on every parade ground.

The inspection immediately after lunch took Their Majesties to a western Canada infantry brigade.

The King and Queen met and talked with the officers, including Maj. J. W. H. T. Hope of Toronto, brigade major, and Capt. J. W. Proctor of Edmonton, the staff captain.

HITLER'S AGENTS BORE FROM WITHIN

Nazi Infiltration Pays Dividends In South America

consolidating his old world power, but he has numbers of agents throughout the Americas who could keep on doing what they are doing now—preparing the way for Hitlerism on this side of the water.

Some three million Germans live in Latin America. Many of them now are avowed agents of the Nazis. Many more would join the movement as soon as Hitler's success in Europe seemed certain.

The culture, language, religion, and governmental structures of Latin America do not come from Anglo-Saxon roots, but from the Latin nations of southern Europe—Spain, Portugal, France, and Italy. Every one of these countries would be included in the new Hitler state. Every influence they could bring to bear upon Latin-American republics would be placed at Hitler's disposal.

GOODS

In addition, Europe has been the market for the bulk of Latin-American products. An average of $1,200,000,000 worth of these goods went to European consumers every year, or twice the amount usually shipped to North America. Such products are now piled up in warehouses awaiting possible customers. How can we prevent Latin-American exporters from shipping goods to Hitler, who will offer to buy everything in sight?

To those who may say Europe will be so disorganized it will have nothing to send in exchange, I want to point out that Hitler will have one sort of commodities which the Latin-American states will desire above all things—ARMS.

War Goods

The triumph of force in Europe will be the signal for every Latin-American nation to be armed—fearing revolution from within, aggression from without. German war equipment, backed by victory, is bound to be rated the best in the world, and would be offered at attractive prices in enormous quantities. It is certain to be snapped up by Latin-American republics.

This is no mere dream. It is a continuation of the tactics which the Nazis have already used successfully for years before the war. They continually armed their small neighbors. The export of war equipment was one of Germany's best trading assets.

Some may say the Nazis would not sell arms to potential enemies. They have never shown any distinclination NOT TO, in the past.

Both Yugoslavia and Greece chiefly equipped with German war materials, killed advancing German soldiers with German bullets, but this was all a part of Hitler's game. He doesn't seem to mind. His opponents had paid for the weapons in essential raw materials which were worth more to him than the lives of some of his soldiers.

It may be argued that the South American nations will be outfitted through our own American defence program, but if Hitler wins in Europe we shall need nearly every plane and every gun that we can make at home.

Lean To Axis

It may be argued that the good neighbor policy and better relations between the American republics in recent years will cause them all to maintain a solid front against Hitlers wiles. This overlooks the fact that, even before Hitler has won complete victory in Europe, a number of Latin-American states have shown unmistakable signs that they favor co-operation with the Axis.

The Nzsis at this moment have the inside track in several Latin-American countries, including Panama, the guardian of the canal.

There are a great number of reasons why Latin-American nations feel moved in this direction. Many of them are political dictatorships with only an outward facade of democracy; they feel a strong affinity toward the authoritarian forms of government.

RACIAL

In many of these states there are individual problems of racial antagonism, and so Nazi doctrines of racial superiority form a welcome bulwark to the rule of white aristocracy in countries where there are large Indian, Negro and other populations.

Many Latin-American states still cherish suspicions toward their stronger neighbor of the north. They resent our long self-satisfied assumption of political, economic, and even moral superiority.

Let us not forget that North Americans have gone to South America on business only, have remained within their exclusive circles, patronized exclusive clubs; seldom have married latin-American women.

The Germans and other immigrants have come to Latin America to make their home, have intermingled and adopted local customs and languages and come, far closer to the hearts of the people than we have ever done.

Revolution

I believe a Hitler victory would be signalled by a succession of Nazi-inspired revolutions in Latin-American countries.

In many of these countries there exist a military dictatorship and a potential military opposition. If the present government does not come around promptly, the Nazis can negotiate with the opposition, supply them with arms and equipment, finance a sudden coup d'etat, and obtain power.

Nazi-sponsored revolutions have occurred in several countries already, generally quickly put down, but only because they were premature.

A German victory would insure more activity of the same kind. Does anyone believe that these putsches all would fail or that the Nazis would not be able to secure a foothold in the South American continent at some point?

PATROL

The United States cannot maintain a naval patrol all the way through the Atlantic and the Pacific. We cannot enforce a blockade of Europe, Asia and Africa. We cannot call out the marines to stop Mussolini from sending his daughter on a friendly visit to the president of a Latin-American republic, bringing with her 50 disguised military and aviation experts to start the training of Nazi bunds under assumed names.

We cannot forbid revolutions in South America. We cannot actively interfere in the internal politics of the Latin-American republics to oppose Nazi plans without often arousing the resentment of the country concerned and of its neighbors, and thus bringing about the very condition which we hoped to prevent.

No, it is not possible that the totalitarian tide can be successfully held back from moving across the South Atlantic. We must abandon the belief that we can isolate all the new world from a victorious Germany.

U.S. College Boys May Join R.C.A.F.

TORONTO, Sept. 18—(CP)—Hundreds of United States college students may soon come to Canada to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force, Professor A. N. MacIntosh, of the Michigan College of Mining and Technology at Houghton, said here yesterday. In Toronto to study the British Commonwealth Air Training plan, he is the college coordinator of the civilian pilot training program, a nation-wide scheme to train pilots for the U. S. Army Air Corps and Navy Air Corps.

Germans Claim Great Success Near Leningrad

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The German high command claimed today German forces besieging Leningrad have achieved "great successes" and that the columns driving through the Ukraine east of the Dnieper river are "progressing irresistibly."

The war bulletin from Hitler's headquarters asserted units of one infantry division alone had overwhelmed 119 pillboxes on Leningrad's stronghold defence ring.

In air operations against Russia, the high command claimed a destroyer, two submarines and four motor torpedo boats were destroyed yesterday, three transports totalling 3,000 tons were sunk, and 16 other ships so severely hit they were presumed lost.

Elected President

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Andrew R. Webster was elected president of the Canadian Builders' Supply Association at a meeting which resulted in formation of that organization Wednesday.

Aussies Train For Jungle War

The Australian Imperial forces, since arrival in Malaya, have concentrated on learning to operate and fight in Malayan jungle and rubber country. The troops, many of them from the Australian "bush," find that slashing their way through jungle as soldiers is little different from hacking down the bush as farmers back home. A.I.F. men are shown advancing through Pandanus palm jungle.

South African Ace Top R.A.F. Scorer

By PAT USSHER

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—A cool-headed young South African, Wing Cmdr. A. G. Malan, holds individual scoring honors in the Royal Air Force with an official tally of 32 German airplanes blasted out of the sky.

In announcing that the fighter command's leading pilot had shot down 32 machines, the air ministry news service did not name him. But previous references to Malan's achievements make it safe to assume he is the individual ace of Britain's flying sharpshooters.

Malan, who joined the R.A.F. six years ago, has been awarded the D.S.O. and bar and the D.F.C. and bar for some of his outstanding exploits in the air. He also holds a ship's second officer's certificate.

Malan's squadron, the 74th, played a notable role in the Battle of Britain last autumn and has distinguished itself in this summer's offensive sweeps across the English channel.

Four other pilots have individual scores of more than 20, said the news service, issuing an impressive summary of the losses inflicted by fighter command on the Luftwaffe in two years of sky warfare. They also were unnamed, but are believed to be Sqdn. Ldr. J. Mungo Park, D.F.C., Sqdn. Ldr. M. T. St. J. Pattle, Sqdn. Ldr. Roland Tuck, D.S.O. and D.F.C. with two-bar bars, and Flt. Lt. E. S. Lock, D.S.O., D.F.C. and bar. Mungo Park and Pattle, both officially listed as missing, have shot down 27 machines each. Tuck's total was 27 last July and Lock, also missing, has 25 to his credit.

SQUADRON BAGS 175

The leading squadron of fighter command has accounted for 175 German aircraft since the war began. Fifteen squadrons have each topped the century mark and three of them have shot down more than 150 machines.

In two years of war against the Nazis, fighter command pilots have destroyed nearly 4,000 enemy planes. British losses have been 1,400 fighters. Pilots of more than 450 of these were saved.

The figures do not include enemy aircraft destroyed by R.A.F. fighter squadrons based in France in the spring of 1940 or German machines shot down during the Norwegian campaign. Nor do they include aircraft destroyed on the ground or the hundreds of machines listed as "probably destroyed" or "damaged."

Landing Fields In England For Nazis Are Found

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The Toronto Star Wednesday quoted "an influentially - placed Englishman who recently arrived here" as saying that British authorities had discovered 20 secret Nazi landing fields in the British Isles last September.

"Fifth columnists had rolled out the fields and then disguised them with fences and brush that could be easily removed," the Star quoted its informant.

Counter-espionage agents discovered the secret fields were to be identified from the air by a brilliantly-painted red bar at the edge of each field.

R.A.F. Squadron Contacts Germans On Russian Front

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The BBC said Wednesday night that the wing of the Royal Air Force on the northern sector of the Russian front "has already been in contact with the enemy." The broadcast was heard by CBS.

"Tonight it was learned that many of the hundreds of aircraft Britain is sending to Russia have already arrived at the battle zone," the BBC said. "The wing of the Royal Air Force which has been co-operating with the Russian airmen on the northern part of the front already has been in contact with the enemy."

Earthquake In San Francisco Shakes Houses

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18—(AP)—Thousands of residents of San Francisco and other cities as far away as Santa Cruz, 80 miles southward, were awakened by a sharp earthquake at 11:32 p.m. P.S.T. (12:32 a.m. Thursday M.S.T.) last night, but there were no reports of damage.

The quake lasted more than a minute and was most severe in the Marina and Richmond residential districts of San Francisco.

Failure To Halt Outbursts Keeps Germans Worried

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Failure of reprisals to halt anti-Nazi outbursts at many points in occupied Europe has German authorities worried, the British Broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday night, but in Norway a different form of anti-Nazi sentiment has them "furious."

Large crowds of Norwegians continue to attend funerals of British airmen killed while carrying out raids, while funerals of German soldiers pass unnoticed, the BBC said.

Railway Bombed

ZAGREB, Croatia, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The railway between Sarajevo and Brod has been blown up and two bombs were thrown at a bus, it was learned Wednesday. A German air force corporal and a private in the bus were injured. Serb rebels were blamed.

Prime Minister Warns Of Bitter Struggle To Defeat German Tyranny

stronger than they have ever been." The United States also was stronger than ever before.

The development of interdependence grew from a realisation that "neither acting alone could destroy a military machine such as Germany already possesses and is in a position further to strengthen."

Of the Soviet forces the Prime Minister said: "The resistance of Russian arms has been magnificent," but he warned that the Russian effort was not without its "subtle" dangers to the British cause.

PERILOUS ILLUSION

"In many hearts has been born the deceptive hope that Russia might win the war for us," he said. "There could be no more perilous illusion.

"Russia is fighting to save herself, as Poland, as Holland, as Belgium, as France, as Yugoslavia and as Greece fought to save themselves."

Hitler attacked Russia "in order that he might gain in strategic position, in resources and in power," the Prime Minister declared.

"He sought also to remove the last potential menace of land attack upon his forces of tyranny before the Nazis locked in mortal conflict with what remained of the forces of freedom, at the spearhead of which the peoples of Britain continue to stand."

APPEAL TO FREE MEN

Mr. King's address was the closing event on the program of Reconsecration Week during which Canadians, at religious and other ceremonies, have been asked by government proclamation to pledge themselves and all they possess to the effort for victory.

"We in Canada," he said, "can make no more effective appeal to free men throughout the world than the appeal of our own example, as a people still removed from the heart of the struggle, yet putting forth our utmost effort."

After his trip to Britain, Mr. King said, he believed "the men and women of that beleaguered isle are more resolute, more determined and more courageous than ever."

Bomb destruction in London was "truly appalling," he said, and although the powers of Britain had to the past "they are even more terrifying in what they disclose of a possible future."

CHURCHILL'S TRIBUTE

He referred to Prime Minister Churchill's tribute to the Canadian forces and the part they are playing in the defence of Britain. What Mr. Churchill said was "no flight of rhetoric," he added. Canadian industry may indeed be proud of their work in providing the tools of war, and "I was proud to be able to assure the government and the people of Britain that Canada would send them all the food that ships could be found to carry." Mr. King said in referring to materiai aid to Britain.

Of the British government, from Mr. Churchill down, the prime minister had words of high praise. He added that it would be "difficult if not impossible," to improve upon the present method of intercommunication and discussion between the British and Commonwealth governments.

Speaking specifically of Mr. Churchill, the prime minister declared that history will record that by his example and his leadership he has helped to save not only his country but the freedom of the world."

"If the two years of war had revealed anything," said Mr. King, it was "that, as a means of escape from the encircling danger which now threatens the entire world, no nation which wishes to see freedom survive can now look to anything so old fashioned as its own sovereign rights, or as restricted as its own unaided strength."

MUST WORK TOGETHER

Remoteness from the scene of conflict had ceased to be a safeguard, he said.

If human freedom is to survive all free men, regardless of national frontiers, must work together for its preservation.

While, at the sacrifice of assistance to other nations, either the British Commonwealth or the United States might each for itself be able to resist invasion, "neither acting alone could destroy a military machine such as Germany already possesses," Mr. King declared.

"Without the common action of both, the present war might well drag on for years and the world be reduced to a condition of chaos which will make decisive victory, not to mention reconstruction, impossible."

He recalled the decision of Lincoln, when the American nation was extending westward, that a nation could not exist half slave and half free, and that slavery would have to go.

QUESTION OF SLAVERY

Today the question of slavery was not confined to a single nation but had become a conflict between continents and might rapidly become a war between hemispheres.

"It is no more possible for an eastern hemisphere enslaved to rest in harmony with a western hemisphere that is free, than for darkness and light to dwell together," he said.

"Either the free forces of the world must destroy the forces of tyranny which, in two years have plunged Europe into mediaeval darkness, or themselves come to be held in thrall by the evil powers which, today, seek the world's domination."

If personal and national freedom were to be preserved it would require the active effort of all who now were free not only to fight in self defence, but "to rescue from the claws and jaws of the Frankenstein monster" the peoples of other lands and of Germany itself.

SOCIAL REVOLUTION

"If Nazi Germany and all her wicked works are destroyed this war will assume, in human history, the shape of a social revolution out of which mankind may hope for a new order to emerge—an order in which the power of right, not might, will increasingly control and from which the injustices of the old order, one by one, will be banished.

"This war will not end until all the world is reduced to a condition of servitude or, until the nations that are still free triumph over Nazi Germany.

"We know that the free peoples will triumph in the end. But how long it may take to determine the issue God alone knows."

Glass Eye Problem Solved In Canada Since War Start

Partial Text Of Premier King's Address

OTTAWA, Sept. 18—(CP)—Following is a partial text of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's speech Wednesday night to the Canadian Club and Women's Canadian Club of Ottawa:

In my visit to Britain, I had several purposes in view. For obvious reasons, I shall, this evening, be obliged to restrict such account of my visit as it may be possible for me to give, to but one of its main objectives, leaving for parliament, or for other occasions, such further account of additional features as it may be expected, and desirable for me to give.

I propose, therefore, to speak of the impression which the visit as a whole has left of the present position of the war. Of that, I am sure you are anxious above all to hear.

PEOPLE OF BRITAIN

Let me say, however, in advance, just one word about the people of Britain, and our own fighting forces overseas. After two years of war, the men and women of that beleaguered isle are, I believe, more resolute, more determined, more courageous than ever. But they have, I believe, a greater burden than ever to bear. It has been well and truly said that "The worst part of martyrdom is not the last agonizing moment; it is the wearing, daily steadfastness."

A people from bombing such as has been experienced in greater or less degree since the beginning of this Canadian campaign may rouse the visitor to Britain to feel that many of the nation's activities are proceeding as usual, as indeed they are, to an extent which is really a matter of marvelous, but the martyrdom of daily anxiety and prolonged weariness, is ever present.

It is in this light that Canada's contribution to the cause is best understood.

There are, as you all know, in Britain today well over 100,000 of Canada's fighting men. The significance the British people and the British government attach to Canada's military contribution to the defence of Britain on land, at sea and in the air, I can perhaps best leave to the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom to say.

CANADIAN SERVICE

Every Canadian heart must have been thrilled by Mr. Churchill's words when he said that our Canadian soldiers stood "at the very point where they would be the first to be hurled into a counter-stroke against the invader."

I can assure you that it was no flight of rhetoric, but a measured statement, when Mr. Churchill further said that no greater service could be rendered to Britain, and no more important military duty performed by any troops in all the allies, and when, after referring to what had taken place in other theatres of war, he added that the part they have played in bringing about the final result was second to none.

But the fighting men of Canada are not only sharing in the defence of Britain: they are also helping to carry the war into the enemy's territory. Our pilots and airmen are daily engaged in actual operations. In the growing numbers of Canadian pilots, observers and air gunners, serving with the Royal Air Force and in the squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force in Britain, we are already witnessing the telling effect of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, which daily looms larger in the strategy of war.

The nature of the work of Canada's navy, in British waters and on the North Atlantic, does not lend itself to display, but I found, in informed circles, a full knowledge and very warm appreciation of the importance of Canada's naval co-operation with Britain.

WAR EFFORT PRAISED

From all sides, I heard nothing but praise of machines and weapons of war which Canada is sending across the sea in ever growing volume. Canadian industry and Canadian labor may well be proud of their part in forging the tools of victory.

In a struggle in which machines are essential, we can afford to spare no effort to maintain the momentum of our war production.

Speaking what I knew was in the minds and hearts of our farmers and others of our growers and producers, I was indeed proud to be able to assure the government and the people of Britain that Canada would send them all the food that ships could be found to carry.

I shall leave it to Mr. Churchill himself to express what Britain feels concerning Canada's war effort.

Here are Mr. Churchill's words: "The war effort of Canada during this war happily, has not so far required effusion of blood upon a large scale, but that effort, in men, in ships, aircraft, air training, in financing, in food, constitutes an element in the resistance of the British Empire without which that resistance could not be successfully maintained."

CHAMPION OF FREEDOM

Of Mr Churchill himself and of his colleagues, I should like to say a word. Having sat with them in council, I would say that I marvel at the fidelity, ability, and resiliency with which they carry the burden of their great responsibilities.

They are surrounded by the best of professional expert opinion and advice. Their discussions are supplemented by the freest interchange of view and opinion with the governments of the several dominions.

I feel that for purposes of commonwealth consultation, at a time of war it would be difficult, if not impossible, to improve upon what in effect is a continuing conference of cabinets, established, under the system of immediate and constant communication, as it had come into being prior to the beginning of the war, and has since been developed.

Of Mr. Churchill, I should like to repeat what I said in London, in his presence, and in the presence of his fellow countrymen: that of him, history, I believe, will record that, by his example, and his leadership, he has helped to save, not his country only, but the freedom of the world.

REAL ISSUES

I was deeply impressed by the new bonds which have been established between the King and Queen and the people. . . .

Were I, myself, to express in a single sentence what, above all else, has impressed itself most deeply upon my mind as the result of my visit to Britain, it would say it was the confirmation, beyond the shadow of a doubt, of the view I have held, from the outset of the war, of the real issue in the struggle, of the nature of the forces in conflict, and of the probable scale of the conflict itself.

That view, I expressed, in the following words, in a broadcast delivered on the day Britain entered the war:

"The forces of evil have been loosed in the world in a struggle between the pagan conception of a social order which ignores the individual and is based upon the doctrine of might, and a Christian conception of the brotherhood of man, with its regard for the sanctity of contractual relations, and the sacredness of human personality."

We have now entered upon the third year of war. It has taken two years of conflict to convince the world—if, indeed, all peoples are even yet convinced—of the truth of that statement. . . .

NO COUNTRY SAFE

When war came, the light of a Christian civilization had already been extinguished in Nazi Germany. Human freedom and, with it, human brotherhood, had already been crushed. Every interest had been made subordinate to the creation of the most powerful military machine ever known. Men who resisted were ruthlessly imprisoned or murdered. Deception, terror and violence had become the practiced arts of statecraft.

Today no country is too remote to be menaced by the deception of Nazi agents, by the horror of Gestapo or by the violence of German armed aggression. The Nazi sway knows no limits but the limits of Nazi capacity and Nazi power.

If there is one thing that the last two years has made plain, it is surely that, as a means of escape from the encircling danger which now threatens the entire world, no nation which wishes to see freedom survive, can how look to anything so old-fashioned as its own sovereign rights, or so restricted as its own unaided strength.

Remoteness from the immediate scene of conflict has ceased to be a safeguard for men and nations that cherish their freedom.

Surely we now have come to see that, even in seeking the preservation of our own freedom, all who cherish freedom are members one of another, without regard to class, or race or nationality.

MUST WORK TOGETHER

If human freedom is to survive, all free men, regardless of national frontiers, must work together for its preservation.

As I viewed the present conflict after two years of war, from the vantage ground of Britain, one reflection impressed itself more than all else, upon my mind. It was the impression of the evil of national power when it exalts itself above humanity.

Britain still stands. But look at what stretches before her: a Europe which, all but completely from the Atlantic to the steppes of Russia, are prostrate at the feet of Germany.

People everywhere have been asking the question: why did Hitler attack Russia? . . .

Hitler attacked in order that he might gain in strategic position, in resources, and in power.

He sought also to remove the last potential menace of land attack, upon his forces of tyranny, before the Nazis became locked in mortal conflict with what remained of the forces of freedom, at the spearhead of which the peoples of Britain continue to stand.

As President of the United States, in the latest of his great pronouncements, did not hesitate to say:

"It must be explained again and again to people who like to think of the United States navy as an invincible protection, that distance will be true only if the British navy survives. That if the world outside the Americas falls under Axis domination, the shipbuilding facilities which the Axis power would then possess in all of Europe, in the British isles and in the far east would be much greater than all the shipbuilding facilities and potentialities of all the Americas—not only greater, but two or three times greater."

Do I need to say more.

It must surely be apparent that if freedom is to be preserved anywhere in the world, we have now come to a time and place where forces of vaster scope and implications than those of any single nation or empire, however powerful, must unite in opposing those forces which today seek world conquest and world domination.

Union merely in purpose and aim will not be sufficient.

The world's free forces must act increasingly as one, in every aspect of the common cause, if humanity is to be saved a prolonged and bitter agony.

Nothing less' than one vast brotherhood of freedom will suffice today to preserve the world's freedom.

I said, in London, that nothing in recent months had been more significant than the recognition of the deepening interdependence of the British Commonwealth and the United States.

That deepening interdependence is the brightest light I see upon the world's horizon at the beginning of this third year of war. Let me emphasize here its true significance.

That deepening interdependence has not developed because Britain or the British Commonwealth of nations are weaker today than they have been hitherto. They are, I believe—in fact, I know—far stronger than they have ever been.

COMMON ACTION NECESSARY

It is not that the defences of the United States are weaker. They are, in fact, far stronger, than they ever were.

The growing sense of interdependence has arisen because, while, albeit, at the sacrifice of assistance to other nations, the British Commonwealth and the United States might each for itself be able to resist invasion and conquest, each is coming to realize that neither acting alone could destroy a military machine such as Germany already possesses and is in a position further to strengthen.

Without the common action of both, the present war might well drag on for years, and the world be reduced to a condition of chaos which will make decisive, not to mention reconstruction, impossible. . . .

From now on, let free men everywhere face reality.

Let them recognize that it is something infinitely greater than the fate of any country which they are called upon to defend; that it is the defence of freedom, not of any country, not of any continent, nor indeed, of any hemisphere, but that it is the freedom of mankind which is at issue. For we are all members one of another.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

In one of the acts of (Robert E.) Sherwood's play ("Abe Lincoln in Illinois"), a little boy is lying sick in a covered wagon. His people are travelling far to seek a new home—to make the earth a good place for their children to live in. They are not afraid of the perils that lie along the way.

Lincoln humbly prays to God that their child be not taken from his parents.

"Grant him," Lincoln prays, "the freedom of life. Do not condemn him to the imprisonment of earth. Do not deny him his birthright. Let him know the sight of great plains and high mountains, of green valleys and wide rivers. For this little boy is an American, and these attack upon his forms of tyranny. Spare him, that he too may strive for the ideal for which his fathers have labored, so faithfully and for so long."

The prayer which Lincoln gave for this sick boy was, in effect, says Sherwood, a prayer for the survival of the United States of America.

History is forever repeating itself. The parallel between the great crisis in the history of the United States, and the issue which faces the world today is almost complete. The difference lies solely in the scale upon which the human drama is unfolding itself.

In Lincoln's day, it was the fate of a single country which was threatened because of its people being half slave and half free. Could that great country, as its settlement developed and its numbers increased, continue to exist half slave and half free?

BUT ONE ANSWER

That was the question Lincoln asked himself, and he saw that there was but one answer to the question. Either the United States would become, in the course of time, all free, or slavery would everywhere exist. The issue, he believed, had to be fought out, and fought out in a finish.

The lesson Lincoln learned in his day has come to have world-wide application today. It is one thing for a people to determine for itself its own form of government and its own way of life. That is a right recognized fully in the Atlantic Charter.

It is quite another for any nation to attempt to force its form of government and its way of life upon other peoples.

It is because Nazi Germany has chosen to force her so-called order upon all peoples, that, for free men, there is no choice but to crush Hitler and his Nazi system and to rid the world forever of the Prussian militarism on which it is founded. . . .

It (the war) has already assumed the proportions of a conflict between continents. It may rapidly become a war between hemispheres. The issue will have to be fought out. It will have to be fought out to a finish. . . .

In the world today, as in the union of Lincoln's day, it is the west that must decide the issue.

ONLY BRITAIN FREE

Already, the barbaric hordes intent virtually the whole of Europe. Only Britain remains free. Behind the lands already conquered, they are fighting desperately for even better lands. They must not be allowed to complete their conquests in the old world.

For, let there be no mistakes. It is no more possible for an eastern hemisphere, enslaved, to rest in harmony with a western hemisphere that is free, than for darkness and light to dwell together.

Either the free forces of the world must destroy the forces of tyranny which, in two years, have plunged Europe into medieval darkness, or themselves come to be held in thrall, by the evil powers which, today, seek the world's domination.

Mankind cannot long continue half slave and half free. A world, half slave and half free is the position that confronts the nations today as we enter upon a third year of war.

FREE MEN MUST FIGHT

If their peoples are to keep their personal and national freedom, nations that are still free must fight, not in self defence only, but equally to rescue from the jaws and the claws of the Farnkenstein monster that Germany has brought into being the people of other lands, yes, and of Germany herself whom otherwise it is destined also to devour and destroy.

Again, I repeat, humanity must no longer be made to serve national ends alone, whether those ends be mere isolated self defence, or world domination. Nations everywhere must be made to serve and to save humanity. That is the supreme lesson, for all peoples, as we now enter upon a third year of war.

We are concluding tonight a week devoted to the reconsecration of the people of Canada to the great task which they undertook two years ago.

That task, as I have said, is our part in the saving of humanity from the scourge of universal chaos.

In order speedily to accomplish that task, the total effort of all free men is needed.

We in Canada can make no more effective appeal to free men throughout the world than the appeal of our own example, as a people still removed from the heart of the struggle, yet putting forth our utmost effort.

NEW ORDER TO EMERGE

If the forces of evil are routed; if Nazi Germany and all her wicked works are destroyed, this war will assume, in human history, the shape of a social revolution, out of which mankind may hope for a new order to emerge; an order in which the power of right, not might, will increasingly control, and from which the injustices of the old order, one by one, will be banished.

In this new order, the rights of man will be determined not by privilege derived from inheritance, position or possessions, but, increasingly, by men's own contribution, through their own lives, to the common need and the common good.

For three months, a bloody and spectacular struggle has been waged in Eastern Europe. In that struggle, the resistance of Russian arms has been magnificent.

The effort of Russia has, however, not been without its subtle dangers to our cause.

In many hearts has been born the deceptive hope that Russia might win the war for us. There could be no more perilous illusion.

Russia is fighting to save herself, as Poland, as Holland, as Belgium, as France, as Yugoslavia and as Greece fought to save themselves.

POWERFUL ENEMY

Whatever the outcome in Russia may be, it should be realized that the power, the skill and the resources of the enemy are so great that the slightest relaxation of effort in any direction would be fraught with the greatest of risks for all.

Let us never forget the size, and the power, of Germany's war machine, and that while German forces fight on distant fronts, Germany herself, and the countries controlled by Germany, continue to manufacture the equipment and munitions needed to effect the necessary repairs and to keep her armed forces at the highest stage of efficiency.

This war will not end until all the world is reduced to a condition of servitude, or, until the nations that are still free triumph over Nazi Germany.

We know that the free people will triumph in the end. But how long it may take to determine the issue, God alone knows.

How much, when it is over, may be left, of what is worth while in the world, no one can say. That is why I believe it is vital to make a supreme effort now to convince the people of Germany that they never can hope to win.

Such a supreme effort can be made only if every nation and every man, who is still free, put forth their utmost effort . . .

So I would say to every one in our own, and in other lands, who has not yet found his true place in the war effort of his country:

"Rise for the day is passing,
And you lie dreaming on:
The others have buckled their armor,
And forth to the fight have gone.
A place in the ranks awaits you,
Each man has some part to play;
The Past and the Future are nothing,
In the face of the stern Today."

. . . Your arm will never be stronger, or the need so great as Today.

Miracle Is Transacted In Most Vital Field Of Therapeutic Equipment

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Canada has the glass eye problem well in hand. We discovered this when talking with Major C. A. Bell in the department of pensions and national health, next to the Chateau Laurier on Rideau street. The supply of glass eyes, like many other essential commodities, has been seriously affected by the war.

Major Bell was reticent about discussing it for publication, as there are a few tag ends of the problem still to be satisfactorily arranged. But those who have solved Canada's critical war problem of glass eye supply have been far too modest. They have transacted a miracle in the field of therapeutic equipment.

The glass eye business in general is hardly on a commercial footing, and not at all as far as the Canadian pensions department is concerned. The basic material is a highly specialized product known as soda glass, a white cloudy glass whose special quality the trade describes as "opal." Canada had 1,000 glass eye cases as a result of the last war, and for 20 years the pensions department has been working quietly on the question of better artificial eyes. It is a fact that Canadian veterans of the last war who have received glass eyes from the pensions department, have the best in the world today.

SPECIAL KNOWLEDGE

The chief reason for the pension department's supremacy in artificial eyes is the shy genius of Clifford Taylor, a veteran of the last war who had been an optician and who took up the delicate art of glass-blowing and coloring glass eyes. He has been doing the department's artificial eye work for years, and without his specialized knowledge Canada would have got nowhere when the war brought up the question of finding a substitute for soda glass from Germany.

The chemical riddle of soda glass was unlocked in the ceramics laboratory of the University of Toronto, where research workers and pensions department experts set out to find the secret formula then known only to a German glass maker. The secret lies in adding a mineral content to glass.

Once the formula was obtained, Canadian and U.S. glass makers were approached and the job of producing soda glass was accepted by the Corning Glass Company, Corning, N.Y., the people who made the lenses for the giant telescope in California.

The department handed over its formula, without patent and without charge, on condition the company guarantee soda glass for the Canadian government as supplies are needed. So far North American demand has been filled from pre-war stocks.

DELICATE JOB

Major Bell showed us two samples of glass eyes made from soda glass of Canadian formula. The coloring of irises is a marvellously delicate job, done by melting colored glass into the soda glass. The range of colors has to be extensive and each eye is a special job. When he gets talking about artificial eyes, Major Bell is an enthusiast, proud of the job that has been done for Canadian soldiers. He wears a glass eye himself and he took us to the departmental library to show us an exhibit displaying the stages of glass eye manufacture.

Glass eyes are not the only miracle the pensions department has to offer in therapeutic equipment, of which it makes all its requirements. There are other triumphs in show cases to be seen. Like Buster, the British air hero who has two artificial legs, so has Major Bell.

Britain May Bomb Rome In Reprisal

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP Cable)—The press association said last night there were grounds for thinking that Britain will make good her warning of last spring to bomb Rome as a result of an Axis attack Wednesday on Cairo, sacred city of the Moslems, in which 39 persons were reported killed.

The news service said the question is under consideration, but that "Rome cannot at the moment be considered a major target."

It pointed out that the most important object of the Royal Air Force at the moment is to give all possible aid to Russia and said it was felt this can be achieved best by increasing the severity of attacks on German industry and its vital centres.

Edmonton Bishop Tells Of Shortage Of Rural Priests

TORONTO, Sept. 18—(CP)—Rt. Rev. W. F. Barfoot, Anglican bishop of Edmonton, told the annual conference and re-union of the Wycliffe College Alumni Association meeting Wednesday that shortage of parish priests in the rural districts is the pressing problem of the Anglican Church in Western Canada.

Still we have a rural priesthood we can never tackle the problem of preaching the gospel to the people," he added.

Insurance Roll

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Some 2,600,000 Canadian workers now are protected by unemployment insurance according to latest figures issued by the unemployment insurance commission. Employers registered numbered 131,803.

SELF-CRITICISM PRELUDE TO EFFORT

Russian-German War Brought "Let-Down" In America

United States Ready Give All Assistance For Russia's Battle

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CDN)—W. Averell Harriman, head of the American mission to Moscow, told American newspapermen in London that in his opinion the "British people, who are much closer to the war than the Americans, have a much greater understanding of Russia's importance in the defeat of Hitler" and that instead of inspiring American labor to greater production effort the Russian-German war had resulted in a temporary "letdown" in the United States.

Despite this reaction in the war in Eastern Europe, Harriman predicted that the American production program would be quickly speeded up.

"Self-criticism in America is a prelude to greater effort," he said. "I am convinced that we are shortly going into increased production on a basis that does not now exist."

Although final negotiations with the British prior to the Moscow conference only began today, Harriman indicated that both countries had already agreed in principle to co-operate to the utmost.

"The British are determined to give all possible assistance to Russia. The American government is equally determined."

KNOW RUSSIA'S NEEDS

The American emissary indicated that the American and British governments already had a "very good idea of Russia's needs" and that the forthcoming conference would be devoted to the study of what changes have already occurred in these requirements and what they might be in the future.

In order to follow the developments in the situation and Russia's requirements, Col. Philip R. Faymonville, secretary of the mission and former military attache to Moscow, will remain in the Russian capital indefinitely. He will be assisted by a large number of military technical men and maintenance experts who will help the Russians keep American equipment in working order.

Harriman indicated that he himself would remain in Moscow for some time after the conference "to investigate problems." The impression was gathered that neither Britons nor Americans who have so far gone to Russia or been in contact with Russian representatives have anything approaching a complete picture of the situation there.

It is evident, at the same time, that the British and American governments are not going to be able to help Russia to the utmost until the veil of secrecy which surrounds everything there is lifted to one side for their benefit. The Soviet government must be prepared to tell them in most exact terms about Russian production, Russian losses in men and equipment, Russian morale and Russia's future plans.

DEPENDS ON STALIN

Premier Joseph V. Stalin is the only man in Russia who can give the word for this to be done and a great deal will depend upon his willingness to trust those who so lately were on the opposite side of the fence. There can be no doubt in anybody's mind that both the American and British leaders are sincerely eager to do everything possible and if Stalin can only believe this things should work smoothly if he doesn't then the Moscow conference will have failed in one of its most important purposes.

It is not known yet when the British and American missions will leave for Moscow but they should be there within the next week or 10 days. Decisions to be taken at the conference may easily affect Russia's major strategy following the German advance across the Dnieper.

It is recognized here that any encouragement which the Americans and British may be able to offer should be delivered at the first possible moment.

Today's War Moves

able a compact Russian concentration for defence. Whether strong defence works were set up there in the process of building the "Stalin Line" is not known, but it is possible.

The extent of Russian strength in the Crimea also is not known. Since the Russian defence has been centred in Marshal Budenny's army of the Ukraine, it is possible that no great reserve of troops has kept idle in Crimea.

The peninsula, which has a population of only about 700,000, is 210 miles long and 110 miles wide. It is well adapted to winter fighting, with a mild climate and almost no snow except sometimes in the mountain range which divides the northern part from the south. South of the range it becomes a sort of Russian Riviera, a favorite winter resort.

A Russian drive on the Caucasus, road to the middle east, apparently would be 3-pronged. It is indicated by present manoeuvres. One would be by the back door through Crimea. The other would be through the southern Ukraine past Rostov and the Don river.

To the north, the Germans already have pushed to within 150 miles of Nikitovka, which is the northern terminus of the long pipe line from the Baku oil fields. When and if they get that far, Russia's main oil supply would be severed automatically.

On the southern route, if the Germans actually are at the Perekop Isthmus, the only way the Russians could get reinforcements and supplies into Crimea would be by water, across the sea of Azov from Rostov.

The Germans meanwhile seem to be planning a sea movement of their own against Sevastapol from Bulgaria or Rumania. The Bulgaria request to Turkey for passage of warships—presumably obtained from Italy—through the Dardanelles—points to that intention.

The Bulgarian move may be one of the important developments of the war in the east. It provides a test of Turkey's attitude in the war. If, as traditional guardian of the straits, she permits passage of the warships, she will have knuckled under to the Axis, as far as the viewpoint of Britain and Russia is concerned. The Allies contend that Bulgaria is belligerent and therefore the ships concerned are belligerent. Turkey is bound by treaty to bar the passage of such vessels.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WEATHER and other portents might seem to make a British offensive in Libya a logical move, but the British high command may delay such on operation until it can see how the struggle on the southern flank of the Nazi-Russian battle line is turning out.

A cryptic bulletin from Hitler headquarters announces that the German offensive in Russia is "developing into an operation of the greatest extent." This probably refers principally to the Nazi surge across the lower Dnieper. Neither the siege of Leningrad, the Nazi-claimed victories south of Lake Ilmen, nor attempts to encircle Kiev represent strategic moves of first magnitude.

Only swift German conquest of the Donets river basin, eastward of the great bend of the Dnieper, and the lower reaches of the Don in the vicinity of Rostov offers Hitler any hope of a decisive victory. Once astride the pipe line from the Baku oil fields at Rostov, he would have cut a Russian jugular vein.

PICKED ARMIES MASSED

Just what is happening eastward from Dnieper bridgeheads neither side has revealed. It is beyond question, however, that Moscow is fully alive to the critical nature of this prime Nazi offensive. It goes without saying, also, that developments in Iran, strengthening Anglo-Russian military contacts and supply routes, are keyed to that German attack, and that the Russians have massed picked armies to meet the onslaught.

That being the case, even though sound military reasons urge a British offensive in the western desert, it may await developments in the Ukraine. Whatever the force of British and Imperial troops now mustered in Egypt under the new British commander there, Gen Sir Claude Auchinleck, much of it might be needed in defence of the Baku oil fields, and the back door to India, Iran.

ATTEMPT NEW THRUST

London guesses that the Germans, in the wake of the bloody defeat they say they inflicted on Russian counter attacks south of Lake Ilmen, are attempting a new thrust to Bologoe junction of the main Leningrad-Moscow railroad. However, this does not seem likely.

West of Bologoe, with a single track railroad passing through gorges of the Valdai hills and along the rim of Lake Valdai as the only route of advance, there are heights, reaching up nearly 1,000 feet. That represents more difficult country than the Germans have yet crossed anywhere in Russia.

More likely, German forces from the Lovat front are being rushed south to bolster Smolensk in the centre. That city is in imminent danger of recapture by the Russians, according to Moscow accounts.

Roosevelt Policy Is Given Support

PALO ALTO, Calif., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Taking a stand directly in opposition to that of Stanford President Ray Lyman Wilbur, 176 Stanford professors issued a joint statement Wednesday supporting the administration's foreign policy and calling for a more dynamic course of action.

"Recognizing the fallacy of the idea that a passive defence is still possible, we support a more dynamic policy of action as the most effective means of security against the totalitarian menace," the statement read.

Lewis M. Terman, professor of psychology, said the statement was not the result of a poll of Stanford's 466 faculty members, and that those who signed did so as private individuals.

The declaration followed by two days the condemnation by Dr. Wilbur of President Roosevelt's "shoot on sight" order without consulting congress.

Congo Operators' Jungle Rhythm

Sons Of Cannibals Put Swing In Morse

Befuddles Enemy Radio Listeners

By GEORGE WELLER

BELGIAN COLONIAL FIELD HEADQUARTERS, District of Stanleyville, Northeastern Belgian Congo,' Sept. 18.—(CDN)—The sons of cannibals, educated into military radio operators, use jungle rhythm in their sending which is a more effective method of secrecy than any military code. Belgian colonial officers have ascertained this by talking with Italian officers recently taken prisoner.

"At times we have had as many as eight cipher officers listening in your radio field orders," the Italians have told the Belgians.

EXCLUSIVE

"But your operators' sending is so peculiarly unrhythmic, uneven and irregular that we cannot even understand the letters they transmit, to say nothing of putting them together."

A captain, who is chief of the radio division of the Belgian colonials, was the first to attempt to educate the savages fresh from the jungle into wireless telegraphers The pair of apprentices whom he taught to read and write as well as pound the keys have become teachers of an entire corps of negro operators. Six months is now the usual training period for natives who have already learned to read and write.

The rhythm the Congo operators use is so eccentric it is difficult for the Belgian officers themselves to decipher. Native keymen, however, not only receive each other faultlessly but are experts on messages sent by Italy's all-white operators.

The Best Of News

Mr. Biggers, newly appointed minister to London and former director of production policies at Washington, predicts that rate of output in munitions plants will be doubled in September and October. Production, he says, is now moving up a 30 per cent incline, and in October will be climbing a 60 per cent grade.

Not much better news could come from any source at this stage. In Britain, in Russia and in China, the call is for more "tools," and it is from the United States the bulk to be obtained from outside sources must come. Unarmed bravery does not count for much in this machine war, and the wastage is so great that only superproduction can keep up the supply of machines.

In whatever he has failed, Hitler has not failed to develop production on a scale not thought to be possible. With the able-bodied men of Germany withdrawn from industry, there is no sign that the supply of any essential type of war machine has failed or run perilously short. Despite the seven-year start Germany had in rearmament, the current output of all sorts of munitions must be tremendous.

If the Axis armies are to be outfought, the workshops of anti-Axis countries will have to first outbuild the plants which are working for Hitler.

Un-Canadian Action

An order-in-council has been passed at Ottawa embodying measures which are to be taken to prevent strikes in war industries. Obviously for the reason that moral suasion and a sense of responsibility have not been strong enough to keep the wheels turning steadily in all plants, nor in all but a negligible few.

This should not be. Loyalty to our fighting forces, to the security of the country and the existence of democratic institutions here and elsewhere, should make strikes—and lock-outs—unknown in establishments where vital war supplies are produced. The nation has cause to feel aggrieved and shamed, that here and there peaceful means of settling disputes have been ignored, or defied, and munitions factories left idle.

That isn't a way to help win the war. It is, whether those involved sense the fact, or do not, a way to lose it—and with it lose all civil rights, including the right to bargain for working conditions. There are no strikes—and no lock-outs—where Hitler's word is law. The concentration camp and the firing squad await any who in those countries refuse to work at whatever task is assigned them, or who interfere with others obeying orders, or who slacken on the job.

Canadians, who do not want to come under that order of things, should settle their factory disputes by the peaceful means which have been provided, and keep the munitions rolling out in ever-increasing amounts. It is only because some have refused to do this that the country is moving toward compulsory methods of preventing tie-ups.

A Challenge

Nazi planes bombed Cairo on Tuesday. Cairo is to the followers of the Prophet a holy city. There was no military reason for raining explosive and incendiary missiles upon it. Like the bombing of Buckingham palace, the attack must be set down to personal spleen on the part of the Fuehrer, or supposed to be meant to strike terror into the inhabitants of Egypt, Turkey, Iraq, Iran and India.

Whatever the purpose, notice is thus served upon the Moslem peoples that the new paganism has no more regard for their shrines and feelings than for those of Jews and Christians. They have therefore common ground with those of the other faiths on which to help destroy the common menace. In the "new order" there would be no room and no tolerance for any worship but the worship of Hitler.

Unless history fails to repeat and traditions count for nothing, hot resentment will sweep from the Nile to India at this gratuitous insult and wanton sacrilege. Brave desert peoples come of fighting stock, and their religious practices and belief are associated with war. If they are true sons of their conquering fathers, something other than terror will fill their minds at this outrage.

What Hitler's fifth column failed to accomplish in betraying these nations into slavery he has now set his air force to do. Since Cairo was not spared, no other city or part of the Middle East need expect immunity. The war has now been carried to the Moslem peoples. It is for them to show whether they have the manhood to fight for their freedom and their faith.

The War Of Suppression

Tuesday was a busy day for the gauleiters, the gestapo, the executioners and other functionaries who are employed to promote what is called collaboration in Hitler's realm. All told fifteen persons were put to death and twelve more marked for execution, while scores and perhaps hundreds were sent to prisons or concentration camps for minor offences against the orders of the Nazi bosses.

Ten of Tuesday's victims were French hostages, who were ahot at Paris for crimes which it was not even alleged they knew anything about. Some person or persons had shot at, but not always hit, German officers; wherefore vengeance was taken upon a proportionate number of Frenchmen whose only known crimes were that they were in custody.

In Yugoslavia the same day eleven men were sentenced to death because German officials had been attacked there, likely enough by parties the convicted men did not know and in places they had not been. In such matters of detail the gestapo is not curious.

It is rather more than likely that a good many of these victims died or are to die for crimes committed by Germans. What more natural, in an occupied country, than that a Nazi who has a grudge against another Nazi, or wants him out of the way for any reason, should take the opportunity to shoot him, knowing that some French hostage or Yugoslav will be shot in vengeance and the incident will be officially closed?

It does not raise any of our lost ships or put more carriers on the Atlantic run, but there is satisfaction in the news that while Axis raiders were sinking eight vessels en route to Britain ten Axis ships were bombed and three probably sunk in the Mediterranean.

The Reich ministry of food announces that Russian prisoners of war are to get poorer food or less food than those of other nationalities. The reason given is that Russia did not sign the international convention of 1939. The real reasons probably are that food in Germany is none too plentiful, and that the torturers think the Russians will fight less resolutely if they are told they will be half-starved if they are captured.

1891—50 Years Ago

Premier Abbott produced in the senate a letter from Lieut.-Gov. Angers of Quebec to Lord Stanley, Governor-General, regarding the Baie Des Chaleur railway scandal. He asks Lord Stanley's support in appointing a royal commission to investigate the matter and in the meantime asks that the action of the Quebec government be limited to urgent acts of administration. It is understood that Mercier has replied to Anger's demand for explanations by disclaiming ministerial responsibility for Pacaud's doings and disputing the authority of the senate to investigate provincial matters.

Apathy Towards War Constitutes Grave American Danger

Each Nation Should Think of Itself In Relation To Its Neighbors

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

There is an inescapable logic governing the dealings between any single nation and the rest of the world. Internally, societies of people may act in a fairly arbitrary way. They may pass laws, and revoke them, make decisions and reverse them, start one policy and change it. For they are, in wholly domestic matters, masters of their own destiny.

Dorothy Thompson

But they also live, as a nation, in a world of other nations, with whom they have relationships. And in their relations with the rest of the world they are not the exclusive masters of their destinies. A nation may, for instance, be committed to legitimate, representative, liberal government, and peace with all nations. Yet it may lose all these things without taking action at all, wholly through the act of another nation, as Holland and Norway have.

A nation may be immensely strong and perfectly able to defend itself given one set of conditions outside its own borders, but should conditions change it can find itself, without any discoverable action on its own part, utterly weak and defenceless, even when its own numbers, arms, and resources have in fact increased.

Britain, in 1937, was one of the strongest nations on earth. But her strength lay in the presumption that she had nothing to fear from the states of Europe. The presumption was false because her leaders had failed to understand the nature of the forces that were accumulating in one nation on the continent, and which would, in a very short time, bring the danger of national extermination to her very doors.

No Police Force

In a world in which there are no restrictions on national sovereignty and no police force to prevent the use of force by single nations, that nation is safest which has a consistent and long established foreign policy which the whole world knows can be challenged only at the risk of war. The United States has had, in its history, only three consistent policies: Freedom of the seas; the Monroe Doctrine, and the Open Door in the Far East.

As the President pointed out, the first of these policies is at long established that both Adams and Jefferson simply ordered their navies to clear the seas of raiders on shipping, without any consultation with Congress. We fought the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Great War over this principle. We avoided many other wars while keeping the seas free for ourselves by having a clear policy.

But in our own days, we set this policy adrift when in 1937 Congress passed the Neutrality Act, which had the unique distinction of being a one-way pledge to restrict our own freedom of action without any quid pro quo from other powers. The Neutrality Act was due to an error of thinking: that in foreign policy a nation can decide its destiny however it wants it. The act was only an invitation to be pushed around, and an invitation to aggression.

Interests Clear

The aggressions began very soon. After war broke out in the west, it was perfectly apparent to the American people, who are much brighter than their Congressmen, where our interests lay, and they supported by large majorities a succession of steps to protect those interests. Of course the attack on the embargo on supplies to Britain the Selective Service Act, the Lend-Lease Bill, and the occupation of Iceland for the defence of the Icelandic government were the high spots. But these acts, like the Neutrality Act, immediately had international results; all of them involved the will of the Nazi government.

The Nazi government had to decide whether to intervene to prevent these acts from being effective, and whether to risk war with the United States. International law never entered into the picture. The Nazi war plan goes on the assumption that a nation that completely disregards all inhibitions in the use of force will be insecure and in its own time will always have the advantage.

Neutrality or non-neutrality, isolation or non-isolation are judged by whether they are useful or harmful to the Nazis. Holland was neutral and isolationist, but Dutch neutrality and isolation did not serve Nazi interests, so they were violated. American isolation, at this stage of the game, would be useful to the Nazis as the arguments for it are put into the mouths of the Lindbergs.

Abandon Policy

But for us, the question becomes: Shall we abandon our policy because the Germans don't accept it, and are intervening against it? Shall we, in effect, again, we cannot make that decision as though it were purely a domestic matter, for the abandonment of the policy would be an even more cataclysmic act than to continue it.

Were it abandoned the pro-American government of Churchill would fall, the resistance to Hitler of the European peoples be broken, and in a few months' time we would be left alone, with all the advantages of manpower and resources and arms on his side, and without an ally in the world.

But failure to see the policy through would also have terrific internal repercussions. For while it is true that domestic policy does not always influence foreign policy, the reverse is never true. Failure to see the present policy through would leave the Roosevelt government without authority, the country divided, and the nation open to every fascist intrigue that is rife. And at no future time could we face Hitler again under as favorable circumstances.

Seeing the policy through means, right now, a naval war—whether it is called war or something else. It is unavoidable unless we wish to set our whole future afloat.

Limited War

But we are engaged in a limited war, confined to the seas, under seriously adverse conditions. First, we still leave the initiative to Hitler. Second, though a limited war is on, but not declared as war, every fifth columnist and defeatist in the country can continue to sabotage the defense effort, attempt to break down morale and allow himself to be a sounding board for Dr. Goebbels.

The preposterous publicity stunt against the government's foreign policy, with the motion picture industry as scapegoat can continue, paid for by the taxpayers, with a phony Senate committee conducting an "investigation," in which four of the five members have prejudged the case and are acting as prosecutors, witness, judge with the public as the audience. Mr. Lindbergh can continue to talk what would be, were war declared, high treason.

A dictatorship like Hitler's can wage undeclared wars, even limited wars, for it can move anywhere, any time, and take any measures, foreign or domestic, without consulting anyone. But the only way democracies can fight with an equal tactical advantage is to declare war and make it openly. To fight a partial and limited war against totalitarian powers making total war, is taking a gamble with luck, which is dangerous both internally and externally. It is likely to put the country into that somnolent "phony war" period that brought about the complete collapse of the morale in France. And where as in France, there are persons who would assist that collapse.

Therein lies the greatest danger to the United States.

American People Are Now Indifferent

Only Gravest Threat to Security Would Startle Them Into War Declaration

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Now that the American navy has embarked formally on the task of convoying war materials for Britain as far as Iceland, in spite of German submarine and raider threats, there is a disposition in Canada and, I believe, in Britain to sit back breathlessly and wait for a great naval clash that will plunge the United States into active war.

Ten chances to one it is a vain hope.

Harold L. Weir

Six months ago every expert observer in the British Empire and a good many in the United States would have been willing to bet real money that an American naval clash with Germany would precipitate war.

Now it is fairly obvious that it is and always has been a doubtful chance.

The Americans have just as much national pride as Canadians. A majority of them is warmly friendly to Britain.

But so many millions of them live inland and possess no sea-consciousness whatsoever that they have little of that fierce protective instinct which every Britisher holds for his navy.

A fight would be a naval disaster, for most of them, would just be another piece of sensational news, utterly without that personal significance which is essential to deadly anger.

If the Americans had intended to go to war over shipping atrocities, they would have done so when the "Robin Moor" was sunk.

If the "Robin Moor" and successive sea horrors have failed to move them, it is foolish to hope that a mere difference in degree of the same provocation will send them to war.

Shock Is Necessary

Unless Hitler unexpectedly collapses, the United States will get into the war sooner or later because Hitler's next major campaign may be directed against the United States.

But no naval incident, even a major one, will precipitate that entry. It will have to be something different, some violent shock involving an immediate threat which will enable the American imagination to see Nazi bombs dropping on their cities and Nazi troops menacing their towns.

Until the rank and file of the Americans recover from the hallucination of distance from the conflict, they will not permit their congressmen to declare war.

War, of course, may develop without a declaration. Hitler may seize Portuguese ports and Dakar and other points and bedevil the American navy so successfully that the American administration, in very self defence, may have to oust him forcibly from those places.

But, I repeat, there is precious little likelihood that even a major clash on the high seas will impel the Congress to declare a state of war.

And the reason is that the American people have been kept so long in a state of indecision that the danger has become minimized in their minds and, with a characteristic mental reaction, they have become unspeakably bored with the whole business.

Some Misconceptions

These opinions, which I confess have been developing over a period of weeks, find significant corroboration from Paul Manning, London correspondent for the American NBC network, who has recently returned to London after a prolonged holiday in the United States.

Mr. Manning declares emphatically that English and, inferentially, Canadian notions of the American state of mind are utterly false and completely mistaken.

He elaborates his statement with parallel items of what the British and Canadians believe about America and what he found, in his visit home, to be the actual facts.

I append a digest of these contrasts here:

THE BELIEF: That most Americans are in a belligerent mood, eager for entry into the war.

THE FACT: American popular sentiment still is miles from war although most people believe that a continuation of the administration's policy will eventually lead to war.

THE BELIEF: That, as in England, every person in the United States discusses the war.

THE FACT: There is a great apathy in regard to the war and the ordinary American devotes most of his conversation to business, baseball, fashions and the weather.

THE BELIEF: That U.S. production difficulties have been virtually solved and that tanks and airplanes are now rolling off the assembly lines in one unbroken sweep to Britain.

THE FACT: Although production has greatly improved in tanks and airplanes and guns, factory managers still preface every conversation with "come 1942 and 1943."

THE BELIEF: That President Roosevelt and the American nation are, with the exception of Lindbergh and Wheeler, in complete harmony.

THE FACT: Opposition to Mr. Roosevelt and his foreign policy is to be found among both capital and labor groups who are neither isolationists nor supporters of Wheeler and Lindbergh.

THE BELIEF: That editorial opinion in America is interventionist.

THE FACT: About half the press comment is not only isolationist but violently isolationist.

THE BELIEF: That every American loves Britain.

THE FACT: Large groups of native-born Americans are still suspicious of Britain and her motives because they still remember the false stories and the ill-feeling between both nations after 1918.

THE BELIEF: That all Americans hope for a great union between the two great English-speaking nations the day war ends.

THE FACT: A common passport and citizenship would not be accepted by the rank and file of Americans than it would by the ordinary Englishman.

THE BELIEF: That America is throbbing with what Ambassador John Winant calls a "dynamic tempo."

THE FACT: Only in Washington, D.C., is there anything resembling the dynamic, which is largely confusion. In Los Angeles, Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York, the tempo, outside of actual defence factories, is low.

Some of Mr. Manning's estimates of British opinion are obviously nonsense, notably that which has to do with a hypothetical English-speaking union.

Some of his conclusions about his own country may be tinged by political partisanship.

But even with these discounts, there is enough left to make us think.

New Yorkers' Flitting Day

Metropolis Dwellers Make September Moves From Sheer Force of Long Habit

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK.—Late September is a time of loveliness and melancholy in New York City.

The taxis and subways begin to take on their first tint of autumn colors. There is a delightful crispness about the soot in the air and the honk of the soap box orators as they migrate south from Central Park to Union Square.

It is to be heard. There is a zip and a tingle to the way pedestrians bump into one another off the sidewalks, and the fresh, woodsey scent of mothballs is in the air.

W. Lippmann

But New Yorkers aren't happy. Late September is also a time for thinking of moving from one apartment or hotel to another. Between June and the first of October, just as if they were checker men moved about a board by a giant and unseen hand, New Yorkers will hop over one another by the millions in pursuit of a different residence.

They can no more help this than salmon can help clattering up certain rivers each year, or the bob-tailed mackerel can help making his annual trip to the Indian or some such ocean. When this time of year arrives something stirs in the New Yorker's breast that compels him to scorn the renewal of his lease and turn his face toward a new neighborhood, with the excitement of meeting strange janitors, strange superintendents and strange corner druggists, grocerymen and butchers.

Urge To Move

This irresistible urge to move does not make the New Yorker happy. His roots sink fast and in the year he has lived in the apartment he must leave, he has learned to love it. He has the same affection for it that other men have for the old family homestead. Everything about it is so familiar.

He cherishes the stately cop on the corner just as a Hoosier does the old sycamore on the lawn. He knows that 11:50 in the morning is the only time the sun strikes the living room with sufficient force to warrant turning off the lights. He also knows that the superintendent always has a beer at the corner tavern between 5 and 6 and that it is safe then to take the pup for a romp on the roof of the building. He knows just how far to turn the hot and cold water faucets on the bathtub to draw a perfect bath. He likes the view from his living room window because it commands a view of the Smiths' living room across the court, and the Smiths give the best parties of any family in the building.

Its tough on New Yorkers to pull up these deep-seated roots, product of a whole year of living in one place. The only consolation New Yorkers have when moving is that 99 out of 100 times they will move into an apartment almost identical with the one they left. It won't be any larger, it won't be any more comfortable. The kitchen will be right where it was in the apartment they moved from and of the same standard size, meaning it will be so small that it is impossible to make an omelette with more than four eggs in it.

Off the kitchen will be a dinette, and off the dinette a living room, and off the living room a bedroom, and off the bedroom a bath, and placed inconveniently here and there a closet that can accommodate one cap and a pair of overshoes, provided they are friendly and don't mind snuggling.

All The Same

The wealthier New York apartment switchers move from penthouse to penthouse. These again have a dreadful similarity. The smoke and grime that blows over one blows over all, and the well-to-do teen minutes on the terrace of one of them is to wind up looking like Al Jolson in the first act.

The trials of moving are even worse for New Yorkers this year.

The cost of packing and vanning has risen considerably, so many are doing the work themselves.

Building Boulder Dam took longer, but packing a barrel of china is harder. The man who designed the first cup never meant for it to be packed in a barrel. The only way to make a cup fit is to knock off its handle. Dozens of handles are yielding their lives in New York right now, and the money amateur packers are saving will be spent to replace the broken china.

Few men can wrap and tie a love seat in newspaper and burlap and come through the ordeal the same. The late Harry Houdini couldn't extricate himself from a straight jacket with half the ease a piece of furniture can come out of its wrappings when it is picked up to be moved.

But enough of this describing the horrors of moving.

We're going to move on October 1st, and I have at least 20 appointments to go and look at other apartments. It'll be nice to be out of the house though, and what the 20 or 30 prospective tenants who are coming to look at mine,

Giant White Shark

AUSTRALIAN PRESS BUREAU

E. H. V. Riggs, a South Australian sheep farmer, who caught a white shark weighing 1,747 pounds off Port Lincoln, South Australia, is applying to the International Game-Fish Association in New York for recognition of his catch as a world record. He caught the monster shark with rod and line using a number 39 thread line. It measured 15 feet 3 inches and had a girth of 8 feet 2 inches.

The previous record is believed to be that held by a member of a fishing party, which included the late Zane Grey, who caught with rod and line a shark weighing 1,383 pounds in 1939.

"Thirty Days Hath September"

ALBERTA DISTRICT NEWS IN BRIEF

Plans Proceeding For Annual School Fair At Sundre, Saturday, Sept. 27

OLDS—Postponed through the provincial ban on gatherings of young people, the annual Sundre School Fair this year will be held Saturday, Sept. 27, according to an announcement made this week. This fall the fair celebrates its 25th anniversary and as a result of the efforts of officials in charge, generous contributions from merchants and friends in Sundre, Olds, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, have made prizes more attractive in nearly every class.

Exhibits of poultry, livestock, sewing, cooking, manual training and school work have been received. Special classes for school pupils, oral reading, composition and other events have also been arranged.

Judging will be supervised by Inspector S. P. Cornish and instructors from the Olds agricultural school. Cups will be awarded for winners of physical training and chorus contests. It is expected that keen competition will be shown between the 15 schools participating. A scholarship to business college will be awarded the student winning the largest number of points.

WAR WORK PROJECTS COME UNDER DISCUSSION

The Sundre W.I. discussed new war work projects at a recent meeting. It is expected that a large amount of sewing, knitting and other work will be completed this season. Those present gifted Mrs. W. Parker prior to her leaving the district.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL PLANNED AT OLDS

The Olds School division is planning a number of improvements in its 103 schools. In addition to this, a new school building was moved to Sundre from Eagle Point, making space for junior and high school work.

Delegates Are Named To Meet Co-Op. Official

FAIRVIEW — Three delegates chosen at the Waterhole United Farmers of Alberta meeting recently, to meet with Norman F. Priestly, general manager and vice-president of U.F.A. Central Co-operative Association, Calgary, are Johnny Madden, Jack K. McKay and Sam Simpson.

Mr. Priestly, former president of the C.C.A., is expected in the north Peace River area soon. A general meeting for various U.F.A. group delegates will take place at that time. Members of Waterhole U. F. A. Saturday approved the opening of a local agency at Brownvale to actively engage in co-operative buying for its members of non-perishable commodities such as binder twine, salt and coal. Waterhole U. F.A. board comprises Burt Bailey, secretary and Sam Simpson and Jack McKay.

J. E. Brownlee, K.C., advises and assists the board of the co-operative association. The board owns six petroleum agencies in the Peace River country. Robert Gardiner is president. The co-operative this season paid out $23,404.50 in dividends.

With The Men In Uniform

Christmas parcels are being prepared for local men overseas by members of the Wainwright War Services League. Comforts will also be sent children in bombed-out areas.

Const. Jack Sangster has been transferred from McLennan to Peace River. He is now attached to Const. C. S. Bell from Peace River.

Jack Hancock, R.C.A.F., is home on leave at Sirome. Julian Schecter, R.C.A.F., spent the weekend with his parents at Sirome.

Lyman Anderson, R.C.A.F., air gunner, is home on leave at Daysland. He is training at Claresholm. Sgt. Howard Dobbs, R.C.A.F., is on leave at Daysland. He was a well-known hockey player prior to enlisting.

Jack Neville, R.C.A.F. wireless operator of Daysland is visiting his relatives at that point.

AC 2 Russell Smith and AC 2 Ted Caldwell, both of the R.C.A.F. are home on leave at Killam. Frank Hayward, son of H. Hayward of Killam has enlisted with the R.C.A.F.

Edmontonians At Trade Board Meet

RED DEER—On Monday evening the Red Deer Board of Trade held a banquet in the Buffalo hotel at which guests were present from Edmonton, Calgary, Didsbury, Innisfail, Penhold, Sylvan Lake, Rocky Mountain House, Lacombe and Vancouver. It was opening meeting of the fall season and about 90 persons sat down to the banquet with S. F. D. Roe, president of the Red Deer Board, acting as chairman.

Mr. Roe introduced the guests, starting with Group Captain W. B. Farrington, D.S.O., and Squadron Leader P. G. George, of No. 36 Service Flying Training School, R.A.F., Penhold. Members of the Calgary delegation were introduced by F. Slapella, past president of the Calgary Board of Trade.

E. G. Johns, deputy mayor, spoke on behalf of the city of Red Deer, extending a welcome to the guests. W. A. Thomson, president of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, gave a short address, dealing with the objectives of a board of trade. Other speakers were F. Slapella, Calgary; Mayor T. Wilks, Lacombe; W. H. Tickey, president of the Rocky Mountain Board of Trade; Group Captain Farrington and J. Ballantyne, Red Deer.

The Calgary party were in charge of entertainment for the evening which was conducted by Glyndwr Jones. Vocal solos, duets and impersonations rounded out an enjoyable evening. Mr. Jones and J. Rintoul, Calgary; Mayor Wilks, Lacombe, and J. Strachan, Edmonton, contributed to the program.

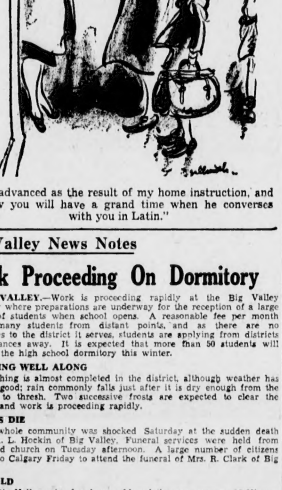

Funeral Service

McLENNAN—The death occurred Sunday of the five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hachez. The funeral service was held from the Catholic Church on Monday afternoon.

Building Work

SYLVAN LAKE—Sergeant Smith of Drumheller is building a residence on the six lots he recently purchased on Main Street, south.

Side Glances — By Galbraith

"He's advanced as the result of my home instruction, and I know you will have a grand time when he converses with you in Latin."

Big Valley News Notes

Work Proceeding On Dormitory

BIG VALLEY.—Work is proceeding rapidly at the Big Valley dormitory where preparations are underway for the reception of a large number of students when school opens. A reasonable fee per month attracts many students from distant points, and as there are no boundaries to the district it serves, students are applying from districts long distances away. It is expected that more than 50 students will reside in the high school dormitory this winter.

THRESHING WELL ALONG

Threshing is almost completed in the district, although weather has not been good; rain commonly falls just after it is dry enough from the last rain to thresh. Two successive frosts are expected to clear the weather, and work is proceeding rapidly.

CITIZENS DIE

The whole community was shocked Saturday at the sudden death of Mrs. A. L. Hoekin of Big Valley. Funeral services were held from the United church on Tuesday afternoon. A large number of citizens motored to Calgary Friday to attend the funeral of Mrs. R. Clark of Big Valley.

MINE SOLD

The Big Valley mine has been sold and the new owners, McKinnon and Baxter, Inland to commence operations shortly. Several new improvements are underway, and that double screen coal will be offered for sale shortly.

HERE AND THERE

Miss Florence Ray of Big Valley has been engaged by the Stettler divisional board and will take up her duties at the Price school, southwest of Scollard. Word has been received that ten students of the Big Valley high school are attending Normal this fall. Salvage of old aluminum is proceeding under the auspices of the local branch of the Red Cross. Special effort is being made for collection on September 20 and September 27.

Rain Is Hindrance

Threshing Conditions Serious In Rocky Mountain District

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE.—Threshing has not started in this district and cutting is still incomplete, with rain every day for a month. Binders sink in mud if they try to run. What grain is in stooks is rapidly losing its color; even the stooks are withered and brown, as though they had been outside all winter. Some are standing in water.

Farmers turn their stooks daily to try and dry them, but they are afraid that the grade will be so low and the grain so tough they won't be able to sell it when it is threshed. Crops were fair here, where the hail did not strike, but unless the weather clears up at once, which is about no signs of doing, farmers will lose on the year's operations.

Pastures have recovered wonderfully with the rains and hay crop was fair. Potatoes are good, as are other vegetables. Blueberries and cranberries are plentiful, and so far have not been hurt by the frost.

TEACHERS LISTED

Teachers for the town school for the coming term are as follows: High School, R. G. Williams, Erskine, principal; R. G. Coghlon, Mircor; Miss Margaret Fraser, Pinches Creek.

Public School, Miss Helen Carroll, Eckville, Miss Gladys Wiese, Carslairs; Miss Joy Russell, Red Deer; Miss Helen Sienbach and Miss Mary Ross, Rocky Mountain House.

Miss Wiese and Miss Ross are the only two new teachers on the staff. The Rocky Mountain school division is still eight teachers short, but hopes to fill those vacancies before school opens.

Service Club Now Resumes Meetings

WAINWRIGHT — The Patriotic Service Club met at the home of Mrs. A. Sawer Monday evening. Mrs. W. Brunker, president, presented Mrs. D. Walker, one of the members, with a silver bread tray, as a parting gift from the club members. Mrs. Walker is moving shortly to Jasper.

War Aid

WAINWRIGHT.—War Services League has rendered the following services in aid of the war effort: Donated to Red Cross, $164; to Navy League, $25; war saving, $13; war services fund, assistance in promotion; refreshments for the A.C.A. mobile recruiting unit on its visit here; parcels and correspondence to men in uniform from this district; sent 3,100 cigarettes to men of this district on active service.

Hanna Notes

HANNA—Miss Keithia Brownlee left the Hanna municipal hospital last Sunday, going to the home of Mrs. D. Taylor. Tuesday morning she boarded the train for her home in Sheerness.

School staff for the next term is as follows: Principal, A. W. Prime; Misses J. McK. Cooke, Sillington, M. Taylor, Jean Golley; Mesdames E. Purdy, D. Taylor, A. M. Mack; Messrs Morton, Johnson and Carlson.

DAUGHTER EMPLOYED

Lawyer Cyril Coughlin has engaged his daughter, Miss G. Coughlin as stenographer. At least one freak of nature was grown in Hanna this year. Mrs. G. C. Talmage grew a lot of scarlet runnerbeans and one of them bore pure white flowers.

Doctor Visits

McLENNAN—Dr. Leo Giroux of Dawson Creek is visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs J. T. Giroux.

Club Worker Leaves Area For New Home

WILLINGDON — Mrs. G. Pettigrew, wife of the C.P.R. station master in Willingdon, left for Vancouver Tuesday, where she and her husband plan to make their home. Mrs. Pettigrew took an active interest in community work for the past 12 years. She was the first Regent of the Col. Reid chapter, I.O.D.E., continuing in that office for many years. She also took an active part in Red Cross work, serving on the executive for the past two years, and did a large amount of knitting for soldiers. When the War Services fund drive started, Mrs. Pettigrew acted as treasurer and canvasser. She also took a keen interest in the Community park, which was sponsored by the I.O.D.E.

RAILMAN TRANSFERRED

J. Lundquist, C.P.R. watchman in Willingdon, left with his family for Medicine Hat. Mr. Lundquist will act as a fireman on the C.P.R. lines. Mr. Lundquist lived in Willingdon for five years and will be greatly missed by baseball and hockey fans.

OLD-TIMER DIES

An old timer of Willingdon district, John Gordey, died at the age of 82. He is survived by his widow, six sons and one daughter: Metro and Peter of Willingdon; William at Peace River; George at Vancouver; Nick and Fred of Toronto; and Helen of Vancouver. Mr. Gordey came to Canada from Western Ukraine in 1899 and after a short residence at Andrew, moved to Willingdon, where he had resided ever since.

Loggers Look To Big Season This Winter

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE — The Atlas Lumber company's planing mill is working 24-hours a day, turning out a capacity load of 125,000 feet of planed lumber daily. Huge piles of lumber in a yard half a mile long are being shipped out to fill the orders that pour in. Much is going to the government construction jobs.

Trucks run night and day in to the planer from small mills out in the bush. Many of these small mills started to shut down all summer, but they have been running steadily for a year and the others that did shut down are now being overhauled for the winter's work.

North of town, where forest fires were so bad last spring, lumbermen are hurrying to start operations, to salvage fire-killed trees. If these trees are cut and sawed within a year, a considerable percentage can be salvaged, but after a year, the tree rots and is worthless, not even good firewood and even if it were, transportation is too difficult, because black sticks that mark everything they touch. Work in the burned over area can be done in summer, but lumbermen have found it a risky proceeding, as very often a second fire springs up and destroys the gains they have made. Time is spent money in cutting and hauling, so they wait until fall rains and snow lessen the fire danger.

SEASON'S WORK

Workers expect a full season's work in the bush, with some camps moving to new sites. Each year, camps move further from town, but ten or 20 miles, there is no road through the bush, throw log bridges over the numerous small creeks and trucks haul logs and saws lumber. Only a few horses are used these days in bush work.

As the majority of camps are across the North Saskatchewan river, lumbermen are hurrying to get as much hauling done as possible before the ferry has to be taken out, usually around November 10. When the river starts to freeze, there is at least three weeks, sometimes, six, when the ferry cannot run and the ice is not solid enough to drive on.

Atlas Lumber To Construct Houses

NORTH RED DEER—The Atlas Lumber Company, of Red Deer, purchased from the village, two lots on Main street, and will build houses for rent on the property. George Bell, furniture dealer, has started to build his new home on his riverside property, south of the boulevard.

State Control

MADRID, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Spain extended state control Wednesday to all copper, tin, aluminum, zinc, manganese, tungsten, molybdenum, nickel, chromium and vanadium mines. Specific mines declared of military interest already were under state control.

In District 35 Years

Pioneer Viking Pair Honored

VIKING.—Honoring two pioneers of this district, the community gathered to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hilliker, who are making their home in Ontario after 35 years residence here. They were presented with a suitable remembrance gift and a scroll signed by citizens. Mr. Hilliker is one of the pioneer merchants of Viking, having been in business here before the G.T.P. railway surveyed the Viking townsite.

PRINCIPAL ARRIVES

W. B. Elliott and bride have arrived to make their home here. Mr. Elliott is principal of the Viking schools and is making preparations for the opening of the fall term.

HONOR BRIDE

Showers have been held for Mrs. H. B. Rogers (nee Miss E. M. Metcalfe) previous to her removal to Drumheller. She was matron of the Viking municipal hospital for ten years.

HOTTEST DAY

The local weather man who operates the government station at this place reports that the hottest day this summer was Friday, July 18, when the thermometer registered 103 degrees.

OWNERS CHANGE

The Viking garage has changed ownership. J. M. Langager from McLennan replaces H. L. Pavine who has removed to High Prairie.

POLIO PRECAUTIONS

Restrictions have been placed on the number of visitors to the Viking municipal hospital on account of the poliomyelitis epidemic that is infesting the province. There are no local cases but precautions are being taken by the health authorities.

AUCTION SALES

Farm auction sales are already underway this fall which is considered early. This is accounted for by the early harvest which is just about completed in this area. The crop is very light in most instances. Hogs and cattle are in good shape and farmers are disposing same at good prices.

ALUMINUM DRIVE

The Viking Red Cross Society and district auxiliaries have planned an "aluminum drive" and are asking the co-operation of citizens, school teachers and pupils to make it a success.

RECRUITING DRIVE

A recruiting party from the Edmonton Fusiliers, under Lieut. Stutchbury, was in town Monday receiving applications from new recruits for Canada's active army.

ELKS CORN ROAST

The members of the Elks Lodge, Viking No. 83, treated their friends, wives and sweethearts to a "corn roast" Monday evening as part of their social program for the coming season. Frank Mitchell, district deputy grand master of district No. 17, A.F. & A.M., paid an official visit to Connaught Lodge, Viking, Tuesday evening, accompanied by several brethren from Chauvin Lodge.

Car Owner Can Play His Part In War Effort

CALGARY, Sept. 18—(CP)—Waller S. Campbell, advisor to the Department of National War Services, Ottawa, told a dinner meeting of the Calgary branch, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Wednesday night that there is no fear of the future in your hands as far as the industrial world is concerned."

In addition, G. E. Carpenter, secretary of the prairie division of the association, who is acting as trade representative to the prairie provinces in Ottawa, briefly addressed the meeting and answered questions pertaining to the conflict. Present also was T. Ashenhurst, Edmonton, secretary of the Alberta branch.

J. H. Anderson, chairman of the Calgary branch, presided.

At the business meeting which followed the dinner speech, Mr. Campbell spoke again on "world's oil in war and peace." He pointed out that every car owner can play his part and help to speed up the war effort. "You cannot run your automobile and the Navy ships and tanks also," he said. "Now which are you automobile owners here in favor of—you going to pull your weight in this war—or let the auto pull you?" he asked. "Never mind what your neighbor does—your actions will speak for your conscience."

Last Rites Held For Roscoe Kline

LACOMBE — Funeral services were held here Wednesday for Roscoe Kline, middle-aged farmer who was found dead in his granary on Sunday morning. Rev. A. L. Carr officiated at the funeral, which were taken by the local branch of the Canadian Legion. Kline was a native Albertan and a pioneer of the Oyen district.

Dr. F. D. Locke, local coroner, made an investigation and decided that no inquest would be necessary. He said that they had found a rifle had been found beside the dead man, who had been shot through the head. police said.

GUEST SPEAKER

W. R. Watson, University graduate and lecturer who lost the use of his arms at birth, addressed a gathering in the Church hall here Tuesday evening on "Why Worry?" Prior to the meeting he was the guest of the local Lions' Club at their weekly luncheon meeting.

BUY BREN GUN CARRIER

A fall campaign will be started shortly to raise the cost of a Bren gun carrier through the War Savings organizations, it was decided at a meeting held here to discuss the matter. R. R. Brough, provincial administrator of the campaign, addressed the meeting and outlined its objectives. George Brown, chairman, is in charge of the local committee which will be in charge of the program.

JAM CAMPAIGN

Local branch of the Women's Institute is now engaged on a jam-making campaign and each member has pledged herself to make one or more tins of jam for the armed forces overseas.

Ottawa Refuses Calgary Request

CALGARY, Sept. 18—(CP)—Federal authorities have turned down the city's proposal that a joint military and civilian hospital be constructed on the Burns' property on Fourth street west. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of pension and national health, informed Mayor Andrew Davison in a letter received yesterday, that it was against the government's policy to participate in such a proposal.

Taber Hearings On Cancer Cure Are Concluded

TABER, Sept. 18—(CP)—The provincial cancer commission hearing evidence of the Koch treatment concluded its hearings here Wednesday. Testimonies were given during the morning and afternoon.

W. Bullock who distributes the product in the province spoke to the commission of his work in helping to get this movement started. He told of meeting with Dr. Cross, minister of health on March 17 at which time Dr. David Arnott, of London, Ont., representative of Dr. Koch, presented the outline of Koch's treatment. Dr. Cross promised to come and investigate the cases but had not done so until he sent Dr. McGugan to investigate plans for a local hospital.

VISITED PATIENTS

Dr. McGugan visited Mr. Bullock and several of the patients. His report was given, so in June Mr. Bullock went to Dr. Cross and asked for Dr. McGugan's report.

This report was very unfavorable, Mr. Bullock, feeling this was unsatisfactory went to Edmonton last Monday and there conferred with Premier Aberhart and his cabinet. He was there advised for the first time that the cancer commission would convene the following morning for the purpose of gathering testimonials of patients treated by Koch's treatment.

At the end of the hearing Dr. W. A. R. Kerr, chairman, thanked those present and those who had personally testified. He said the commission was a fact finding body primarily a cancer commission, but said they had listened with interest to the testimonies of other ailments. He said "we have tried to be impartial in our approach and guarantee continued interest in the contents of this report."

TREATMENT DESCRIBED

The chemical used, Dr. Arnott told the hearing, is distributed in single glass ampules, together with a hypodermic syringe and needle. It is administered with the needle under the tongue, and there is little or no local reaction, occasionally a little headache, slight chilliness, and a little fever, but these soon disappear.

The great reaction, he said, is the relief from pain.

On a question by Dr. J. F. Fife, Edmonton physician and surgeon, Dr. Arnott said the injections, if more than one were needed, should be spaced 9, 12 and 18 weeks apart.

License Is Needed For All Repairs To Grain Elevators

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Extensions and repairs to existing grain elevators as well as construction of new grain elevators must be licensed by the minister of construction, under provisions of an order-in-council passed on recommendation of Munitions Minister Howe.

Previously new grain elevator space construction did not require licence unless it cost more than $10,000, and extensions or repairs could be carried out unlicensed unless the cost exceeded $2,500.

Well-Known West Horse Breeder Is Fatally Injured

BRANDON, Man., Sept. 18—(CP)—William U. Pitfield, 72, well known light horse breeder and a judge at many western fairs, Wednesday was fatally injured when thrown from a mower at his farm, 14 miles southwest of here. His horses ran away.

The body was found in a field near his home early last night by searchers from the farm.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

ONE of the few benefits of a first class war is that it compels people to get down to essential fundamentals in their way of thinking and living. For example you actually see things done that are considered impossible in normal times—such as producing any needed amount of money or its equivalent.

The war has blasted away a lot of cobweb in sport as well as in industry, finance and economics. The current fuss about the ban on military age hockey players leaving Canada for U. S. jobs is the latest phase of this getting down to brass tacks.

For the sake of argument, let us suppose that pro hockey has to fold up. In fact let us suppose all pro sport folds up. So what? Does it strike you that we would lose anything essential if this came to pass?

There is no question but what a number of citizens would have to look for other places to use their brains and athletic ability and that they would therefore consider pro sport a rock bottom essential, but, so far as you and your neighbor are concerned, would you actually suffer in any way?

Suppose that in place of pro sport we substituted as pure a form of amateurism as could be obtained, that we gave as much support to junior baseball, hockey and football as we have been accustomed to giving to the pro and senior forms of these games—don't you think we would be making quite an advance?

Actually that is what the war has forced Edmonton to do. We have substituted a three-team city junior league for the Western Conference football that was costing us over $20,000 for a half dozen home games and, generally speaking, there is no moaning among the fans. Next season's junior baseball promises to be good enough to satisfy the majority of reasonable fans should the senior clubs find themselves unable to operate. So far as hockey is concerned, the junior variety here has generally been as satisfying as the senior.

Pro sport, under which classification most senior branches fall in actuality, offers only amusement and a chance for players and backers to make money. On the other hand, sport for boys and girls under 21 years of age developes in them a number of qualities that make them better citizens—strong and healthy bodies, alert minds, readiness and ability to co-operate and so on. Sport also carries the vast majority of youngsters safely through the critical years when characters can become dangerously twisted.

Actually the only loss from the death of pro sport would be that a comparative few would have to look for other jobs. Carrying on with the business of getting down to basic facts, you will have to admit that our economic and social organization is ready for a drastic overhauling if we have to grasp at such picayune straws as pro sport to provide occupations for our younger citizens.

Junior Football Executive Takes Action

YESTERDAY the executive of the Edmonton Junior Football League, under the presidency of Art Carlson, took immediate action on the conduct of Jim Kilburn in Tuesday night's game. The E.A.C. centre was suspended for one game and a stern warning issued that the league would not tolerate this type of conduct. It was pointed out that suspension for the entire season could quite easily be made in such a case, but that it was felt this one-game penalty would prove a sufficient lesson and warning.

The executive also completely exonerated the officials of any blame in the matter and made clair that neither Coach Ernie Sievens nor any E.A.C. player had complained about or objected to the officials. These officials will be retained and used. However the league's policy is to alternate officials throughout the season and, in accordance with this, Dr. Broadfoot will act as referee for Saturday night's game. The officials who handled Tuesday night's game will take their turn during the remainder of the schedule.

This strikes me as being a very commendable and satisfactory way of cleaning up a regrettable incident.

Famous Sauerkraut Line May Not Function This Season

KITCHENER, Ont., Sept. 18.—(CP)—One of hockey's most-famous forward lines, the "Krauts" of Boston's Stanley Cup championship team may be broken up this season.

The possibility was seen today after an announcement by W. A. Martin of London, Ont., that his divisional board, National War Services Department, would refuse permission to any hockey player between the ages of 21 and 28 to go to the United States this season.

Milt Schmidt, who centres the high-scoring line, and Porky Dumart, left-winger, both fall into these categories and are single, therefore liable to be called for compulsory training in Canada. Schmidt is 22, Dumart 24. Bobby Bauer, the right-winger of the line, is 26 and out of the age groups affected by the Compulsory Service Act.

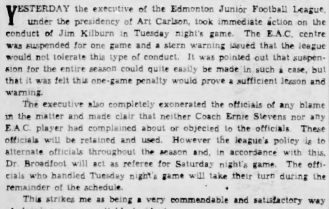

Martin is divisional registrar and acting chairman of the board.

He said his office had already told two inquiring hockey players in Kitchener that they could not go to the United States for tryouts. Martin did not name the players.

Each case would be considered individually, Martin added, but as a general policy no hockey players in the affected age groups would be given permission to leave the country.

Besides the Krauts, three other Kitchener players—Art Herchenrather, property of Detroit Red Wings; Auggie Herchenratter of Pittsburgh's American League team, and Howie Hollinger of New York Rovers, a New York amateur farm—will come under the ruling.

The left leg is injured about twice as often as the right in skiing.

Nova's Spirits, Condition Promise Rousing Battle

By HARRY FERGUSON

POMPTON LAKES, N.J., Sept. 18.—(BUP)—Lou Nova stuck out a big brown paw and Ray Arcel, his trainer, started winding bandages around it.

"You weighed yet?" Arcel asked.

Nova shook his head from side to side and walked over to a corner of the dressing room and stepped on the scales. It showed 210½.

"That's fine," Arcel said, "that gives us some margin to work on." Nova nodded and held out his hands for the bandages again.

Two things strike you as you drive over the George Washington bridge through the green New Jersey countryside to this camp where Nova is preparing for the fight of his life against Joe Louis a week from Monday:

1. Nova is in superb physical condition. In fact, the job that Arcel has now is to keep him from going stale.

2. Nova's spirits are high. He isn't going to be afraid of Louis and despite advice from his seconds he probably is going to slug it out with the champion. It may look like a slaughter house when they get through, because both of them can take it and both can dish it out. Arcel would prefer to have Nova box and try to escape punishment, but he hasn't much hope that Lou will do that.

NO FUNNY STUFF

Nova worked three rounds yesterday against three sparring partners and he was rarin' to go. He seems to be getting close to a fighting edge, and he also seems to have forgotten a lot of the screwball stuff that he has given out in the last year. During four hours at the camp yesterday he didn't mention the cosmic punch and he didn't stand on his head. He looked like a young man who suddenly has realized that the golden chance of a lifetime has arrived.

In the ring he didn't look too good, but then he never does.

"I'm just not a gymnasium fighter," he explained as the bandages were clamped on with tape. "It was the same way when I used to play football. If I wasn't starting the game, I'd sit on the bench and not be able to work up much interest. But as soon as the coach sent me into the game and I began heaving those passes, I could really get down to business."

SEASONED GENERAL

Arcel, a slender man who is recognized as one of the best trainers in the business, probably knows as much about how to fight Louis as anybody. He has been in the corner opposite the champion nine times, and keeps in condition by dragging fighters to the corner after Louis has belted 'em out. His job with Nova is mainly a psychological one.

"We don't talk much about the fight around this camp," he said. "Lou is interested in baseball. He's an ardent rooter for the Dodgers and his favorite player is Dolf Camilli, and we talk about that and listen to the radio.

"I've seen some fighters who were worried about Louis. I don't mean that they were scared necessarily, but they thought about the fight too much while they were training. Lou doesn't do that. He's got a pretty good idea what he wants to do when he gets into the ring, so we don't have to go into that much."

Outside, Nova was singing his Alameda, (Calif.) high school song for some reporters—singing it with a grin on his face and apparently not a care in the world. He didn't look much like a man who was worried about being a dozen days away from one of the most murderous punchers who ever stepped into a ring.

This one may be something to see, brethren, something to see.

Why Pick On Yankees?

Young Players Too Cocky, Lack Ambition, Claims Dykes

By BILL KING

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Putting reverse English on the futile war cry of "break up the Yankees," keen-witted Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox, suggests the other seven clubs do some smashing on their own hooks.

"Any time a club finishes 20 or more games behind the leader, tear it to ribbons," Jimmy advises before pointing out, "something must be radically wrong when they can't fight back. They can not improve of their own accord unless they shake themselves up between seasons."

And, since he is casting himself as a baseball physician, Jamesy is willing to take the first taste of his own prescribed medicine.

"I probably will be forced to undergo an operation on my own gall bladder within a few months," Dykes said, "but no matter what they do to me, it will be time for the cutting I'm going to do on my White Sox . . .

"I believe a trade gives a disappointing player a new lease on life," he continued. "I have too many of them and I'm willing and eager to talk trades with every manager in the league."

With Jamesy in full verbal flight it was an easy matter to let him express a firm opinion on the failings of the current baseballers.

"They don't know when they are well off," he declared without hesitation. "They have too much time to themselves. Too easy a life. I never saw such a lack of ambition in any line of business as young ball players have . . .

"Few of them make any effort to improve themselves. They realize too well that replacements are hard to find and, as a result, they get too cocky. They know they'll be picked up by some other club if they're released. But I'm going to find a way to change them."

ALIENS SIGN UP

LONDON—(CP)—Thousands of friendly Germans, Austrians and Italians resident in Britain, men between 16-60 and women to 50, have voluntarily registered for war work.

Opening date of the new clubhouse at Jasper Park golf course has been set for Saturday, Sept. 27.

Grizzlies Start Tough Four-Game Trip To Prairies

VANCOUVER, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Vancouver Grizzlies left last night for Regina on their first road trip, a tough jaunt that includes four games within a week and will undoubtedly prove or disprove the new coast grid machine as a threat in the first year in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The Grizzlies meet Rough Riders—against whom they lost one, 4-1, and won one, 7-6, here last weekend—at Regina next Friday. Then comes a two-game series Sept. 22 and 24 at Winnipeg with the Blue Bombers, champions of Western Canada for the past four years. The coast team will then bounce back to Regina for a final game there Sept. 26, before returning home to engage the Bombers here Thanksgiving day.

Playing Coach Greg Kabat took eight backfielders with him, including Jack Horne, Bill Heindl, Jimmy Gilkea, Garnie Smith, Jack Labelle, Sammy Carol, Johnny Gorenko and Norm Trasolini.

Grizzly linemen making the trip include Streaky Adams, Charlie Millman, Gordon Gellhaye, Mert Van Ostrand, Jack Eaton, Eric Smith, Bob Ellison, Al Pollack, Hank Smith, Casey Jones and "Moon" Cameron.

Stan Leacock and Larry Haynes will play at outside end centre. Joe Keyes and Art Ecenberg will look after the snap spot.

Picture Butte Defaults Belated Playoff Series

LETHBRIDGE, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Picture Butte Royals wrote finis to their four-year reign as senior Alberta baseball champions Wednesday by defaulting their final series playoff with Little Chicago Cubs of Turner Valley.

Royals received word last Saturday that they were to play a best-of-five series with Little Chicago for the Alberta senior title.

In announcing the default of the series, Manager Jimmy Paul said: "It is impossible for us to play the series now. It has been a month now since we defeated the Galt Miners in the southern Alberta finals, and during that time we would have been more than anxious to play any club for the title.

"Work starts in the sugar beet factory this week," he added, "and all our players will be too busy to even think of attempting a five-game series."

Millers Still In League Playoffs

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Millers weathered a storm of errors and Louisville bats Wednesday and clung tenaciously to their American Association playoff raft with a 10-6 victory over the Colonels.

The Minneapolis victory prolonged the semi-final playoffs at least another day. It was the Miller's second straight triumph after three Louisville victories. Louisville must win one of the remaining two games, the Millers need them both.

Pepper Pot Wins Victoria Feature

VICTORIA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—Pepper Pot, owned and trained by Mrs. T. Briggs, Wednesday raced to victory in the feature race at the Willows track. Yvonnis was second and Lee Somers third.

Taking full advantage of the final mid-week holiday before the close of racing for the season next Monday, one of the largest crowds of the meet was on hand.

Avondale stuck farm's Fay Park took the initial race and returned $27.20 straight for the day's top win price. Pepper Pot, winner of the feature event, was the only other thoroughbred to pay off in double figures.

The daily double, Banquo and Drift On, winners of the second and third races, respectively, paid $15.30, while quinella bets in the fifth and seventh races returned $38.65 and $6.05. More than 250 bettors held winning tickets on the final one-two.

Officers Elected For Table Tennis

Edmonton Table Tennis Association elected the following slate of officers at a well attended meeting on Monday night:

Hon. president, Bert Gee; president, Wilf Boyce; vice-president, Tom Inkster; secretary, June Boyce; treasurer, Mitchell Scott; social convener, Frances Gordon; tournament manager, Ken Crockett; membership, Alice Drummond; advertising manager, Al Hetherington; league convener, Jim Mather.

Plans for an active season were outlined at the meeting by the president, Wilf Boyce, and will include the holding of the Western Canada open tournament.

Crabtree Bangs Out Two Homers

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The favorite flippancy of baseball players is "I'd rather be lucky than good" and this little crumb of wisdom explain why Brooklyn Dodgers still are in first place in the National League and seem destined to win the pennant.

They are fate's fair-haired boys even though their lead has shrunk like a dollar shirt in the last couple of days.

The Dodgers were trailing 3-1 at Pittsburgh yesterday, but they came back strong to score five runs in the ninth inning and beat the Pirates 6-4 to retain a one-game margin over the St. Louis Cards, who whipped the Boston Braves five runs and victory. In the second game Max Lanier and Jim Tobin gave another magnificent mound show—Lanier allowing five hits and Tobin six and the teams came up to the last of the ninth in a 2-2 deadlock. And Crabtree hammered out another home run.

Golf Champ Wins Hearts By Frankness

WIN, lose or draw, and no matter the size of the show, there's always one competitor who captures the casual interest of the assembled congregation, even if they start the affair as absolute strangers, and, if things go along without some untoward incident, winds up riding the pleasant crest as "the popular favorite."

In the Women's National Golf, the stubby little, hard-slugging bride from the coast, Mrs. Betty Hicks Newell, who put aside a honeymoon to go all out after the sport's biggest cup, moved fast into that category.

A lot of us eldering beezarks who annually watch those lithe and lissome divot debutantes teasing that glorified moth ball around those spine grass fairways of the Florida winter circuit were mildly amused with this lass the winter before last.

HAPPINESS IN SWING TIME

SHE was only 19 at the time, and she scarcely looked that. With a girl chum, a second-hand puddle jumper and $700, she had driven across the country to take a whack at those Florida road shows, and while she'd done well enough to make the idle sit up and take notice, there was still a long and rocky road up the hill to the top. With the beautiful optimism of youth, she didn't seem to think so.

She discussed her career and her problems with a frankness so complete and so confident, you found yourself pulling for her instead of kidding her even a little. Her papa and her mama, for instance, away out there in Long Beach, where her father was assistant superintendent of the city schools, weren't any too easy in their minds about their girlchild's gallivanting around on her own all the way over there across the country. They wanted her to be happy, but they were wishing she could figure some way to be that at home.

But upon analysis, these criticisms were never catty. They were spoken objectively, and they, furthermore, were the truth. It was just part of the frankness and confidence that were part of the superserious little girl.

WHIPPING UP A SUMMARY

YOUNG Betty could flog a typewriter like a sped-star pro. I asked her to whip me up a summary of her career. Here she goes verbatim—I saved it:

"Here's the dope: Born in Long Beach, California, Nov. 16, 1920, which makes me 19 now, according to my figuring. Educated in Long Beach city schools, of which my father is Asst.-Supt. Graduated in January '37, and went year and a half to Long Beach Junior College learning nothing.

"As for golf, I took my first lessons in September of 1937 from Larry Gleason of the Virginia Country club in Long Beach. Played first 18 holes in the same month and had a 96, which was very encouraging, but many rounds after that were very discouraging. Oh . . . how I started! I almost forgot the stock question.

"The pros at the municipal course offered free lessons to the city juniors, and Mollie was anxious to get me out of a red satin softball uniform into something more dignified. She suggested I take up golf. My uncle then stepped in and said if I were going to try to be a golfer, I should take a course of lessons from Gleason instead. I thought 10 lessons would be more than sufficient. How I got fooled!

"So I took the 10, very bored with the whole procedure of knocking balls down a practice fairway. I struggled through the first course and decided some more wouldn't do any harm, a 85 being my best score in the first couple of months of effort. I went into my first tournament in February of 1938 at the Los Angeles Country club, the midwinter invitational. I qualified with 103 and was runner-up in the third flight.

"Then the bug really bit. Somebody tipped me off that the thing to do in this game is practise, so I went to work. The following April I qualified in the state championship with a 92 and got bounced in the first round, 2 down. So I practised some more and qualified in the Southern California championship in May at the Riviera Country club with an 86. I whittled my original 18 handicap of October, 1937, to a 9. By August I had that down to 4. Broke 90 for the first time in April of '38 with an 86 at my home course and a month later, broke 80, with a 78." This goes on, and finally this:

WORTH THE TROUBLE

"HERE'S a special scoop for you. My opinion after two years of competition isn't worth much, possibly, but here's the way I figure it after 24 months, anyhow:

"It's worth all the trouble, it's worth all the expense, all the heartaches, the worry and the strain. It's a great education and a fine experience and there's just something about playing a golf match that has made me come 3,000 miles to get.

"I feel that winning golf championships isn't the thing to be most desired. It's perfection of shot-making, I'm after. Then, if you've got the tournament stuff the wins will come, but they're not the satisfying accomplishments that make me come back for more. I get my biggest thrill out of hitting good shots, not winning matches. I'm too new at the game to mind getting beaten. Perhaps if I were national champ, with a reputation to protect, I'd care, but I'm still a long ways from the top. I still have everything to win and nothing to lose. There's no pressure on me. It makes things simple."

That's the way the tremendous little lady who's just become your new champion lined it out in her own words when she was really starting. I asked her yesterday if she'd like to change any of it.

"Nothing except, maybe, some of the punctuation, if it needs it," she grinned.

It doesn't.

Radical Shakeup Forecast For Floundering Indians

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The team which everyone expected to go places in the American League this year went farther than anyone expected. It went from first to fourth, and possibly fifth, in about three months, and for this reason we have a hunch that the biggest rattle when the winter shakeups occur will come from Cleveland Indians.

We took note of an Indian box score recently, and with the exception of two or three familiar names it might have been the lineup of a team in the tri-country league.

Roger Peckinpaugh is losing no time in trying to find out what he can expect of the young fellows the club is bringing up. He knows what he can expect of the veterans, and in several cases he knows it isn't peace and quiet.

Had not as much been expected of the Indians the situation would not be so bad. But when a team falls flat on its face two years in a row, it's obvious that something must be done. The club officials thought it was the manager's fault the first time. Now they should be convinced it isn't the manager, and just as serious we'd say that Peckinpaugh will be back next year.

In one game the other day the Indians had a fellow named Jack Conway at shortstop, a guy by the name of Bob Lemon at third base, another strange name named Jim Hegan behind the plate, and a gent listed in the lineup as Frierson in left field.

Rollie Hemsley, Clint Brown, Russ Peters and Larry Rosenthal weren't even taken on the last eastern swing, showing that Peckinpaugh intended to sink or swim with a batch of rookies, and if the club dropped a notch or two that was all right, too.

Softball Playoffs

Final game in the playoffs for the senior men's city softball title will take place on Sunday afternoon, when Maple Leafs and Mecico-Welders wind up their series at King Park.

Leafs already have one game in hand in the best-of-three series and have a chance to win the title in two straight by taking the 2:30 p.m. clash on Sunday.

In the event of the Welders evening the count, the third game will immediately follow.

With The Pin Busters

City Five-Pin League started the season with 10 teams in action at Recreation alleys on Wednesday night and Roy Boyea of Destroyers smacked down 310 pins to top the singles list. Hal Simmons of C.N. Telegraphs knocked over 673, the best triple of the night, rolling 206, 204, 263.

Destroyers had best team score of 2,691, followed by Edmonton Motors with 2,339.

Lands and Mines Mixed Fives for their opening night were led by M. Miller of Mines for the singles with 251 and R. Morrison of Holders had high with 397 from 200, 197.

Raiders with 1,738 had top aggregate, followed by Miners with 1,554 and Five Aces with 1,505.

MacKenzie Air Service Five-pin mixed group's high single was turned in by Cliff Wolfe whose 311 was the best in any league for last night. Cliff also was top scorer for the triple with 630.

In MacKenzie Air Service 10-pins Meester of Howlers crashed 197 in his first game for best one-game count and Jowett of Wood Butchers had top triple with 478 from 182, 155, 141.

Torches led the aggregate parade with 1,974, Wood Butchers being next with 1,949 and Hot Spots third with 1,906.

V

Vitt's head dropped into the basket after the blow-off. He's in a position now to laugh up his sleeve, or out loud for that matter. At this time Cleveland is a low gear fourth in the pennant drive, a bare point ahead of Detroit. It may finish in the second division.

Vindicated Vitt won't take advantage of his position to even say: "I told you so." He feels sorry for the Indians who played under him a year ago and the manager who succeeded him, Roger Peckinpaugh.

Asked what he thought was wrong with the Cleveland club, Vitt replied, "I guess it is one of those things which defy explanation. They don't seem to have it. Individually the team has some great players. They're certainly not clicking together. They look a riding again this season. That kind of stuff is bound to get under the skin of anybody.

"Actually when the season started, I thought Cleveland would be up there fighting all the way. I picked the Yankees as the team to beat but thought the Indians would be making it tough."

After last year's ordeal, Vitt describes his job as Portland manager this season as "a vacation." His club is in last place in the coast league race but more than 100 percentage points higher than the 1940 team. It's 27 games out of first place. Last year it finished 56 games from the top. Portland lost 20 games this season by one run in games that could have gone either way.

Would Vitt like to get back into the big league? Does a duck like to swim?

dreams of Hitler's general staff for a blitzkrieg in the east, but we must realize the war will be long and severe."

(The men made available for war service under the new decree will be in addition to those trained by Russia at a rate of 800,000 annually for approximately 20 years under the regular army program of conscription.

NAZI PANZERS BEATEN

(That program has enabled the Soviet union to put 9,000,000 men under arms against Germany already and has made her ready, according to London sources, to put 4,000,000 additional men in the field soon.)

German forces of Col.-Gen. Heinz Guderian, armored division chief of the French conquest, were declared by an official Russian source to have been decisively beaten with a loss of two-thirds of their effectives in a battle near Bryansk.

Red army forces killed, wounded or captured 20,000 Germans, Russians said, and seized vast quantities of war material in repulsing an armored thrust at Bryansk, a railway junction 230 miles southwest of Moscow.

Guderian, termed the "Phantom General" for the speed with which his armored spearheads outflanked France's Maginot line in 1940, was declared to have lost 500 tanks, 70 armored cars, 1,525 trucks, 195 airplanes, 85 heavy machine guns, 51 trench mortars and several thousand rifles.

The 20,000 Nazi casualties in the battle of Bryansk were among a total of 65,000-80,000 reported by the Russians yesterday and today in defensive and offensive operations over the long front.

Appalling Losses Are Incurred By Nazis Jap Says

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday night a Japanese journalist whom it did not identify by name, blames the Germans for having "incurred appalling losses (in Russia) without a chance of any decisive result in the present circumstances."

The BBC said a German trade union leader broadcasting last night from Moscow told Germans they "had lost more men on the eastern front in two months" than they had in two years of the last war.

Rain Concerns North Farmers

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

PEACE RIVER, Sept. 18.—The past week has been one of grave concern to farmers here as rain has been prevalent most of the time. The roads are in a quagmire state and only one brief attempt at threshing so far this year, which consisted of half a day, has been made. That operation will now be out of the question for at least another week.

With only about seven or eight good days in the past six weeks, there has been a total absence of drying winds which are needed to penetrate the heavily-soaked stooks. These stooks in many instances are degenerating badly and it is doubtful if any grain will be threshed this year that will show top grade—the bulk will be decidedly below grade. Thousands of acres still remain to be cut but here also it will take several good drying days to permit binders to operate owing to ground saturation.

The one big fear is that snow might climax the unsettled weather conditions still prevailing, complicating the remaining cutting problem.

R.A.F. Bombs German Rail Shop Centre

NAZIS ADMIT RAIDS

One British bomber was lost in last night's operations.

(Nazi sources in Berlin admitted "enemy planes" bombed southwestern Germany last night.)

On the home front, a communique said Nazi planes dropped bombs at two places on the southeast coast overnight, causing damage and a small number of casualties. Other bombs fell in East Anglia but caused neither casualties nor damage.

The latest raid on the Rhineland came a few hours after one of the strongest air fleets ever assembled by the R.A.F. smashed a power plant near Bethune in northern France.

300 PLANES TAKE PART

Squadrons of Blenheim bombers escorted by more than 300 fighter planes roared to the attack on the important plant at Mazingarbe during daylight Wednesday. Direct hits were scored and huge fires broke out. Crews on the raid reported continuous explosions over the entire area and said many huge gas containers were fired.

The Mazingarbe plant had extensive works with batteries of coke ovens, a tar distillery, a power station, and a plant for producing synthetic products, such as gasoline, alcohol, ether and ammonia.

Daylight forays also took place against other occupied regions of France during the day. During the raids, British fighters locked in combat with challenging Nazi planes and 11 enemy aircraft were shot down. The R.A.F. lost 13 fighters and one bomber but four pilots were reported saved when picked up by rescue parties in the channel.

North Ratepayers Discuss Hospital

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

ATHABASCA, Sept. 18—Ratepayers of the Athabasca Municipal Hospital District moved Wednesday to correct conditions they believe are hindering the best operation of their hospital. Among matters dealt with was the announcement of the resignation of Dr. E. K. Wright from the district.

At the meeting, held in Parker's Hall, more than 150 ratepayers were present. Brian S. Suddards was in the chair.

Those present first demanded an explanation of why Dr. Wright was leaving the district. Dr. Wright complained of lack of co-operation on the part of the board and the internal management of the hospital. He declared that the board had forbidden the doctor's use of an X-ray machine and any but emergency operations being performed in the hospital.

The meeting passed a resolution calling for the immediate resignation of the hospital board, the matron and the secretary. An amendment suggested, urged the board to endeavor to keep Dr. Wright in the district. When the doctor stated he could not stay, the amendment was withdrawn and the motion carried.

A committee of the board, the reeve of each municipality in the hospital district, and representatives of the local improvement districts was named to appoint a doctor for Athabasca.

REGISTRATION CARDS MUST BE SHOWN

Registration For University Classes Opens Next Week

Plans Announced Here For Army Training Of Students During Term

Plans for the registration of students at the University of Alberta next week for the 1941-42 session were announced Thursday by A. E. Ottewell, registrar. All students, both men and women, will be required to show their national registration cards, as information from these cards will be required as part of the registration procedure.

Details of the military training program at the U. of A. this term were also disclosed. The set-up will be largely the same as last year, with upper classmen in medicine and engineering eligible for exemption under certain circumstances. Lecture courses in several military sciences will form part of the advanced training for successful trainees last term.

It is anticipated that a special course of training will be arranged for students planning to enlist in the R.C.A.F. immediately after the close of the academic session of 1941-42. This special course will be accepted by the university in lieu of the requirement of regular military training.

Registration at the university will begin at 9 a.m. next Tuesday for all new students and will continue on Wednesday for students in the faculty of arts and science, including the schools of commerce and household economics, and all students in the college of education. Thursday all other students in the faculties of medicine, agriculture, applied science and law will register. Lectures in all courses begin on Friday, Sept. 26.

Headed by Clayton Adams, the Alberta Industrial Relations Board on Thursday was on the way to Calgary, where various matters will be attended to prior to returning here Monday.

F/O. Jack E. Pugh, M.C., of the Edmonton R.C.A.F. recruiting centre, is at the Camrose basic military training centre Thursday and Friday, for the purpose of interviewing trainees regarding aircrew training. F/L. Lt. Harry E. Jones, officer commanding the centre here, announced Thursday.

R.C.M.P. Thursday reported they are seeking a man who escaped from a city hospital, pending transfer to Ponoka Mental Institute. He is 35 years old, weighing 135 pounds and about 5 feet 5 inches tall. He has gray eyes and a small scar on the left side of the throat and on the left thumb.

Marking the Jewish New Year 5702, known as Rosh Ha-Shono, special services of prayer in Jewish synagogues will be held next Monday. Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, will be observed Wednesday, October 1, with prayer and fasting. The Jewish Thanksgiving festival falls on October 5.

Number of farmers convicted of illegally using purple-colored gasoline in pleasure cars, has now reached 80, according to officials of the provincial secretary's department. In each case, the penalty imposed has been a fine of $5 and costs with the impounding for 14 days of accusedsʼ cars. The colored fuel oil is sold for use only in tractors and other farm machinery.

Attendance at the opening of the Olds School of Agriculture on Oct. 14 is expected to tax the capacity of the school to the limit, according to J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture. Mr. Sweeney stated that registration of students had been heavy, and are still coming in. Many students are from the Vermilion district and from Peace River. The Vermilion school was closed at the end of the last academic year. James Murray is principal of the Olds school.

Second Group Of Air Cadets Are Sworn In

Second section of prospective members of the Air Cadet League of Canada were sworn in Wednesday night at the league's Edmonton unit headquarters at the Prince of Wales armories, with Capt. Colin D. MacKenzie, officer commanding the unit, in charge.

Tuesday night first group of applicants were sworn in as members of the unit, pending medical examination which will probably be conducted next week.

Office hours of the headquarters, located at room 51, Prince of Wales armories, are from 4 to 6 p.m., and from 7 to 8 p.m. each weekday. All boys from 15 to 17 years desiring information about the cadet plan should contact officials at the headquarters during these periods.

Capt. MacKenzie desires to emphasize the fact that those boys who are required for swearing in or medical examination purposes will be notified by mail. Only those notified by mail are to report.

J. H. Wildman, chairman of the committee in charge of the cadet plan here, stated Thursday that swearing-in ceremonies will be resumed next week. It is expected that complete training plans will be instituted at that time, as the health ban on assemblies of persons under 17 years of age is to be lifted Sunday midnight.

Army Needing Men For Radio

Young men, here's a grand opportunity to enlist in the army and not only make a splendid contribution to the war, but also learn something really worthwhile. Radio technicians and young men of good education anxious and willing to learn are urgently needed for the trade schools, according to Capt. R. P. Fitzgerald, officer in charge of army trade schools in this province.

Capt. Fitzgerald is a city visitor and is headquartered at the Prince of Wales Armory. "We need radio mechanics and technicians for army training," he said. "I am interested in young men, well-educated, who are willing to learn and for this reason they don't necessarily need to have previous training.

"A four months course, approximating that given by the air force, will be given. Those interested should apply through the regular army channels."

Capt. Fitzgerald said that there are now 800 men in training in this province in army trade schools now and the results were highly satisfactory.

Cutty Sark Raffle To Aid Merchant Marine Men

Raffle for a model of the old tea clipper Cutty Sark will take place shortly in aid of financial assistance to wives and dependents of members of the mercantile marine, it was announced Thursday by J. H. Logan, executive member of Edmonton watch of the Cutty Sark Club. The raffle is being sponsored by both Edmonton chapters of the Beta Sigma Phi fraternity on behalf of the club. The total proceeds, Mr. Logan said, will be given the Navy League of Canada, "ear-marked for the benefit of mercantile marine dependents". Mr. Logan stated that as far as he knew, no other support for members of merchant mariners' families has ever been organized. "We sincerely hope that members of the general public will respond to the Beta Phi's raffle appeal," Mr. Logan said.

Consumers' League Planned As Protests Made On City Prices

Formation of a Consumers' League in Edmonton will be discussed at a meeting of city organizations to be held at the I.O.O.F. Hall, 103 street, on October 10 next at 8 p.m. The call for the meeting is the result of a series of discussions held during recent weeks at which the rising cost of living in Edmonton was the chief subject.

In the call issued to organizations to attend the meeting it is pointed out that there has been a feeling among an ever-growing section of the public in the city that food prices and other living expenses have been increasing in a manner that indicates that, unless checked, may lead to a critical situation.

The wide spread between producer and consumer prices, in which the retailer is as much the victim as is the consumer, indicates that exploitation and profiteering is being carried on in certain staple foods and has reached proportions that call for drastic government action, it is claimed.

Resulting from the discussions a temporary committee has been set up to arrange for delegates from various representative groups in the city to attend the meeting. Invitations have been sent to 100 groups to send two delegates each. These invitations were sent to church, social, trade union, veteran, community, old age pension, war service and other groups.

Circuit Shows To Fete Army

Revival of the old "circuit shows" is promised in Edmonton, with the proposed establishment of an amateur "entertainment bureau" under the auspices of the entertainment committee of the Edmonton Council for the Co-ordination of Auxiliary War Services. Plans for the pool were discussed at a meeting Tuesday of the committee, at the home of Mrs D. B. Ross.

Recommendation of the entertainment committee that the pool be established will be discussed at the next meeting of the council in early October.

It was decided that a list of amateur entertainers in all fields be compiled, and that the entertainers be "on tap" for concert programs at any time. Harvey Wilkins of the Edmonton Little Theatre, reported that the dramatic group would be prepared to put on each one of its regular plays at any time, and that it would also present one-act plays when called up.

Harold Wright was named to take charge of the compiling of the list of entertainers for the "pool". The meeting was presided over by Harold L. Weir, chairman of the committee.

Car Driver Is Injured Result Of Traffic Jam

William Mee of 11416 88 street, suffered slight injury to the chest when several cars bumped as a traffic jam developed on 109 street in front of the Administration building at 2.30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mr. Meeʼs car was struck from behind and sent crashing into the rear of a car operated by Stewart Publicover of 10645 125 street.

Mr. Meeʼs chest was driven violently against the steering wheel. The two cars were badly damaged. No one in the buses.

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

WHEN Hon. J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, visited this city recently he indicated that while much had been accomplished in the way of sacrifice, the public were going to have to get along with a great deal less in the way of material things before the war is over. And he forecast that the "doing without" policy would become progressively more acute. Already silk stockings have fallen by the wayside. Aluminum, gasoline, rubber and other products are going to be required in greater volume as the conflict rages with unabated fury and Britain mobilizes resources on a greater scale than ever before in the world's history.

While most people can struggle along without silk from Japan, castor oil from South America, rug wool and fire-crackers from China, harmonicas from Czechoslovakia and clarinet reeds from France, the Grim reality is that in the next little while—within a few months—it may be essential for people to learn to get along without a good many things now accepted as a matter of course.

Possibly the sacrifices will not go to the extent they have in Hitlerland, where people eat chocolates that look and taste like yellow laundry soap, where shoes with wooden soles are worn and butter made from coal is a luxury. Yet many things will disappear from the home. However, in the process of substitution, the experts who predict such things are aiming high with the idea of bringing forth something better than makeshift articles. These substitutes must be as good and as cheap as the things they replace. In many cases the changes won't be noticed, so expertly will the new products be made.

Scientists and chemists are working overtime in the manufacture of articles to take the place of those hitherto made from essential war materials. A friend who makes a study of these things has drawn to my attention the fact that many motor car drivers will not notice that plastic gears have replaced aluminum in distributors and oil pumps of cars that synthetic substances have replaced tung oil in paints, or that North Carolina absorbent of French linen is being used in the manufacture of cigarette papers.

It has been disclosed that the tin foil supply is rapidly diminishing and that tinsel will not be available for Christmas tree decoration. The aluminum trays heretofore installed in tea boats will be replaced by those made of copper, plastic or specially treated paper. Vacuum cleaner bonds, agitators for washing machines and lipstick cartridges will be manufactured not from brass or aluminum, but from plastic. Coffee, cocoa and automobile lubricating oil will be sold, not in tin containers, but in bottles, and in fibre cartons. Waterproofed cotton will replace rubber aprons, raincoats and other items of a similar nature.

When one is afflicted with a cold the suspension of the nose will not be relieved, not by drugs manufactured from Chinese-imported plants, but by splendiferous, synthetically made. Sufferers from bad breath will get relief from digitalis extracted from foxglove growing on this side of the Atlantic instead of Germany. Fly sprays hitherto made from Oriental flowers, will be made from local sources. Even quinine may come from a chemistʼs concoction instead of a plantation in Java. And so it goes. The war effort is consuming the products needed for successfully terminating the war. But science and chemistry are providing alternates, again proving the old adage when one says "necessity is the mother of invention."

Petition Made For Bus Service

Residents in the Windsor Park and Garneau districts are petitioning city council to provide a continuous bus service, including Sunday service, from Steen's Drug Store on the northwest corner of Assiniboia Hall on the university campus.

It is understood that in their submission to council the residents of the district will stress the fact that the extension of the bus service is justified by the increase in population in the districts. Windsor Park is situated behind the university campus.

It will be urged also that the establishment of an all-year continuous bus service in these districts would enable the residents to materially assist in saving gasoline by using the bus more extensively than is done at the present time.

It will be urged also that the establishment of air force training depots at the university has meant a substantial increase in traffic in these districts.

It is expected the petition will come before council on Monday next, and it is likely the question will be referred to the civic transportation committee for study and report.

Warning Given To Householders By City Fire Officer

Warning to householders who contemplate burning coal in fire places this winter, where gas was previously used as fuel, is issued by Fire Marshal Jack Smith.

The fire marshal points out that city bylaw makes necessary a brick chimney and certain other safeguards, where coal is used as fuel.

Where families are moving and incoming tenants decide to change fuels care must be taken to see that the necessary changes are made where gas is being replaced with coal.

The fire department will make inspections promptly and point out the necessary requirements, the fire marshal states.

Camrose Centre Making Appeal For Six Radios

Request for six radios for men in training at the Camrose basic training centre for the Canadian active army has been received by T. H. Thomas-Peter, president of the Edmonton Council for the Co-ordination of Auxiliary War Services.

The request was made by Capt. F. L. Crumbleholme, auxiliary officer, on behalf of Lt. Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M., officer commanding the centre.

Citizens who have any spare radios are asked to contact either Mr. Thomas-Peter, telephone 26301 (home) or 23227 (office) or Mrs. M. J. Hilton, council secretary, telephone 33528.

War Services Group Charges Guidance Lack

That Ottawa had failed to instruct its army auxiliary officers on how to work with local councils for auxiliary war services, and that these officers have in turn failed to instruct their operatives in branches of war service on their proper function in respect to the councils, was charged in a letter sent this week by the Edmonton Council for the Co-ordination of Auxiliary War Services to Hon. J. T. Thorarn, Federal minister of national war services.

Signed by T. H. Thomas-Peter, president of the Edmonton council, the letter was sent following a meeting last week when great dissatisfaction was voiced at the progress being made and work being done by the council in this district. Members said that the main trouble lay in the fact that no proper guidance and authority had been received from Ottawa and that unless such guidance and authority are forthcoming it is almost impossible for the council to operate successfully or plausibly.

MAIN POINTS

The main points outlined in the letter to Ottawa follow:

1. The council was set up at the request of the federal war services department to coordinate auxiliary war services here. Stress was laid on the fact that great confusion and difficulty has been consequently because unlicensed, individual groups work entirely without consulting the council. No solution for any such difficulty has been received from Ottawa, the letter said.

2. Considerable difficulty has arisen due to commanding officers and auxiliary services attaching directly with various groups rather than working through the council. It was emphasized that numerous requests from this council in such officers have been ignored—stepped in every case.

3. As a result of this confusion, auxiliary organizations attached to the council have been unable to find an outlet for such energy as could be used for the benefit of the war effort. A lowered enthusiasm for the war effort has thus been evinced.

DEFINITION ASKED

4 Early definition of the purpose and duties of the council was "respectfully urged", also that this definition be sent immediately to commanding officers and auxiliary officers and to council and those organizations with whom the council comes in contact. Specific confirmation of the council's authority was asked.

Reply to the letter will be dealt with at the next meeting of the council in the second week in October.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Which do you prefer—country or city life?

THE ANSWERS

REG WATTS, farmer: I've lived in the country all my life and I wouldn't trade it for a life in the city for all the money in the world. Not until I am ready to retire anyway. Everything in the country is clean, and out in the open.

AUDREY HAINSTOCK, business girl: I like both the city and the country. I think the city is more interesting, but I prefer especially if you're working. Then you can have all the conveniences of modern life and that's not worthwhile. In the summer it is nice to get out in the country and commune with nature.

ROY CORNISH, board marker: The city's okay if you've got no where else to go, but you can't beat the country for a lot of real, honest-to-gosh hard living. You can see that most of our city people go around with pale faces and skinny frames. Country people have burned faces and well-built bodies. It must be more healthy in the country.

* * *

MRS. BETH CLARK, housewife: It's pretty hard to say just which is the best. A lot depends on what you are used to, I suppose, and a lot depends on individual tastes. I know there are an awful lot of city people who yearn for a life in the country, and there seem to be a large number of young people in the country who seem make their way to the city. So there you are, right where you started from.

Bond Meet May Be Adjourned For Ten Days

Meeting of the joint provincial government-bondholders committee discussing refunding of the $147,000,000 provincial public debt, probably will adjourn Thursday afternoon for 10 days. Sitting all morning the committee reconvened at 2 p.m.

One reason for the adjournment so to permit Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, and Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry to go to Ottawa to discuss the banking order in the Dominion government for the duration of the war, the income and corporation taxes.

POSSIBLE BASIS

R. D. Tighe, K.C., chairman of the Northern Alberta Bondholders Protective Association, on behalf of the committee, stated that the Wednesday discussions had proceeded satisfactorily. The situation surrounding refunding proposals had been reviewed from all angles with a view to determining a possible basis for refunding.

Views were advanced by both government and bondholders regarding various phases of refunding. It was reported that complete harmony reigned at the parley and that there was an atmosphere prevailing that indicated all present desired to bring about results mutually acceptable.

Wednesday Is "Party Day" As Protestant Home Marks Birthday

WEDNESDAY was a "party day" at the Alberta Protestant Home for Children, when upwards of 300 Edmonton men and women in social, business and church circles called during the afternoon and evening to meet the superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lister, and to view the spacious and comfortable accommodations the Home affords young Alberta children. The occasion for this "party" was the sixth anniversary of the home. While the grown-ups were enjoying a cup of tea in the dining room and were being shown through the home, the eighteen young children of the home were playing happily outside on the swings and teeter-totters in the grounds, and later having a special "tea" of their own.

A gracious welcome was extended to guests at the door by Mr. and Mrs. C. Lister and by Mrs. E. M. Spicer, provincial Grand Matron of the I.O.D.E. who assisted them in receiving.

Showing guests through the spacious and comfortable home and explaining the workings, were Mrs. W. Mowat, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. A. Trussler, Mrs. Freda Botaford, Mrs. J. Adamson, Mrs. W. Mayson and Mrs. S. Coppen.

TEA SERVED

Tea was served from a tea table laid with a dainty lace cloth and centred with a three tiered anniversary cake, flanked with bud vases of pink rosebuds and tall green tapers.

Presiding at the tea urns during the afternoon and evening were Mrs. J. W. Fry, Mrs. H. Edgar of Calgary, who is the Most Worshipful Deputy Grand Mistress of British America, Mrs. R. C. Marshall, Mrs. B. Dickie, Mrs. E. H. Freeman, Miss Jean Elliott, Mrs. E. Lyling, Mrs. Horace Soley, Mrs. T. H. Morgan and Mrs. E. Cullens.

Assisting as serviceurs were Mrs. A. Publicover, Miss A. Gallimore, Mrs. T. Jones, Miss E. Murray, Mrs. A. Barr, Mrs. R. Hughes, Miss Kay Gould, Miss L. Reynolds, Mrs. B. Martin, and Mrs. H. Stewart of Wetaskiwin.

Others assisting included Mrs. D. Hodson, Mrs. E. Colburn, Mrs. A. Burness, Mrs. S. Foster, Mrs. E. Evans, Mrs. A. Scollan, Mrs. D. Forbes, Mrs. J. Wellman.

"HOME" TO 24

During the past year, the home has been "home" to about 24 children. Total, during the summer months is 18. Many parents who live on farms, take their children out of the home during the summer months and return them in the fall.

An interesting feature in the home at present, is the family of five Czech youngsters, none of whom, on entrance in the home, could speak a word of English. The progress they have been making is astounding. Even the youngest can now speak a few words of English, having said "Good night, mummy," to Mrs. Lister as she tucked him into bed one evening last week.

Mrs. McLeod, Teacher Is Honored

HOME of Mrs. John Hall at 7606 Jasper avenue was the setting for a delightfully arranged tea recently, held in honor of Mrs. Margaret McLeod, retiring grade IV teacher at Cromdale school. Mrs. McLeod has been on the staff of Cromdale school for 18 years and is now retiring to make her home in Victoria. Guests at the tea included mothers of pupils from the school.

A presentation of a leather travelling bag was made by Adele Creighton, a former pupil of Mrs. McLeod. A further gift of a hand painted booklet containing many names designed by another of Mrs. McLeod's pupils, Margaret McLuhan now finishing high school, was made to the hostess.

Assisting the hostess was Mrs. L. McLuhan, Mrs. Bert Collins, and Mrs. Arthur Creighton.

A colorful setting of autumn leaves was used as a centrepiece flanked with orange and yellow candlesticks. Presiding at the tea urns were Mrs. S. G. Collins, Mrs. William Creighton. Serviceurs were all former pupils, Misses Margaret McLuhan, Betty McLuhan, Phyllis Kosluk, Mona Creighton and Doreen Ockenden.

Girls Are "Dunked" For Wearing Shorts At West Rodeos

ESTES PARK, Colo. Sept. 18—(CP)—Western United States towns are promoting their rodeo three days by having all citizens dress in western costumes. If a girl appears in shorts, a "vigilance" committee cracks down with comic severity. Public dunking is favored. Here's what happened here:

Rob Sellander of Denver went strolling in shorts, is spotted by "law" committee and promptly arrested. A kilty street "kangaroo court, "Judge" C. W. Brag presiding, found her guilty.

The judge supervised "punishment" as Miss Sellander was slung into a watering-trough.

The dunking committee say blonde yell and splash more than either red heads or brunettes, but "vigilantes" don't shirk.

Post-Nuptial Tea Attracts 150 Guests

Receiving for the first time since her marriage, Mrs. Jack H. Phillips, the former Miss Vivian Jones, entertained some 150 of her friends at an attractive post-nuptial reception at her home on Wednesday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married at a pretty ceremony in All Saints' Anglican Church on Thursday, August 14. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jones of Edmonton and her husband is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, also of this city.

Autumn garden flowers, stately gladiolus and pretty snapdragons and sweet peas arranged in bouquets throughout the rooms of the home, made a fragrant and colorful setting for the affair.

Welcoming her guests, Mrs. Phillips wore her wedding frock of white chenille satin fashioned with fitted bodice, long tapering leg of mutton sleeves and full skirt that flared into a court-length train at the back. Tiny satin-covered buttons were sewn from the nape of the neck to the waist at the back. Her flowers were a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Receiving with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Jones wore a floor-length gown of Queen's blue chiffon over taffeta. Bodice of the fine fabric was tucked and the skirt was draped gracefully. Her flowers were a shoulder knot of Briarcliff roses.

Mrs. Harry Phillips, mother-in-law of the bride, receiving with Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Jones, wore a floor-length dress of mauve figured chiffon and corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

TEA TABLE

Tea was served from a table laid in eyelet lace and centred with a cut-glass bowl of pink carnations and sweet pea blossoms. Tall white tapers in silver holders lighted the table where, during the afternoon, Mrs. W. Foulds, Mrs. J. C. Wicks, Mrs. J. Varvis and Mrs. Ernest Meaden shared honors. Serviteurs in the afternoon were Mrs. Magnus Mail, Mrs. Howard Nock, Mrs. Ernest King, Mrs. L. L. Lister, Miss Isobel Burton, Miss Audrey King and Miss Betty Rennie.

In the evening Mrs. Thomas Ferguson, Mrs. Roy Baker, Mrs. J. A. Buchanan and Mrs. Vernon Barford poured tea. Edmonton Girl Takes Part In Girl Guide Good-Will Camp

PRIVILEGED to meet Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President of the United States, and take part in a good-will camp of Girl Guides from the Americas, Miss Margaret Warren of Edmonton was a visitor in the eastern States this summer.

Daughter of Lieut.-Col. P. S. Warren, T.C., at the University of Alberta, Miss Warren was one of 168 girls who attended the "Bonnie Brae" camp of the Girl Guides, held on the foothills of the Berkshire Mountains, near Springfield, Massachusetts, during the latter part of August. She returned to the city recently.

Miss Warren told the Bulletin on Wednesday afternoon that the 24 girls from districts outside the United States were distinguished as "Golondrinas" rather than as "foreigners." The distinction was made as swallows (for which the Spanish name is "golondrina") inhabit every country in the western hemisphere, travel from one country to another, but always return to their native heath.

In addition to 139 girls from the United States, and Miss Warren of this city and Miss Margaret MacFadden of Montreal, who represented Canada, there were Girl Guides from Argentina, Barbados, Bermuda, Brazil, British Guiana, British Honduras, Cuba, Guatemala, Jamaica, Trinidad, Newfoundland, Porto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.

The Edmonton girl attended the camp as a cadet. She holds the rank of lieutenant in the Second Edmonton Girl Guide Company.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited the camp, meeting and chatting with all the girls. During her visit, a radio broadcast took place, the guest of honor and many of the girls speaking over the air. Another distinguished visitor to the camp was Mrs. Leigh White of the World Bureau of Girl Scouts and Girl Guiding.

Members of the camp attended the annual Berkshire Symphonic Festival, conducted by Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Later, they went to New York to visit Girl Guide headquarters and take part in a television program, in which some of the South American girls did Spanish dances.

CAMP ROUTINE

Riding, hiking, boating and swimming formed part of the general camp routine during the two weeks the girls were together.

En route to the camp, Miss Warren visited with Mrs. H. D. Warren, Dominion commissioner of Canadian Girl Guides, who is en route to her home in Edmonton, she also visited the Canadian headquarters of the Girl Guides in Toronto.

Speaking of the camp, Miss Warren said that it had done much to create greater interest among the girls in the countries of the western hemisphere. Many of the Canadian and American girls were interested in Spanish by the South Americans, and the South Americans were particularly interested in learning about Canada and the States.

Parties For The Bride-Elect

HONORING Miss Dorothy Wheildon, whose marriage will take place in the near future, members of the Garneau United church choir entertained on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stuart McCormick. A miscellaneous shower was arranged during the evening for the former choir member. Gifts were presented by Miss Violet Cummings and Mrs. Mary Corbett on behalf of the guests. In addition, Mr. Hand made a presentation of a silver tray and cut glass fruit plate to the bride, on behalf of the choir.

Navy Officer's Widow To Be Here Friday

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Richmond Pearson Hobson, widow of the late Admiral Hobson of the United States navy, will pass through Edmonton early Friday over Canadian National lines en route from Montreal to Vanderhoof, B.C., where she will spend the winter with her son, Richmond Hobson, who is in charge of the operation of the Frontier Cattle Company on the Bazinni area, south of Vanderhoof.

Mrs. Hobson is en route from Charleston, South Carolina, where on Wednesday, September 10, she christened the U.S.S. Hobson, named in honor of the late admiral who was one of the great national heroes of the Spanish American war. In a brilliant volunteer action he sank his own ship the U.S.S. Collier Merrimac at the entrance to Santiago harbor thereby rendering ineffective the squadrons of the Spanish fleet commanding that harbor and making possible the final decisive action of the United States naval forces against Spain. Admiral Hobson with his crew were picked up in the water and taken prisoners by the Spaniards but were released a month later.

P.T. CLASSES TO RESUME NEXT WEEK

Edmonton women, whether they regard themselves as of "genic" or "robust" constitutions, will find interest in the resumption of classes next week, of the Edmonton Health and Strength League. The classes are held in the Masonic Temple, four nights a week, under direction of Mrs. George Hogg and will take place during the fall and winter season. "Slow and easy" classes will be held on Mondays and Thursdays and the "advanced" classes will be held on Monday, September 22, at half-past two o'clock.

Former City Girl Marries In Calgary

CALGARY, Sept. 18—Knox United church was the scene recently of the wedding of Janet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wotherspoon of Calgary and formerly of Edmonton, to Mr. Blyth C. Riddock, only son of Mrs. Riddock and the late Mr. Charles Riddock of Calgary. Gladioli, sweet peas and dahlias created a pretty setting for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a rose-colored frock in crepe and lace, and a chapel veil caught to her head with dainty rosebuds. She wore a corsage of white roses.

Miss Jean Wotherspoon as her sister's attendant, wore turquoise chiffon, with a coronet of cornflowers. Her corsage was pink roses.

Mr. Ronald Jenkins was the groomsman, and Mr. Harry Harrison and Mr. Kenneth Wotherspoon of Toronto, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception to 35 guests was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother. She wore a navy crepe dress with a matching hat and a corsage of red roses. The bride's mother was gowned in a navy and white sheer redingote, a white hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Riddock left for a honeymoon at Banff and Jasper.

I.O.D.E. and Navy Mothers Request Fur For Sea Clothing

WOMEN of the I.O.D.E. and the Navy Mothers' Club are making an urgent appeal to the women of Edmonton and district for fur—fur to be used for making jerkins for the men of the mine-sweepers. Few are the homes in the city where fur is not an old fur coat, an old winter cap, or an old coat with a fur collar. These discarded bits are urgently needed. Several such contributions will keep some fighting man warm as he goes about his duty on the wintry seas.

Such a contribution is small besides the work which the Furrier's Guild in Winnipeg is volunteering. From the fur, any kind of fur, they will make the jerkins, supplying the linings and fasteners. The work and the materials needed to produce the finished product is—their way of showing Hitler who will win the war.

It is up to the women of the western provinces to match this contribution by gathering together their old furs. These may be sent to any local chapter of the I.O.D.E., to any member of the Navy Mothers' League or mailed direct to the Provincial Chapter of Manitoba, I.O.D.E., 600 Union Trust Building, Winnipeg.

The provincial chapter, I.O.D.E., of Alberta would like to acknowledge the following contributions: From the Battle River Sports Committee at Nottkewin, $100; from River Community League, $34; radio, Hudson's Bay Co., Edmonton, $72; Hines' Creek War Effort Committee, $10, for Lord Mayor's Fund; 16 blankets for bombed areas from Winterburn Community War Workers. These blankets were made from wool donated locally.

I.O.D.E. CONTRIBUTIONS

During the past two months the provincial chapter with funds contributed by local chapters and friends, has contributed $200 towards band instruments for the Alberta 100th Field Squadron which is now at Pelawawa. It has given $200 to the Extension Department of the University of Alberta for War Service films. Books have been purchased for the Merchant Navy at the port of Saint Johns to the amount of $135 and for the port of Halifax, $135; to the Naval Hospitality House in Victoria, $50, and it has purchased books to the value of $75 for the R.C.A.F. Manning Depot in Edmonton.

Contributions to the Queen's Canadian Fund have been made by chapters in Lethbridge and Calgary.

SUPPLIES SENT

Clothing and supplies were also sent from I.O.D.E. chapters: 60 leather jerkins, a case of knitted articles for the men of the Duteh ships, 288 articles of knitted wear for the Alberta men in the Navies, 100,000 cigarettes to Alberta soldiers and sailors, 10 cases containing 139 quilts, 36 pair of blankets, 23 afghans, 12 pair of flannelette sheets and hundreds of articles of clothing for relief in bombed areas.

Prairie Women "Do Their Bit" Double Form

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18—(CP)—Women of Western Canada's farflung rural communities are doing double duty these days as they help fill the farm jobs of young men who have joined the armed forces, then cram rare spare moments with work designed to aid the democratic war effort.

Each day, from scores of country towns and villages, centres of rural activity come reports of wartime donations, collections and work by patriotic women anxious to do their bit.

Organized under church societies, women's institutes, Canadian Red Cross branches, service clubs and other organizations, western farm community women are supplementing the British war achievement with welcome gifts of money and clothing for air raid victims in Britain, food, clothing and other comforts for men in the army, navy and air force and salvaged metal, paper, fabric and other scrap.

Some examples of the work women are doing day by day is in brief news items received from rural centres, for instance:

Minnedosa: Residents of this northwestern Manitoba town have contributed more than $2,000 to the Red Cross alone and have donated thousands of articles of clothing for bomb victims and members of the armed forces.

Stonewall: From this small town, 20 miles north of Winnipeg, have come numerous cash contributions as well as clothing and hospital supplies for soldiers, sailors and airmen, women and children.

Denholm: A tiny village in the North Battleford area of northwestern Saskatchewan, Denholm recently sent nine blankets made from old wool to bomb victims in Britain.

Walton: An aluminum salvage campaign in this town 200 miles east of Saskatoon is bringing good response from housewives whose quilting bees this year have produced 67 quilts for war purposes.

IRMA WOMEN

Irma: Sweaters are being knitted for members of the merchant marine by women of this community, 100 miles east of Edmonton, and tins are being filled with jams for shipment to Britain.

Hughenden: From this central Alberta town have gone to Britain and to the armed forces both at home and abroad bundles of mittens, socks, scarves, sweaters, caps, bed gowns, sheets, quilts, blankets, and dressings.

Innisfail: A "Jam for Britain" campaign is in full swing in the Innisfail area of southern Alberta. At the same time, housewives are contributing freely to an aluminum drive which has as its objective sufficient metal to build an airplane.

Mrs. Isabelle Wilson and her son, James of this city, have returned to Vancouver after spending a holiday in Edmonton and Calgary.

An appeal is being made today by officials of the Red Cross Superfluity Shop for mattresses. Last June when a former appeal for bread articles was made, a satisfactory sum was realized from mattresses turned in to the shop. With the commencement of the fall term of school and music lessons the need has again risen. Any such gift will be greatly appreciated.

Vancouver Women Study Citizenship Privileges, Duties

VANCOUVER, Sept. 18—An opportunity to obtain a general and a detailed training in how to participate actively in public life will be presented to Vancouver women this winter. The course begins this week and will carry on until spring. It will be directed by the Women's School for Citizenship which was organized in March of this year and conducted an experimental course throughout the spring. The autumn months will be devoted to studies in the function of municipal, provincial and federal governments.

As an election is impending the course will open with three lectures, one from a representative of the three major political parties in Canada. At the first, September 16, Hon. G. M. Weir spoke on the Liberal program in the last 10 years and in the next 10 years.

Mr. R. L. Maitland, K.C., leader of the Conservative party, will speak, September 18 on "The Needs of British Columbia." September 23, Mr. Harold Winch, the leader of the B.C. C.C.F. party, will give a talk, "Re a ponsible Citizenship." The three meetings are at eight o'clock in Hotel Georgia.

After the beginning of January a more detailed course of study in parliamentary procedure and public speaking will develop the Fall course. There will be committee work, attendance at City Council meetings, and court sittings.

Washington Is Agog Over Coming Visit Duke, Duchess Windsor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18—Washington has announced that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor will visit the nation's capitol for a quick 24-hour glimpse a week from Monday—while New York will be given the go-by for the time being. It is understood, however, that after the Windsors have spent several weeks at their Royal Ranch in Calgary, Canada, they will head back to Nassau by way of the big city.

This will be the third Washington visit for the Duke—who was last there while Prince of Wales. The Duchess is an old friend in the capitol, however, for as a Baltimore debutante, she often went to Washington for week-ends and parties.

No plans have been made yet for the Windsors' whirlwind visit, but it's understood that there will be some sort of a reception for them at the British embassy—a very simple sort of thing, because of war-time conditions.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—I am a woman nearly 30, married and divorced. Have my own business that gives me a good living. A year ago I met Garry and for me it was love at first sight. Soon he told me that he was in love with me, but that he had a wife and two children, but that if I would be his girl he would make me happy. I am not trying to excuse myself, but I was lonesome for companionship and I could not see much harm in going with him since his wife lived in another town and it wouldn't hurt her if she never found out. At first I wanted to break up Garry's home, but now when I see what a fine woman his wife is, and his little children, I am not so sure. Now here is the situation Garry lives at my home. He loves me, but he isn't even thinking of a divorce because of his two little girls. I love him and don't intend to give him up. I don't know what to do, but I do know that life without him would be miserable, and it is none too happy now knowing that he belongs to some one else. Being the Other Woman isn't any bed of roses, believe me. My thoughts are all so mixed up that I can't figure things out, maybe you have a word of advice for fools like me.

WAITING.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER—I think no other woman in the world is so much to be pitied as the one who falls in love with a married man, because for her there is no way out that is not filled with suffering for her and others.

It is the custom to think of the Other Woman as a heartless and cruel seductress who goes for what she wants, who ruthlessly wrecks a home and tramples an innocent woman and helpless little children under foot. There are such women, of course. Too many of them.

But there are many good, fine, tender and conscientious women whose tragic lot it is to find in some married man their hearts' desire, and who know that if they take their happiness at the price of another woman's, if they put a heartbfire out and orphan little children, that it will be bitter in their mouths and they will never cease to be tormented by their consciences.

And there is only one thing that can be said in the woman in love with a married man, and that is to break off the relationship, for the longer it endures the more she will suffer and the worse will the situation be when the end comes. Men tire of a liaison even more quickly than they do of marriage. And a mistress has less hold on her lover than a wife has on her husband.

The wife has the children, the conventions, the whole machinery of organized society at her back fighting for her, while the Other Woman has nothing but her love, which nags upon the man when re feels too secure of it. And so sooner or later, the man who has sacrificed his wife to a younger and prettier woman offers up on the altar of his selfishness the Other Woman, who isn't so young and pretty as she was, for a fresher face.

And the Other Woman is left with her broken heart, her wasted years, her loneliness and friendlessness to regret her folly.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

There are times when every adult looks back upon her growing-up personality and wonders how people endured her.

The child of 12 to 16 is something to live with. And the fact that children may know that they are far from perfect in no way tends to improve their behavior. On the contrary it seems to make them revel in their wickedness.

In trying to understand children of this age, the most profitable attitude for the adult is one of looking backward. Remember your own indefensible rudeness, your own inexplicable dislike for the friends of your family, and realize that your transition period of childhood to adulthood was rich with many mistakes of word and deed.

To remember ourselves is to be able to forgive the acts and words of the youngsters who are painfully wallowing in their field of errors. To Mrs. S. B. F. who has no children of her own, this is a particularly fruitful suggestion.

"Not having many friends in this new town," she writes, "we cherish those we have. Among these is a young couple for whom we have a strong liking. They have the same interests as we and get along fine. The only fly is their 12-year-old daughter. She is an only child and is rude and unmannerly and disobedient.

"Her father and mother never correct her faults and she takes delight in forcing herself into the conversation and in disobeying them. After an evening in their company I feel like taking this child and giving her the thrashing of her life. I don't want to break up this friendship, but both my husband and I feel that this child is intolerable.

"Is there some diplomatic way in which I can tell them they are doing wrong in letting this child disobey them?"

I'm afraid not. Unless you want to lose their friendship you can't risk showing them you dislike or disapprove of their child. I am sure they discipline her, but wisely enough, not in your presence.

I have a feeling you resent the presence of this child, as she spoils your association with the parents. Forgive me if I misread your attitude, but it is fairly typical of childless couples who haven't too great an interest in or knowledge of children.

My suggestion would be to use your most diplomatic weapons to make a friend of the child. Some gifts, some compliments, a treat at the movies or a shopping trip would do more to make her treat you as a well-liked friend than any amount of calculated punishments.

Perhaps you would like to read and give to your friend "Things Parents Should Know About Their Adolescent Children." It will be mailed to you free on request, if you will address Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, enclosing a three-cent-stamped self-addressed envelope for mailing.

Add Swish To A Dish Of Fresh Fish

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Canadians are beginning to realize that fish at least once a week, often twice, can add variety to the home menu and also keep down the cost of protein. Remember this—fish is a complete protein equal to fowl and meat, but costs less.

To make fish popular with your family, you will have to cook it interestingly. Look for new recipes that turn this excellent but not always popular food into a genuine eating pleasure for the family. It can be done. Today, with rising food costs, it must be done by Canadian housewives.

POACHED FILLETS OF HADDOCK—EGG SAUCE
(Serves 4)

One pound fillet of haddock cut in pieces for serving, 1½ cups evaporated milk, ¾ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 2 small onions sliced, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 hard-boiled eggs.

Simmer fillets in milk, salt, pepper and onions 5 minutes over very low flame. Remove fillets carefully to oven-proof platter, and keep in warm place. Melt butter, blend with flour, and add hot, strained milk in which fish was poached. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add chopped eggs and pour over fish. Heat in slow oven (300 degrees F.) or place under low broiler flame for few minutes. Serve from hot platter.

PLANKED FISH
(Serves 4)

Two steaks or 2 thick slices of fresh salmon, melted butter, salt, pepper, paprika, lemon; 1 bunch broccoli, 1 pound peas, 1 bunch carrots, 4 cups mashed potatoes, 1 egg, melted butter.

Place salmon steaks in baking dish, brush with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake in hot oven (450 deg F.) 20 to 30 minutes.

Cook vegetables separately in small amount salted water. Add 1 unbeaten egg to 4 cups freshly mashed potatoes and blend.

Place fish on well-oiled, heated plank. Arrange border around plank by forcing mashed potatoes through large pastry tube close to edge of plank. Place broccoli and peas and carrots on plank. Brush all with melted butter. Sprinkle potatoes with paprika. Place on rack in broiling oven 3 minutes or until potatoes are browned. Garnish with lemon wedges and serve at once.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Women can do more than anyone else to toughen up Canada, Dr. Victor Heiser told me in a recent interview. They can make the biggest contribution because they can see to it that the food they serve their families contains all the essential elements for abundant health.

The famous doctor said: "The nation which applies the science of nutrition to the greatest number of its people will be the most powerful in the world." And he thinks there is no question but that the housewife will play the leading role in the practical application of the newer knowledge of nutrition.

The way Dr. Heiser explains it, there's no need to wrinkle your brow or to wear down your pencil figuring the exact proportions of calories, protein, vitamins and minerals that are needed. Foods naturally divide themselves into two classes—the tissue-builders for protection and the fuel foods for energy.

The first group are called protective because they keep our bodies renewed, stabilize the nerves, and ward off old age. By now you should be quite familiar with the foods that perform these miracles: Fruits, vegetables, milk, cheese, butter and eggs, whole grains, lean meats and fish. All that's necessary is to see that these foods are included every day in the menus. So that life-giving elements will not be thrown away, precautions must be taken to cook the vegetables quickly in a small amount of water, and this water must be used. Otherwise, both vitamins and minerals may be lost.

He is strong in his belief that the amounts of sugars and starches in the average person's diet should be decreased. He thinks we eat too much. "Most people like to eat as much as they can without gaining too much weight. What they should do is try to eat as little as possible without losing weight." That applies, of course, to those who are normal weight.

Dr. Heiser is among the authorities who believe that overweight is largely due to unbalanced meals. When a person fills up on lots of starch and sugar and does not get the requisite minerals and vitamins, nature can indicate your needs only by making you hungry. But if you keep right on eating

The idea of this puzzle is shown in Figure 1, which gives a completed set of Quadruple Triplets. The 12 letters have been put into the three squares to make four six-letter words, two reading across and two reading down. Thus each word is one-half of a pair of six-letter words. Your job is to do the same thing with the 12 letters in Figure 2, crossing out each letter as you put it into a square. There are only four possible six-letter words that have this package. Nine-tenths of the letters are now in place to help you get started.

...ped Jumper With Blouse

At the head of the kiddie fashion parade marches this little jumper and blouse designed by Anne Adams. Pattern 4876 has such novel detail! The top of the panelled jumper is scallop-edged, front and back; the belt starts at each side front and ties in the back to give a trim waist. One version of the outfit has a short sleeved blouse and could be made in dainty fabrics; the other has a long-sleeved blouse and could be made in plaid-and-plain wool contrast. Both jumper have a charming rounded

BIG EARS ON A MAN DO NOT INDICATE GENEROSITY

Men who make their living by "panhandling" on the streets have long held a theory which many others on the street also believe: namely, that people with big ears are likely to be generous, and that those with small ears are tight. Science has found that the size and shape of the ears have absolutely nothing to do with a person's disposition, personality or mental traits. The panhandlers have passed up some good bets, it seems.

Father: "I told you why you must not throw your ball into the street. Now we will have to put it away for the rest of the day because you did not mind."

Father: "I'm going to teach him to mind me if I never teach him anything else. Then I won't have any trouble with him when he is older."

YARDSTICK OF PEOPLE'S CAPACITY

Measurement Of National Income Important War Job

War Expenditures Must Be Paid, Leaving Living Allowances For People

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Sept. 18.—Measurement of the national income has become one of the most important jobs of wartime by expert statisticians of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, for the national income is the main measuring stick by which the capacity and resources of the people of Canada to bear the heavy burdens of war can be estimated.

Recent news that the national income of Canada is reaching the $6,900,000,000 a year level, highest in the history of the country, is good news for the Canadian war effort. Six billion dollars is a lot of money with which to pay extra war taxes, buy war savings certificates and victory bonds, and leave enough over for the people of Canada to live on.

A national income of that size in a country of Canada's population in time of peace would mean an unconscionable business boom.

In time of war, the size of the national income determines the government's calculations of how much of the war costs should be charged directly to the pocketbook of Mr. Average Citizen. Back in 1938, according to Canadian official statistics (which are the best in the world), the national income was $3,803,000,000. But with a hard war on, the people of Canada cannot expect to live much better than they did in 1938. As a matter of fact, up to now they have been living a whole lot better and no one will complain because some of the rank inequities of income have been levelled up a bit.

GUARD AGAINST INFLATION

But the board national problem is that the people in the aggregate who had $3,800,000,000 in their hands in 1938, now have about $6,000,000,000, and if the difference or $2,200,000,000 and perhaps more is not taxed or borrowed off to pay for the war, all that Canada will get will be one of the biggest inflationary headaches since the dawn of history.

So the government, especially the finance department, and all the experts, professional and amateur, keep an eye on the national income. If it is the best sign-post to watch. If you are interested in seeing whether Canada can take it as the pinch of war tightens. Calculation of the national income has been proceeding for three years in the bureau of statistics, where white-headed Sydney B. Smith, chief of the business statistics section, has been perfecting the technique of getting as accurate a figure as possible.

RELIABLE PICTURE

Allowing for the cautioning from the statisticians, who all say that calculation of the national income is one of the most complex jobs imaginable, the month by month figures give a reliable picture of how 1941 is running ahead of 1940.

	(Millions of Dollars) 1940	1941
February	360.1	413.3
March	387.7	413.5
April	375.3	413.3
May	403.0	438.8
June	381.5	436.1
July	420.6	447.5
August	404.7	....
September	393.2	....
October	426.7	....
November	427.7	....
December	418.9	....

These figures show that the first seven months of 1941 produced a national income in Canada of $3,003,852,000, that the monthly total is probably even now over the $500,000,000 mark which will be sufficient to yield a $6 billion figure for the fiscal year of 1941-42. On that basis Mr. Ilsley should be able to get the money to run Canada's current costs of $2,700,000,000, including aid to Britain and civil government expenditures, and leave a good slice of income for the people to live on. But it would be impossible to meet a bill of that size out of pre-war national income.

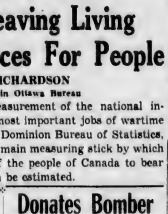

REASONS FOR RISE

The reasons behind the rise in national income, which by the end of July was up 10 per cent. over 1940 and which is likely to gain rapidly in the immediate future, are easy to define. Employment is 22 per cent. ahead of 1940, and Canada is fully employed. With 300,000 men in active service and reinforcements, being called steadily, the country is dipping into secondary labor reserves. Farm income is ahead of last year in almost every community. Animal products are 20 points ahead of 1940 in price, with textiles and crop products not far behind. Commodity productions in general is 17.6 per cent. higher. The physical volume of business is 13.2 per cent. higher, with gains all along the line. Retail sales are 15.4 per cent. higher than 1940, which was a boom year.

Up to the end of July Canada sold 37,700,000 bushels of wheat more than in the previous year. The whole export trade, usually going to Britain, gained 36 per cent. in the first seven months of 1941, to reach a value of $801.3 million dollars.

All these facts and numerous others drawn from statistical records, show that Mr. Ilsley was not far out when he calculated last April, in bringing down the biggest budget in Canadian history, that the Canadian people would have a national income at the level of $6.9 billion a year from which to pay for the war.

Donates Bomber

A recent portrait of Lady MacRobert of Douneside, Tarland, Aberdeenshire, who has sent to the secretary of state for air £25,000 for the purchase of a bomber. The gift will be used to purchase a Stirling bomber which will, by the wish of Lady MacRobert, be named "MacRobert's Reply." The reason for the gift, Lady MacRobert explained, is because "I have no more sons to carry on the fight." One son was recently killed in action with the Royal Air Force in Iraq, and the other was reported missing on the coastal command operating over the North Sea. An elder son was killed in 1938 when his own plane crashed.

Wide Range For Northern Yields

Crop estimates in the Peace river territory show a wide range in yield. Wheat is yielding from 13 to 30 bushels; barley, 20 to 25 bushels, and oats, 40 to 80 bushels, according to the report of the N.A.R. dealing with crop conditions as at September 17, released Thursday by J. M. MacArthur, general manager.

Notwithstanding practically continual rain over the entire territory, there were a few locations where some cutting was possible, states the report. Although some attempts at threshing have been made, they have been unsuccessful, as the grain was too wet.

A few reports of frost have been received, although no damage has been reported. Some sprouting in stooks has taken place and there have been reports of oats heating.

Warm weather and drying winds are needed to permit threshing. Weather in the north is reported clearing.

A Correction

In the report of the Canadian Labor Party meeting published Wednesday it was erroneously stated that H. D. Ainlay, Frank Giles, J. Milner, O. Arntzen and E. J. Adams were delegates to the Trades Congress of Canada convention to be held at Calgary next week. They were nominated as delegates to the Canadian Labor Party (Alberta section) convention being held at Calgary on Sunday, September 28.

Officer Lauds Progress Made In Air Training

Progress that is being made with construction work at air training schools here and in other parts of the province is highly satisfactory, stated Lt. Col. Goodwin Gibson, Ottawa, real estate advisor to the department of national defence, after an inspection tour Thursday.

Col. Gibson, accompanied by Premier Aberhart and Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, inspected the work now under way at No. 4 initial training school located at the Normal school and the three dormitories on the University campus.

Col. Gibson also spoke highly of the progress being made at the No. 3 manning depot at the exhibition grounds.

The Edmonton schools will accommodate a much larger number of airmen than was first expected, Col. Gibson stated.

Transfer of No. 4 training command of the R.C.A.F. from Regina to Calgary will be made on September 30, he said.

Presbytery Meet Is Held Here

Regular session of about 100 ministers and lay representatives of the Edmonton presbytery of the United Church of Canada being held at McDougall church was scheduled to conclude Thursday.

Chief business of the presbytery was the reception, discussion and disposal of reports from the various committees on home and foreign missions, social service and evangelism, and Christian education.

Rev. O. R. Lavers of Namao, chairman of the presbytery, was installed at the morning session. He introduced a number of ministers newly appointed to churches in the Edmonton presbytery. These included Rev. A. R. Schrag of Eastwood United church, Rev. H. M. Wingfield of Fort Saskatchewan, Rev. W. D. Race of Westlock, Rev. G. A. Sauder of Bon Accord, Rev. H. E. Lorsbach of Calvin, and Rev. W. T. Young, Norwood United church.

Among the distinguished churchmen attending the session are Rev. Dr. Hugh Dobson of Vancouver, secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United church; Rev. John Fawcett, president of the Alberta conference, and Rev. Dr. Thomas Powell, superintendent of Alberta missions.

Inaugurates Reconsecration Week

Pledging anew Canada's determination to victory on the anniversary of the declaration of war upon Germany, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King laid a wreath at the foot of the National War Memorial in Ottawa. The occasion marked the inauguration of the Week of Reconsecration proclaimed by the government of Canada from September 10 to 17.

Law Owes Man Whole Day On His Sentence

Can the law refund a prisoner his liberty?

This fine legal point was under scrutiny in the city police court clerk's office after a man had been sentenced to 10 days in jail on Wednesday.

The prisoner, Nick Fewchiuk, was sentenced by Magistrate Millar, who ordered sentence to date from time of arrest.

Accused had been placed in custody on the morning of September 7. His sentence therefore expired almost a full day before he was sentenced.

The law "owes" him at least half a day.

But Fewchiuk isn't going to complain. He left the police station in a real hurry and in a very pleasant frame of mind.

Whole Country Is War Machine

The modern war machine today is the nation itself doing war work of three types, stated Capt. J. Dixon Craig, M.M., associate editor of the Journal in an address to members of the Edmonton Rotary Club in luncheon at the Macdonald Thursday.

Capt. Craig outlined the numerous activities the people of the nation must perform today in order to have an efficient war machine. Three types of machines are necessary—the military machine, the material machine and the moral machine, he stated.

"We are most familiar with the military machine," he said. "Generally speaking it consists of the air, land and sea forces.

"The material machine is much greater in personnel and fields, including food, fuel, metals, transport and communication facilities, skilled personnel and numerous other war needs. Approximately one half of the population of Great Britain is occupied directly in making the material machine function," he stated.

Capt. Craig spoke of the ever increasingly important part that the women of England are playing in the war. About 5,000,000 of them are now doing work that ordinarily is work for the men, he said.

Walter McDonald was chairman of the meeting.

Beverley Baxter Sees Opportunity For British Arms

TORONTO, Sept. 18.—(CP)—British arms are supremely now has reached the point where she could successfully land two or three divisions in France and stand a chance of achieving good results, Beverley Baxter said in an interview here last night.

The Toronto-born member of the British House of Commons said a comparatively small force with ample air protection might do such damage to set off an uprising in France.

Chinese Mark Mukden Clash With Bombing

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—(AP)—More than 30 persons, including several Japanese, were reported today to have been killed in bomb explosions in Nanking and Canton on the eve of the 10th anniversary of the Mukden incident, which touched off Japan's expansion program.

Foreign travellers arriving in Shanghai said 10 persons were killed and 30 injured by the explosion of time bombs, apparently set by anti-Japanese demonstrators, in the Nanking Central station.

Four bomb blasts in the heart of Canton were said to have killed several Japanese. Four other explosions were recorded about Canton. Twenty spectators, most of whom were believed to be Chinese, were killed at a motion picture theatre. Others died near the Japanese military headquarters there.

Martial law was declared in Canton and Japanese troops and the Japanese-controlled Chinese police rounded up hundreds of suspects for questioning.

A clash at Mukden on Sept. 18, 1931, touched off Japan's invasion of Manchuria.

R.C.A.F. Quarters Show Pictures To Interest Recruits

Edmonton's Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting centre, under the command of Flt. Lt. Harry E. Jones, is taking on an "air" appearance. Walls of the centre, located on the fourth floor of the Provincial building, have been filled with charts showing types of planes, insignia, and general air force life. And it's all been done to interest the large groups of applicants that gather daily at the centre to complete their enlistment with the R.C.A.F.

A group of charts show international air markings, while another set, done by a photostatic process, picture types of British coastal aircraft, bombers and fighters, and general German aircraft types.

Complete plans for the expansion of the Edmonton recruiting station are expected from Ottawa shortly, officials stated Wednesday.

Mrs. L. McKinney, Former Citizen, Dies In Winnipeg

Mrs. Lillian Holton McKinney, 58, of 11257 95 street, died recently in Winnipeg, according to word received in Edmonton Thursday.

Born at Barry, Lanes, Eng., Mrs. McKinney was a resident of St. Vital, Man., for 50 years, and had lived in Edmonton for a few months prior to moving to Winnipeg. She was a member of one of the oldest families to settle in the St. Vital district, and was past president of the Princess Christian Lodge, Daughters of England.

Surviving are her husband in Edmonton; three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were completed Wednesday at Winnipeg with interment in the Elmwood cemetery there.

In Other Words, If You Are Not "An Accident Going Someplace in a Hurry to Happen," Then Keep to the Right!

PERSONS ENJOY LIFE and live much longer when they start off by keeping to the right . . . and continuing at a steady gait. Usually they reach their destination "all in one piece" and enjoy the ride.

A boy who decides to handle a newspaper route while attending school is starting in the "Right" Lane. In the "driver's seat," he manages his own profitable business by delivering his product promptly and regularly to his customers . . . talks to them, is friendly, courteous, confident . . . makes his collections and pays his newspaper bill, using the profit to buy school supplies, clothing, recreational equipment . . . and, as most of them do, opens a savings account.

A little merchant and a real salesman in his own right, he is busily but profitably occupied with school and route work, with no time for bad habits.

Yes, of course the newspaper business is fascinating. Newspapers are the hub of community activity . . . but of all their functions, not the least in importance is their contribution, as a Canadian industry, to provide a most excellent training in business experience for over half a million Newspaper Boys . . . Showers Likely For Edmonton Forecast Says

John Citizen may figure there's snow in the air, but official weather forecast for the Edmonton area for Saturday, Sunday, Friday doesn't give his calculations much backing. Forecast reads "not much change in temperature, with local showers." At 8:30 a.m. Thursday the mercury was stalled at the 32 above mark, while the barometer showed a pressure of 27.67, steady.

Overnight low of 35 above was recorded at 3:30 am Thursday. High temperature Wednesday was 58 above at 2:30 p.m.

Dense fog was reported early Thursday at Fort St. John, Peace Coupe and Dawson Creek. Skies were overcast at Hudson Hope, Hythe, Grande Prairie, High Prairie, Grouard and Calling River.

Pastor To Speak In Support Of War Fund Drive

Rev. A. Finnis Marsh, minister of Central United church, will give an address Thursday night (tonight) in the series of meetings in aid of the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims to be broadcast over radio station CFRN every Thursday from 10:30 to 11 pm.

The series, arranged by the McCauley Concert Group, is being presented in an effort to increase donations from the Edmonton area to the fund for British air raid victims.

The Humphrey Lyttelton band will be the featured artists tonight. C. J. Hodgkinson, of the McCauley Concert Group, is organizer for the benefit series.

Edmonton's contribution to the fund reached the $7,532.06 mark, according to figures released Thursday by the Royal Trust company, official recipients for the fund. Latest contributions to the fund include a $100 cheque from C.V.A. $1 and Mrs. H. A. Pellatt, 10928 84 Avenue $10.

City May Take Over Cemetery Mount Pleasant

Finance committee of city council Wednesday recommended that the Mount Pleasant cemetery be taken over by the city, and that the city commissioners be instructed to submit a report to city council on the adjustment of burial fees charged at the Mount Pleasant and Beechmount cemeteries.

Under the proposal to take over the Mount Pleasant cemetery the city will assume the liabilities of the cemetery company. This liability is placed at $2,100. The city will plan a five-year beautification project for the cemetery.

The committee also discussed enlarging of Edmonton's park areas and instructed city commissioners to bring down a report on the present policy of reserving park areas and also suggested that the policy be changed to permit the acquisition by purchase or exchange of property desired for park purposes.

IMPROVE PARK

The latter suggestion was made when City Engineer A. W. Haddow mentioned that it would greatly improve Victoria Park if a new West End outlet was provided. No decision was reached on this matter by the committee.

Application from the Voyageurs Canoe Club for a lease on Lot C on the south bank of the river below the park opposite White Mud Creek opened up discussion on squatters' cabins on the river bank.

As a result of the discussion a survey of these buildings will be made and it is possible that drastic action against squatters will be taken. Several aldermen stated that the river banks had been set aside as beauty spots and saw no reason why squatters should be permitted to spoil these natural scenic areas.

City commissioners were instructed to bring in a report on the application by the Voyageurs Club together with a draft lease to cover the club's proposal for the lease and also to draft regulations covering the leasing of property in these park areas.

Air Rifles Will Be Confiscated

With one man injured and reports of property damage on Wednesday, Acting Chief Const. Matthew Blackwood issued a sharp warning Thursday to owners of air rifles that swift action will follow them out within the city limits.

At about 2 p.m. Wednesday R. G. Brownie suffered a cut above the left eyebrow and had his glasses broken by a BB pellet fired from an air gun in the lane near 109 avenue and 91 street. Police took Thursday, making roads muddy at the world-wide organization, formed at New York on November 17, 1075, and incorporated later in India its headquarters are located at Adyar, Madras.

ROAD REPORT

A.M.A. Safety Slogan: Every hour in danger hour . . . drive carefully.

Thursday's road report: Light rain is falling at Edson, St. Paul, Chauvin, Viking, Hay Lakes, and Thorsby, making roads muddy at these points. Heavy rain and rough roads are reported at Hay Lakes. Rough roads were reported at Cherhill, Barrhead, Rochester, Lac la Biche and Waskatenau. Roads are impassable at Slave Lake and all other Peace River roads are muddy.

McCoy Health Service

This is the time of the year when members of the household are likely to bring home a very persistent and annoying ringworm infection, commonly known as Athlete's Foot. Although this tiny parasite is not readily picked up, it is very difficult to get rid of. It has a long name, Tinea trichophytion, and may be found on the floors of gymnasiums, locker rooms, along the tiles in public showers, and in public bathrooms.

Men are more affected than women because of the fact that they neglect themselves in the matter of not wearing bathing shoes. If one member of the family brings this ringworm infection home, he is likely to infect all members who will pick it up quite readily in the shower room or bathroom.

The first sign of Athlete's Foot is usually an itching peel between the toes. The skin becomes red, scaly and at frequently cracks. Blisters may form, and the discomfort is aggravated when the feet perspire. The disease usually confines itself to the lower extremities, such as the toes, but I have seen infection on the hands as well.

Treatment consists of the use of an antiseptic parasiticide which should be applied night and morning. These preparations are readily obtainable from druggistores. During treatment the victim should change the hose daily, wash the feet often and wear suitable summer shoes, preferably the ventilated type.

Exposure to the summer sun is an excellent help and failing this, treatment should be given with the ultra violet ray.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so when using public bathing places, see that the feet are covered.

Those readers who would like to have further information on the subject of today's column are invited to send for Dr. Frank McCoy's special article entitled "Athlete's Foot." And address your request to McCoy Health Service, enclosing a large self-addressed envelope and five cents in loose stamps.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 100 words. Address McCoy Health Service in care of this paper.

Theosophist To Give Lectures

J. T. S. Morris, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Federation, Theosophical society, will give public lectures Friday and Saturday at 8:15 pm in the Masonic temple. Topics of the two addresses are "Theosophy and Life" and "Individual" and "Theosophy and the Nation". The Theosophical society is world-wide organization, formed at New York on November 17, 1075, and incorporated later in India its headquarters are located at Adyar, Madras.

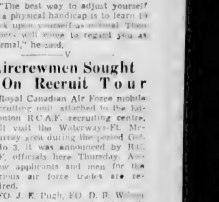

Aircrewmen Sought On Recruit Tour

Royal Canadian Air Force mobile recruiting unit attached to the Edmonton RCAF recruiting centre, will visit the Wilderness Pit, Mundare, Vegreville and Vermilion Oct. 1 to 3, it was announced by RAF officials here Thursday. Aircrewmen and ground crew trades in various air force trades are required.

F/O J. F. Pugh, I.O. D. F. Wilson, medical officers, and LAC. G. Wilkins will be with the unit. They will be prepared to talk to prospective recruits.

The party will be at Waterways on Oct. 1, and at Ft. McMurray Oct. 2 and 3.

What To Do

She's the type who takes waiters and tradespeople to task before an audience? Nothing will serve to shame her out of her boorish ways quicker than a well-timed complaining about the location of theatre seats or restaurant tables to several overdressed guests. All this loud complaining simply blinds you as one who isn't important enough in his own right to deserve proper attention—so take heed and learn to accept annoying situations gracefully.

If you must complain of food, do so quietly and without rousing the interest of others. If your theatre seats don't suit you, go to the box office and see if you may have better seats for the performance, but don't bother the usher with your bad temper.

There are many times when faultfinding and complaining would ease your nerves, but a real lady or gentleman can be easily distinguished from a social climber by their acceptance of things as they come and their adept handling of small, everyday incidents.

Russians Bend Back Drive Of Germans . . . . Planes Blast Nazi Artillery Positions At Undisclosed Point

Russian counter-offensives apparently have foiled a surprise German drive that sprouted off Moscow line and headed for the industrial section of the mid-Ukraine. Out of many reports it now appears certain the Germans got as far as Bryansk, where they ran into a terrific Russian attack that drove them back at least as far as Roslavl and possibly against Smolensk. Note on map how continuation of this Red offensive might cut main German supply route to besieged Leningrad, if pursued successfully 200 miles.

According to the caption on this Soviet-approved radiophoto from Moscow, a plane of the Soviet air force is shadowed on the ground far below, as it drops deadly bombs on what is described as German artillery positions at "N." Puffs of smoke at lower right of the picture indicate spots where bombs have exploded. Three bombs are hurtling to the earth at left.

The fact that the Aug. 17 torpedoing of the Panama-registered, former Danish, freighter Sessa was not reported until 23 days later is being taken as an indication that the ship was not in either British or American convoy, or in sight of any unit of the U.S. Neutrality Patrol. The Sessa, pictured above, was sunk off Iceland, with a loss of 24 of her 27-man crew.

Three G-men were fired and there were buzzings of wholesale transfers in the FBI, following reports that a number of operatives had partied with beauteous models, possibly spilled FBI secrets in New York hotel. Central figure was many-aliased, brunette Paula von Luckner, 22, arrested in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., for impersonating a member of the justice department.

My! What A Day!

It takes more than a storm, steps and heckling to stop Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt from grabbing her skirts and making her appointed rounds — this time in Pittsburgh, where she talked with Democratic leaders, held a press conference, attended a luncheon, inspected an NYA centre, dedicated a housing project, was honor guest at a tea and then made the main address at a "Youth in Democracy" rally. This picture was made as she rushed for shelter at the housing project.

Britons On U.S. "Front"

Three British military observers campaigning with the U.S. Third Army during the current war manoeuvres in Louisiana are shown with a U.S. major outside the visitors' bureau at Camp Polk. Takes Over Army

In a drastic move to surmount the crisis facing Japan, Emperor Hirohito, above, took command of the army, his direct rule superseding previous General staff control.

Double Cross On Red Cross, Norway

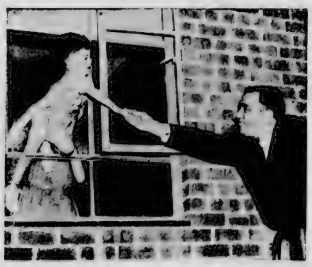

German invaders of Trondheim, Norway, built their army huts under the swastika, but also snugly beside the raid-immune Red Cross hospital for protection from R.A.F. bombings, according to British censor's caption on picture.

YOURS FOR A WHILE

BY LOUISE HOLMES

The BROOKS family has been broken up when JOHN is taken to the veterans hospital, where it is learned his leg must be amputated. MRS. BROOKS is working at the hospital. CHRISTIE, their daughter, is working for JACK RAMSEY in his cafe. Christie long has planned to marry SAM SIMPSON, real estate man, but has been interested in GRAY TALBOT, a young man who has decided plumbing is a good business. Gray has asked Christie to go to the policeman's ball with him. Of course, she must go with Sam, but she knows he won't want to go. She asks him anyway. He agrees to do it and Christie is thrilled. Shortly before time for the ball, Sam calls to tell her he has a splitting headache and can't go. Remembering Gray's offer, that she call him if she can go with him, she tries. Unable to reach him on the phone, she calls a cab. At Gray's apartment, she finds him ready to take her to the ball. They stay a while and are on their way home at 4 a.m. Gray offers Christie fatherly advice, then kisses her good night. She realizes she loves him and tells Sam so the next night. They break off their engagement. That night Christie's mother calls to tell her that her father is worse, will be operated on in the morning. After the operation, he loses strength and Christie offers to provide blood for a transfusion.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

A few moments later, bitterly disappointed, Christie returned to her mother. "I won't do," she sobbed. "I haven't the right blood count. I wanted to do something for him so badly."

They sat in a small anteroom across the hall from John's room. Half an hour passed before the doctor came to explain the delay. It seemed that John's type, number 4, was the most difficult to find. So far they had been unable to locate a donor.

"We'll have to call for volunteers," the doctor said, "and we must do it quickly. Every minute counts."

Christie and her mother made a hurried list of friends who were to send out the call to other friends and acquaintances. Sam's name headed the list. Mrs. Brooks went to the office while Christie remained close to her father's door. She was crying forlornly when she heard her name spoken softly.

"Christie—"

GRAY COMES

She whirled about, unable to believe her ears. Gray Talbot, hatless and wearing overalls, stood in the door.

"Oh, Gray," she cried, running to him.

He took her hands. "Why are you crying, Christie?" he asked as if finding it difficult to believe that those shining eyes could weep.

"Because of my daddy," she wailed.

"There, there, tell me about it." He led her to an uncomfortable settee and sat down beside her, holding her hand in both his.

"He's so sick." She bit her quivering lip hard. "They operated this morning. Now they're trying to find someone to give a blood transfusion and they c-can't."

"Oh, I'm sorry." There was real sympathy in his voice. "I've been installing new lavatories in the nurses's quarters. Thought while I was here I'd run in and see your father—I had no idea. He looked at her thoughtfully. "You say they are having trouble finding a donor?"

She nodded dismally. "His type is rare—number 4. I think the doctor said. Oh, Gray—I can't stand it—I can't—"

He jumped to his feet, pulling her hand before he dropped it. "I was a donor once," he said. "A fellow in college had a peculiar blood count. Hold everything until I see the doctor."

He raped toward the office and Christie drew a long breath. Hope and confidence seemed to be pouring into her. Gray had come. He had offered help.

IT'S ALL RIGHT

It couldn't have been more than fifteen minutes when the doctor and several nurses and Gray filed past the door of the little anteroom. Gray nodded. "It's all right," he said. Mom joined Christie and they stood, hand in hand, waiting. At last the doctor came to them, smiling, pleased.

"The patient is responding nicely," he told them. "Luckiest break in the world, that young man turning up. A plumber, working here in the building, they tell me. You can thank God that he came, Mrs. Brooks."

"I do thank God—I do," she said fervently.

Then Gray was in the room, buttoning the cuff of his denim shirt. Christie gazed at him. The adoration in her eyes was there for all to see. He took Mom's hand.

"Mr. Brooks is going to be fine," he said. "Buck up so you'll be ready when he asks for you."

"I will, Gray. Thank you, and forgive me for being unkind."

He laughed at that, remembering the fight in the restaurant. "The doctor had asked me to be on hand tonight just in case another transfusion might be necessary. I'll be running along now. See you later." He grinned cheerfully at Christie.

As he strode away Mom said, "I love that young man. He saved my husband for me."

I LOVE HIM, TOO

Without thinking, Christie answered, "I love him too, Mom."

The door of John's room was opening and the comment went unnoticed.

The long night passed on leaden feet. Gray, declining a bed, sat with Christie and her mother in the little ante room. Circumstances had crowded him out of the path of wisdom. Automatically, and by reason of service, he had become involved in the human relationships that he wished to avoid.

Another rosy dawn was coloring the quiet horizon when he went to stand beside Christie at the window. Mom napped on the uncomfortable settee.

"You're not wearing your ring, Christie," he said softly.

"I gave it back to Sam."

"You don't love him?"

"No, I never loved him."

"Someone else?"

"Yes." She raised heavy-lidded eyes to his face.

A nurse tiptoed in to report that the patient was much improved, his temperature had dropped and his pulse steadied. In an agony of relief Christie turned to Gray. He took her in his arms.

"It's a new day, darling," he whispered, lips against her hair. "A better day."

"Stay with me, Gray," she quavered.

"I'll stay. I'll stay for—" He had almost said, "I'll stay for awhile." He added gently, "I love you, Christie. You are part of this new life. You are all of it."

She leaned her head back against his arm, gazing into his face through tear-misted eyes. "Do you mean that you want me to marry you, Gray?"

For the barest minute he hesitated. Then, "Yes, I want you to be my wife." He kissed her yielding lips and in his heart there was no room for doubt.

It was all like a dream after that. John Brooks recovered slowly. One leg was gone, but the pain had departed with it. Mom took the news of Christie's engagement to Gray with absent-minded surprise.

Had she been less absorbed in her husband, or had he been less ill, more questions might have been asked. Gray's background and parents would most assuredly have been investigated. Above all things the riddles of his daily life would not have gone unnoticed.

For riddles were many. Gray's car, for instance, and his clothes, and his extravagant plans for the marriage. Christie's practical good sense nipped his extravagances before they were put in motion. Utterly unsophisticated, madly in love, she refused to place significance on any fact except that Gray loved her and that they were to be married.

Mom regarded him as a hero. John wouldn't accept the donation. He even went so far as to say that he had suspected this outcome from the very beginning.

One small incident occurred that might have worried Christie a little had she not been living in a bemused world made up solely of herself and Gray. It was when she asked him if his family was coming for the wedding.

"No," he said. "I haven't told my family, Christie."

"You haven't told them?" she repeated, for the moment astounded.

He shook his head. "I'll tell them later. Not now."

She waited, head on one side, faintly troubled eyes on his face.

When he said nothing more she asked, "Do you want to tell me why?"

GRAY'S MOTHER

He frowned, saying slowly, "You don't know my mother, so it's hard to explain. She's extremely nervous, the least thing upsets her, and when she gets upset she is sick. She faints. She gets blue around the mouth. It's dreadful, Christie."

"Of course, darling. I know."

"It almost killed her when I left home. I probably never would have made the break if Grandmother hadn't encouraged me. Somehow Grandmother has never taken Mother seriously."

"Grandmother?" This was a member of the family never before mentioned.

"She lives with us—Grandmother Talbot. She writes to me. She's the only one who writes to me. Bitterness crept into his tone. "If they have dropped me, they needn't know about you. And if I told them it might make Mother sick again." He drew Christie into his arms. "It's you and me, darling. Let's not ever talk about my family."

"We won't, Gray." The situation was perfectly clear to Christie. It might have necessitated closer analysis had Mom and John been wholly on the parental job.

Especially if they had seen Gray's expression when he held their daughter in his arms, there might have been questions. Sometimes, when he held Christie in his arms, he looked over her head with a terrified light in his eyes, as if he glimpsed a forbidding future.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

In winning the world championship Mastery team-of-four contest this year, Waldemar Von Zedtwitz and his teammates, Sam Fry, Jr. and Edward Hymes, Jr., of New York, and A. M. Barnes of Atlanta, Ga., might be said to have settled a grudge that originated a year ago.

They were favored to defeat the 1940 winners, Bertram Lebhar, Jr., of New York, Sam Katz of Newark, and A. R. Roth and O. J. Brotman of Washington, D.C. This year there were two teams not in the arena finals and the Von Zedtwitz team won by 3,640 points, making up for the sting of last year's defeat.

Von Zedtwitz, generally conceded to be the world's outstanding player from the days of auction and through contract, claims that anyone can play better bridge by simply concentrating on the game. Carelessness is a definite weakness in any player's game. Today's hand demonstrates the care with which Von Zedtwitz counts a hand down.

East won the opening lead with the ace of spades and returned the jack. Von Zedtwitz (South) played the queen, and West let him hold the trick. A diamond was led and the queen fell to the ace. East exited with the other diamond, and Von Zedtwitz held the trick with the 10. In order to start the hearts. On his heart lead, West played the 8, dummy the 9 and East the 10. East exited with a low heart and the queen forced the ace.

Von Zedtwitz now took stock. He inferred from East's risky heart exit that he held no more diamonds. That placed West with four diamonds originally, plus six spades and two hearts. Hence West could have no more than one club. So Von Zedtwitz backed his inference by cashing the queen of clubs, leading the 8 and letting it ride when East played low. When it won, he claimed three more tricks with diamonds and clubs, making the contract.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—"Volunteers" of the French Legion being recruited by the Nazis to fight Russia are arriving in Poland, en route to the eastern front, clad in civilian clothes instead of uniforms, the Polish Telegraph News Agency reported Wednesday night.

Windsors To Stay 10 Days At Ranch

NEW YORK, Sept. 18—(AP)—The itinerary of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor on their forthcoming six-week holiday trip from Nassau to the Duke's ranch in Alberta includes stops at Miami, Washington and Chicago en route to Canada and visits to Baltimore and New York on the return journey.

The British Press Service announced Wednesday the couple would leave the Bahamas Sept. 23 by plane for Miami, entrain for Washington the following morning, leave Washington by train Sept. 26 arrive in Chicago the next day and in Calgary, 40 miles from the E.P. ranch, Sept. 30.

The Dukey first visit to his ranch in 14 years will be for about 10 days, and on the way home he and his wife will stay in Baltimore with Henry M. Warfield, uncle of the Duchess, and later come to New York before proceeding to Nassau

Labor Secretary Opposes Ottawa's Strike Attitude

OTTAWA, Sept. 18—(CP)—W. T. Burford, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Federation of Labor, Wednesday night described the new order-in-council designed to prevent workers in war industries being led into a strike by a minority as "a half-way measure and a weak one."

"It will retard strikes only if the government has the moral strength to carry out its decisions, and that strength has not yet been shown where any foreign-controlled union was involved," he said.

"Strikes and slowdowns have been declared illegal, but that was as far as the government seemed able to go."

U.S. Air Power Said Greatest

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18—(AP) —Two high ranking United States air officials expressed belief in an interview today that American air power is great enough to withstand any assault.

They are Robert A. Lovett, assistant secretary of war for air, and Maj.-Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, who arrived here yesterday after an inspection trip.

Both refused to be quoted directly on United States air power, but were emphatic in the belief its equipment is as good as any in the world and that its personnel is superb.

City Woman Sends Leopard Skin To Army Brass Band

REGINA, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The drummer of Military District 12 Depot band paraded Wednesday with an old leather apron protecting his battledress, but indications are that he will have an attractive leopard skin before the week-end.

An appeal made by the Regina Leader-Post and The Canadian Press resulted in offers of at least eight such pelts from citizens of western Canada.

Most of these had been used as rugs or as wall trophies in drawing-rooms and libraries of prairie homes, but one offered by an Edmonton lady, Mrs. H. T. S. Parlee, 11534 82 street, appeared to fill the bill. Mrs. Parlee said at Edmonton yesterday she had expressed her leopard skin to the Leader-Post, which will turn it over to the drummer.

Ottawa May Make Bonus Compulsory

OTTAWA, Sept. 18—(CP)—Consideration is being given to having made compulsory the federal wartime wages policy which includes the payment of a cost-of-living bonus where warranted, it was learned here Wednesday night.

The wages policy is covered in an order-in-council which prescribes for boards of conciliation in industries covered by the industrial disputes act and recommends them for all other industries.

These wage rates may be supplemented by a separate cost-of-living bonus usually of $1.25 a week for each rise of five per cent in the cost of living. The purpose is to safeguard workers against increase in the cost of basic necessities of life.

American Vessel Is Escorted Into Lisbon Is Report

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(CP)—The steamship Excambion, which arrived at Lisbon Tuesday "in the first United States vessel to be escorted to that port," the British Broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday night, quoting "an agency report."

A United States coastguard ship which had been at Lisbon for some time "sailed to meet the Excambion at sea and brought her into harbor," the BBC said.

Medical Officer Outlines Care Of Children

School Life Creates New Demands On Mind, Body Of Growing Child

By G. M. LITTLE, M.D., D.P.H.
City Medical Officer of Health.

What greater pleasure for a parent than to see his child healthy, happy and normal? What more effective key to the unknown future can he bestow upon his child than a healthy mind and body, with reasonable training in their use? But we cannot always depend upon nature to deliver these gifts without assistance.

The child starts to school. In truth, he starts his life's work at that time. The educationalists plan the job to suit the young fellow's capabilities, but make no mistake—the load these growing children carry, and the problems with which they are confronted, may be as great to them as those we adults face in our own vocation.

In other words, school life creates new demands on both the minds and bodies of our children. It may not be until such demands are met that latent disabilities begin to show up. That slightly defective vision or mildly infected throat which the child's boundless energy masked during the carefree pre-school years now makes itself evident.

CAREFUL OBSERVATION

Particularly during the early years of school is it unfortunate if we leave our child's physical welfare entirely to nature. This is a time when careful observation on our part, and an occasional visit to the family physician may remedy such minor defects before they have marked the child's body for life. The physical report rendered to parents by the school medical service is an earnest effort to keep the child on the pathway of good health. Such reports warrant careful consideration and action if so indicated.

No parent can remove from his child's life all the hazards of living; but a sturdy body will in itself lessen many of these risks. We will have more sturdy bodies when parents actively accept the principle of making the family responsible for good health as well as bad.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Certain threats, however, we can definitely forestall. Smallpox, diphtheria and certain other diseases should now have disappeared if all children had been given the protection science offers. Your family physician, your school medical services and your health department all stand ready to give this protection. The child who has been thoughtlessly left to meet the very real hazard of diphtheria without such protection may live to reproach his parents for their neglect of this simple safety measure. Or he may not live.

Alberta's Tech Celebrates Its 25th Birthday

The Provincial Institute of Technology and Art celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary on August 15th. This unit of Alberta's educational system was organized by the department of education in 1916 and of its original staff only two members remain in its service today. These are the principal, James Fowler and the head of the drafting department, Leo E. Pearson. The Institute is located in Calgary.

During the last quarter of a century the institute has slowly and surely made a place and a reputation for itself among the educational institutions of our province, and young men and women by the thousand scattered throughout the length and breadth of the dominion, doing their part towards the upbuilding of a better and a more prosperous Canada, look to it as their alma mater. The "Tech" spirit is synonymous with good fellowship, camaraderie, and efficient willing service.

YEAR HAD HANDICAPS

The school year 1940-41 has been a tough one for the institute. Not only did it have to meet the competition of free youth training courses, the lure of enlistment into the navy, the army and the air force, as well as the compulsory drafting of young men for military training but at the beginning of the year it lost the palatial buildings on the North Hill which for many years had been its home, and at the end of the year it lost the principal who for nearly 20 years had moulded its destiny, had moulded its policy and had supplied its inspiration.

The exigency of war impressed the Tech buildings as Wireless School No. 2 of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan and the growth of practical education in Alberta drafted the full time and energies of Dr. W. G. Carpenter as director of technical education.

In spite of these handicaps the Institute had a most successful year in 1940-41. Never was the school spirit better, never were the enthusiasm and co-operation of the students higher, never was the placement of its students in worthwhile jobs more noteworthy. To compensate for the reduction in physical space and facilities the Institute lengthened its day.

Under the urgent drive of Dr. Carpenter's vigorous personality, it ran its shops and classrooms on a 24-hour basis with three distinct staffs of instructors. True the classes were not all strictly those of the Institute, as many of them were conducted under Schedule "K" of the War Emergency Service of the Dominion Government—but all were conducted under the aegis of the Institute and all used its facilities in the Grand Stand building, Victoria Park in the Coste House on Amherst street.

Many scores of students have entered the mechanical services of the navy, the army, or the air force. Many others are assisting Canada's war effort by finding congenial employment in the aircraft and munition factories both of western and eastern Canada.

Medical Officer

Dr. G. M. Little, city medical officer of health, who states that the greatest care of children's health and physical development is required during the school years.

"I Am the Eyes of a Child"

I am brown or blue or black or grey. I have faith in every One and every Thing. I trust the world I look out upon, the business of Life and wonder what it is all about. I can possess the utmost clearness of conscience. I see without needing or knowing. The pictures I throw on the baby brain are magical. I am not for sale or exchange, nor can I be bought. I am Priceless. I am Sensitive. I require Care and Thought on which I thrive. I never return when once I go. I go reluctantly if go I Must.

I grow weak with Overwork, or Ill Health, or Strain. I resent indifference or Neglect. When I am not as Strong as I was intended to be I protest against Over-exertion in the School Room. I rebel against long hours of Study or Reading at Home where the Lights are so Dim that I cannot see. I sound my Warnings daily. I cause Misery to the Brain, and a throbbing head. I produce a countless score of ills that are blamed on Everything but Me. My punishment is Relentless. I Must be heard. I punish myself. I worry myself into aching, twitching, burning coals of fire. I cannot Work. I Weep. I will not Sleep. I will not stop until my Cry is heeded.

The Parents of the Baby Body in which I dwell blame Fretfulness, Illness, Apathy, Dullness and a Stumbling Gait on a score of things, but I AM THE CAUSE. I Fairly Sing and Dance and Thrill with Light and Joy and Gladness when I am Healthy and Strong and Rested. I need Aid from the Skilled Hands of Men who Know Me, who study my needs, who Know what I must Have, then I respond in Sheer Gratitude. If I have Behaved Badly and caused Pain it is only because I have needed Help. With Assistance these Learned Men CAN give Me I Live and I am no longer Wanted. I speak that ALL Parents may hear! REMEMBER, I am the Eyes of a Child. I MAY be the eyes of YOUR CHILD.

School Days are Here Again!

Preserve the vitality and health your family have gained through the sunshine and fresh air of summer days. Fortify and protect their vigour through the winter with "LOVES" delicious milk drinks.

TRY THIS ONE!

COCOA MILK

1 cup of Cocoa, 2 cups granulated Sugar, 1 cup Cold Water. Mix thoroughly and boil not more than 3 minutes. Then add ¼ cup of Melted Butter, ¼ teaspoonful "LOVES CARAMEL FLAVOR", pinch of Salt and let cool. When cool, add two well-beaten Eggs. Pour into jug and cover. Keep in refrigerator and add to either hot or cold milk according to taste.

NOTE:—In making the hot drink, heat but do not boil the milk.

THEY LOVE IT

Mrs. W. A. of Toronto writes: "My children wouldn't eat milk puddings. Now they do. I give them a different flavor each time—Cherry, Raspberry, Loganberry, Caramel—just by adding a drop of "LOVES" flavors—and they love it!"

Mrs. G. K., Manitoba, writes: "I must tell you of another discovery. I was so thrilled that I sent it to "The Star Weekly". The children wouldn't even drink a cupful of their milk, so I added a few drops of "LOVES" Cherry flavor. Now the milk is pale pink in color and has a delicate, fruity flavor and the children love it."

A FLAVOR FOR EVERY TASTE AND PURPOSE

Insist on getting the genuine, concentrated "LOVES" Flavors from your grocer. Don't accept inferior imitations, but send direct to:

LOVE-The Flavor Man- Church and Lombard, Toronto, Ontario.

NOTE: "LOVES FLAVORS" make valuable and very welcome gifts for sending Overseas. L.83

Boys And Girls Should Develop Cheerfulness

Physical Fitness Key To Happy Life Of Child And Future As Citizen

The boy and girl at school today should be encouraged to cultivate cheerfulness, a sense of humor, self-control and co-operation. The extent to which the child acquires a combination of the above requisites will determine the type of citizen that the child will become.

Principal

Dr. F. S. McCall, principal of Alberta College, which anticipates a record enrolment this term. The school building on 101 street has been completely renovated.

Healthy and happy living means good food, long hours of sleep at the right time, plenty of fresh air and wholesome thoughts. The youth today should live in surroundings where health is contagious, where abundant sunshine is a right—not a privilege.

The food that a child eats determines to a considerable extent the fitness of the future citizen. Good habits should start today, as the child of today is the adult of tomorrow.

Proper co-operation between the school and the home is indispensible. Through this medium, only, will the child be able to acquire the proper habits of living

NOON MEAL PROBLEM

One of the gravest problems confronting the mother at home and the teacher at school is the problem of noon meals, for those who must eat in school. Some of the following suggestions may help make the school lunches nutritious as well as appetizing.

Hot soup or cocoa—If you have a thermos, use it. Soup or cocoa may be heated or even made at school

Sandwiches — Use nourishing kinds of bread. Whole wheat, oatmeal, brown, raisin or nut bread spread with butter, cheese or cottage cheese, minced meat, eggs, lettuce, sliced tomatoes, peanut butter ham, dates and nuts may be used for fillings

Sweets—Plain cookies, oatmeal cookies, gingerbread with raisins, date and nut loaf, sponge cake. An orange, apple, banana, or fresh fruit in season. Home made candy or chocolate

Wrap lunch in wax paper, and add a paper napkin for each child.

Regularity of meals is of vital importance to the growing child. Three well balanced meals per day at regular hours will do more to help develop the child's food habits than any other single factor.

Milk, fruit, meat, vegetables, cereal and meat substitutes are the basic food requirements. Loss of any one of these for any length of time may be harmful.

Sleeping from 10 to 12 hours in well ventilated rooms will add 10 to 12 hours of fresh air. When going to school only two to three hours of fresh air can be obtained daily. Ventilated bedrooms will make up the loss of fresh air during the day

PROPER CLOTHING

Proper clothing does not constrict and is not oppressive. Its main purpose is to protect the child against cold and moisture.

Heating, lighting and ventilation are three other factors of vital importance to the child. Maximum comfort should be the objective to reach with all three.

Numerous other sanitary regulations such as daily inspection, regular brushing of the teeth, clean surroundings, proper furniture, sanitary washing and lavatory facilities and general cleanliness have all become part and parcel of the present school system

FOUR RUSSIAN ARMIES SAID TRAPPED BY ADVANCE

Public School Board Formed Here In 1885

Trustees Administer Vast Organization Of Educational Projects

Developing from a small group who met infrequently at a log shack on Dawson flats years ago, to its present complex and highly-technical state, the Edmonton Public School Board today stands as a rugged symbol of unification between the city's large number of public and high schools.

Organized in 1885 under the leadership of Edmonton's first school board chairman, Matthew McCauley, the board is now in a position to boast tremendous progress over a period of almost 60 years.

Since that first year, members—many of them veteran principals, some dead, some still respected and some still serving the citizens of Edmonton—have strived constantly for the provision of greater security and stalibily in educational service, through the attainment of a more secure and more dependable means of financing; the adaption of a secondary school service to the needs of a changed high school clientele and changing social conditions; the conditioning of high school service with a plant adequate for the effective performance of its function; and the recognition of the fact that not all children of a public school age can successfully handle the regular course, and that a course fitted to their needs must be provided.

SCHOOLS ARE MONUMENTS

The work of the board is not without its monuments. Each school in the city is recognized as a separate achievement. Each school provides the maximum in teaching facilities and every teacher who stands before his pupils must pass rigid tests and examinations before he is judged able to serve as instructor to the young minds before him.

Changes in the school curriculum for this year are practically nil, according to officials of the board. It is expected the number of pupils coming under this curriculum will be about the same as the 1940 total, which was 14,961, of which 3,180 were students at high schools, 3,085 in intermediate schools and 8,696 in elementary schools.

While a number of teachers will be absent through serving in various branches of the armed forces, their positions have been filled by fully-competent substitutes. Extra-curricular activities this year will proceed as usual, Officials stated that when such activities are teacher-supervised and apart from this left in the hands of the students themselves, training acquired therein becomes valuable to such an extent that students are being given an increasingly free hand in their work

WAR MAKES CHANGES

Changes in the school system in the city have naturally been brought about through the war and the Canadian war effort. One change will be noticed in the district surrounding the Normal Practice school, as children attend other schools and teachers in training are absorbed at the Garneau school.

The Normal school building has been taken over for the purpose of training Empire warbirds in the R.C.A.F.

Considerable improvement has been done at Queen Alex school, such as refinishing floors in each classroom. Five additional rooms will be in use this year. The new Westglen high school has been landscaped with trees and shrubs making the building not only one of the most up-to-date in northern Canada, but also one of the most beautiful.

GYMNASIUM ADDED

Garneau school has had a gymnasium added which is also almost a separate unit in itself.

Regular meetings of the school board through the past summer season show that no large building program is contemplated this year. The two new schools, Westglen and Glenora, are expected to prove sufficient for the needs of Edmonton's youngsters for another year.

The war effort of the students this year is expected to be carried on from the high mark it left at the close of the spring term. Students last year won high acclaim from parents and the school board for their many purchases of war savings stamps and certificates and their donations to various war charities.

Sport Is Now Big Feature School Life

After "four," at recesses, or even before school starts in the morning, or at noon, in winter or summer . . . there's sport of one kind or another being played on school grounds throughout the length and breadth of the country. And it's this type of sport that goes hand in hand with classroom education in making bigger and better citizens out of the children of today.

Why? Well, because it gives children a chance to get out and enjoy themselves in a healthy, vigorous manner . . . and in competition with others. They learn not only the rules of the particular game, but they also get many practical lessons on the rules of proper living. And it's on this basis that all proper school sport is planned.

GET GUIDANCE

From primary grade circle games to high school football or basketball may be a long jump, but through the ever-progressing sequence of education, children and then young men and women learn each game, each sport in its turn . . . and all under the careful guidance of trained instructors and coaches.

The often dreaded "P.T." or physical "jerks" as such is fast disappearing in modern school training. In its place go gymnastics, fundamentals, folk dancing, and actual competitive games. There's little dodging of this class now!

In Edmonton, school children are particularly fortunate in that the city school board and city council have provided athletic accommodations on a par with any found on the American continent. And what's more, the authorities are awake to the latest trends in physical training.

Salvage Campaign Brings Out Hearse

Candidate for the strangest contribution to the National Salvage campaign is an ancient hearse. It was pulled out of retirement by a "six-horse team" of Boy Scouts, and created something of a street sensation. Demonstrating Scout ingenuity, two of its wheels are again rolling usefully, and presumably much more happily, beneath a Scout salvage-collecting trekcart.

Heads Board

A. E. Ottewell, chairman of the Edmonton public school board. He is a veteran on the board and has watched the city's school system develop into one of the most progressive in Canada.

Boy Scouts Are Resourceful In Bombing Raids

Birmingham Boy Scouts carried out "first aid" repairs at a first aid post during a heavy raid. But for their timely assistance it might have been necessary to close the post to the reception of casualties.

The installation of emergency lights and the gas-proofing of doorways were two of the jobs efficiently done. Regularly these boys take turns as fire-spotters and fire-fighters at the post.

Toronto's A.R.P. organization calls for the use of Scout bicycle and foot messengers at each of the city's 2,602 warden posts.

89 Classrooms For Separate School System

The Separate school teaching staff will, on the opening of schools, consist of 96 members, made up of 89 regular classroom teachers, one home economics instructor, one general shop instructor, one music supervisor, four special teachers. It is expected that the peak monthly enrolment of last year (2,860 in October 1940) will be exceeded this year. There will be in operation 89 regular classrooms in 18 schools.

Two new schools are being opened this year—one just completed in the Highlands district and one re-opened after extensive alterations in Riverdale (Fraser Flats). The room formerly operated in St. Mary's Home, Edmonton South, has been closed. The children of this home will be accommodated at St. Francis school.

For the accommodation of pupils of the Bonnie Doon district and of the area south of Whyte avenue and east of C.P.R. in Edmonton South, a special bus will be run each morning through these districts to convoy children to Mt. Carmel school.

LIST OF SCHOOLS

Following is a list of the schools, their locations, grades and principals:

St. Mary's High School (girls)—10042 103 street. Grade 10 11, 12 Principal, Rev. Mother Margaret Mary, M.A.

St. Joseph's High School (boys)—109 street and 108 avenue. Grades 10, 11, 12. Principal, Rev. F. W. Daly, B.A.

St. Vincent's High School (girls and boys)—9859 Jasper avenue. First year, second year, and special one-year commercial courses. Principal, Rev. Sister Frances de Chantal.

St. Anthony's Intermediate — 106 street and 94 avenue. Grades 7, 8, 9. Principal, Rev. Mother M. Margaret, B.A.

Sacred Heart School—96 street and 108 avenue. Grades 1-9. Principal, Rev. Sister Gertrude.

Grandin School—110 street and 98 avenue. Grades 1-9. Principal, Rev. Mother M. Augustine.

St. Alphonsus School—82 street and 117 avenue. Grade 1-9. Principal, Rev. Sister M. Aloysia.

St. Francis School—97 street and 130 avenue. Grades 1-9. Principal, Rev. Mother M. Frederick.

Highlands School—64 street and 118 avenue. Grades 1-9. Principal, Rev. Sister M. Marcella.

(Tentative boundaries of this school will be 70 street on west, 120 avenue on north, city limits on east, Saskatchewan river on south).

Students of grades 7, 8 and 9 of this district will attend St. Alphonsus school.

St. Edmund's School—117 street and 130 avenue. Grades 1-3. Principal, Rev. Mother M. Gabriel.

St. Andrew's School—127 street and 114 avenue. Grade 1-9. Principal, Rev. Sister M. Vincentia.

Mt. Carmel School—105 street and 78 avenue. Grades 1-6. Principal, Rev. Mother M. Augustine, B.A.

St. John's School—120 street and 102 avenue. Grade 1-7. Principal, Rev. Sister M. Matilda.

St. Teresa's School—O'Connell Institute, Forest Heights. Grades 1-8. Principal, Rev. Sister Mary of the Blessed Sacrament.

Fairview School—13050 95A street. Grades 1-6. Principal, Rev. Sister M. Clare.

Dunvegan Yards School—Grades 1-6 Teacher, Rev. Sister P. MacConway.

Little Flower School—101 street and 97 avenue. Grades 1-3. Teacher, Rev. Sister M. Cosmas.

Riverdale (Fraser Flats) School—99 street and 101A avenue. Grades 1-6 Teacher, Rev. Sister M. Priscilla.

NON-RESIDENT HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

High school students who do not reside in the district (i.e. in the City of Edmonton) will be accommodated as far as space will permit and providing they meet the requirements of the board in regard to non-resident students' fees.

BEGINNERS

Pupils starting school for the first time must have reached the age of six years at September 1. Applications will be received from children who were between five years-six months and six years on September 1. These will be accepted if, following testing and observation by the teachers, they are found to be sufficiently mature to enter grade one. Otherwise they will be required to wait until September 1942 for entrance to school. Applications for admission will not be considered from children younger than five and a half years. No beginners will be accepted after September 30

HOME ECONOMICS AND GENERAL SHOP CENTRES

The home economics centre—for girls of grades 8 and 9—will continue to be located at St. Mary's high school, 103 street, and the general shop centre for boys of grades 8 and 9 at St. Alphonsus school.

Members of the Edmonton Separate School Board for the current year are: R. D. Tighe, K.C., chairman; W. J. Wilde, J. O. Pilon, A. J. Crowe, R. Bouchard, James O'Hara, Hugh Currie.

BUILDING AND REPAIRS

The new Highlands school will serve the northeast section of the city providing accommodation for pupils in the Highlands and southern portion of the North Edmonton districts. It is the first unit of a four room school and includes two regular classrooms, a combination assembly hall and playrooms, library, teachers' office, and heating and plumbing facilities for the larger school when completed.

Extensive alterations were carried out during July and August to the school located in Riverdale. As a result this building, which had not been in operation for some years, now presents an attractive appearance and will offer suitable accommodation for the younger pupils of this vicinity.

All schools during the past year gave a prominent place on their programs to patriotic activities. The record of the pupils and employees in purchasing war savings certificates and supporting patriotic appeals has been most gratifying. War savings stamps and certificates amounting to $4,300 were bought by the 2,900 pupils enrolled in the schools. These activities will be continued throughout the forthcoming year.

—V—

Cash incomes from the sale of farm products in the three prairie provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta—during the first half of the 1941 calendar year amounted to $155,540,000 as compared with $89,594,000 in the corresponding six months of 1940.

—V—

In 1939, passenger traffic on American railroads totaled 22,657,464,000 revenue passenger miles.

Alberta College Receives Thorough Renovating As Plans Made For New Term

Four complete floors of remodelled and renovated accommodation greet the Alberta College student of 1941. No more rough floors, no more creaky stairs, no more dark walls in one of Alberta's pioneer halls of learning, Alberta College.

Dr. F. S. McCall, B.A., D.D., principal of the college since 1913 and member of its staff since 1908, has decreed a new deal to the 1941 edition of scholars.

Every room, from the boiler room in the basement to the smallest anteroom on the third floor has undergone a complete "face-lifting."

REMODELLING

The main entrance and front corridors have been remodelled with French doors, arched openings, three-ply veneer panelling and patterned linoleum. The panelling in light oak and walls and ceiling in white give the incoming student an immediate feeling of ease and friendliness

The corridors lead to the secretary's office immediately ahead. W. G. Heath, after 29 years of service in rather cramped and inadequate quarters, proudly points to such vast improvements as a vault, a specially designed typewriter desk, a lengthy counter, soundproof walls, fluorescent lights and numerous other office appliances that have been added or improved upon. Records since the college opened in 1903 are naturally highly treasured and safely kept in the new vault.

Mr. Heath has put in 29 continuous years of service as college secretary and can recall numerous students of those years whose children have since graduated from the same institution. One reason for the steadily increasing enrollment at the college from year to year is the courteous and efficient manner in which Mr. Heath handles the incoming and outgoing students at the desk, Dr. McCall stated.

BUILD IT ROUND DESK

Dr. McCall's own office has been enlarged and completely remodelled. He proudly points to his large mahogany desk. He hopes eventually to build up the new college around this desk, he stated.

All classrooms and living quarters are brightened up with floors in French grey, walls and ceiling in ivory and white.

Remodelling has also played an important part in making the classrooms more cheerful and therefore an easier place in which to work. The complometer room has been doubled in size. A dictaphone room has been installed. These two provisions bring the college curriculum in business courses as modern as possible

Classes to students over 18 years of age in the business courses opened on Sept. 3. The academic classes will open shortly. Registration has already been so heavy that Dr. McCall is preparing to open up an extra room to accommodate the expected overflow.

School Bells Call Children From Vacations

Variety Of Types Seen Among Young Pupils, As Drifter, Dreamer, Scholar

School days are here again. Thousands of boys and girls have cast aside articles of pleasure and play, replacing them with the grimmer things of their life—books, pens and pencils. Come July, every pupil welcomes the advent of the holiday season. Come September, however, the opening of school is not welcomed by such unanimity of voice. The opening bell will be greeted by a mixture of cheers, jeers and indifference.

Some, possibly the majority, will be glad to turn to books, assignment tests, and all that goes with them. Others, a smaller number fortunately, dread the day that is forcing them from their more pleasant things of life. They hate school and everybody that goes with it. Their only interest in school so often is the thought of more pleasant things after school hours. They are the drifters.

Every classroom has a third and most interesting group of students in the dreamer type. School usually is not a very interesting place for them. Their thoughts are usually far beyond the walls of the room. Very often this type of pupil, though difficult to understand, develops into an outstanding student in some special line in later years. Shakespeare was a pupil of this type, so were most inventors and geniuses.

CHANCE TO DEVELOP

The program of studies in this province has in reecnt years been so revolutionalized that today it gives both the teacher and parent as well as the older pupil opportunity to develop along the lines for which he is most suited.

A careful and interested parent can render unlimited and invaluable service to his child by encouraging him to follow the line of study towards which he himself has ambitions. It is fatal for the parents to make up the mind for their child as to what he is to become. The child, with proper attention from his parents and proper guidance by his teacher, will be judge of his future.

The enterprise system of education in the elementary grades gives the teacher unlimited opportunity to study adaptations of pupils from the first day of school and guiding the pupil in the type of work for which it is best suited.

This begins to take more shape and to cover more scope in the intermediate division. By this time the new course of study gives each pupil opportunity to select the field for which he has greatest ambitions. At this point, the parents' co-operation with teacher and pupil will help greatly towards directing the child into the most fruitful future.

The first few days of school will be spent chiefly in placing high school students. School principals will be conducting personal interviews and assisting boys and girls to decide the course they should or can take. After the first week all will be hard at their studies for another ten months.

Old Pocketbook Feels Pinch As Classes Start

With the opening of school, it is daddy who feels the pinch more than any other member of the household. Mother, though possibly relieved that someone else will be worrying over John's behaviour several hours a day, begins to realize that Johnnie was some help around the place. The big sister possibly feels the same about dishwashing time.

Daddy however may not miss any shortcomings around the home because he seldom is there, but after Johnnie is all decked out for school it is dad's pocketbook that really feels the pinch.

If John were decked out in a complete set of new clothing ready to attend high school total cost of clothing and books would be in the neighborhood of $50.

If John had a sister in about the same grade daddy would be out about another $60, divided between $45 for clothing and at least $15 for books.

Smaller members of the family attending the junior grades would be much less drain on dad's pocketbook. As far as school supplies are concerned, the cost would be a matter of only a few dimes. A complete set of clothing would cost well over $20, however.

Edmonton has an enrollment of approximately 18,000. Striking an average between the cost of clothing and books for high school pupils and those of the lower grades, and assuming that all would be provided with a complete new outfit, the cost of Edmonton fathers would be in the neighborhood of half a million dollars.
